Implementation of Law in the People's Republic of China Jianfu Chen, Yuwen Li, Jan Michiel Otto, 2021-08-04 China after some twenty years of reform is no longer a country without law Indeed one may legitimately complain that there are too many laws that are changing too rapidly However law acquires no life nor performs its intended social functions without proper implementation and enforcement Here few people

Chinese or foreign are content with the general situation of implementation of law in China. The problems and difficulties in implementing and enforcing laws and regulations are reported and discussed in the various forums of the Chinese media almost on a daily basis and often reported in Western media also. Academics in China are filling the pages of various legal journals with their diagnoses and analyses of the causes of and solutions to the lack of proper implementation of law and legal regulations and policy measures are being issued to deal with these problems and to overcome the difficulties. The future of the rule of law in China as we are so often reminded by scholars of Chinese politics and law largely depends on the proper implementation and enforcement of law. This is a book about law in action in China that is it focuses on the administration of the law as a process through which law in the books is put into action and hence is made to perform its intended social functions. It deals with the process, the institutional settings, the players and the political, economic, social and cultural settings, the factors involved in the administration of law in China. Throughout the book we will see a variety of problems and difficulties involved in implementing and enforcing laws and regulations that are identified and analyzed by the contributors. We will also see analyses on legal regulations and policy measures that have been issued to rectify the many identified problems to raise the standard of actual implementation of law and to improve the functioning of the various law implementing enforcing authorities. Additionally, the book provides various case studies on implementation of law in China. The present book we believe is among the first collective efforts at a systematic and comprehensive study of the implementation of law in China and we hope that it will stimulate many more such studies on the actual operation and impact of law on society and on individuals.

Crime and Control in China Børge Bakken, 2022-10-12. China is a transitional society with one of the highest inequality rates in the world. Criminologists would typify this as a highly toxic combination creating very high levels of crime. Yet China reports extremely low crime rates. How might this be? With this book Børge Bakken shows that the reality in China does not match the rosy picture of low crime and rule by law that the authorities present to the world. Looking beyond the statistics Bakken discovers that violent crime is a particularly sensitive issue deliberately censored by party propaganda and by an unaccountable police force that can vanish any type of crime to a degree that makes a crime rate a mere formality. As Bakken reveals, official Chinese crime statistics cannot be used to make assumptions about China's crime profile. Even the assumption that crime represents the problem and control its solution is not valid. Bakken argues. Because when control becomes part of the problem, the false assumption of a harmonious society evaporates, rendering harmony a myth and violence the traumatic reality. This meticulous investigation of crime and justice in China is crucial reading for those interested in the Chinese regime and China's state control as well as criminologists and sociologists of crime.

History of the Insurrection in China Joseph-Marie Callery, Melchior Yvan, 1853. Narrative of the expedition to China, from the commencement of the war John Elliot Bingham, 1842. The Next Frontier David T. Johnson, Franklin E. Zimring, 2009-02-02. Today two thirds of the world's nations have abolished the death penalty either officially or in practice due mainly to the campaign to end state executions led by Western European nations Will this success spread to Asia where over 95 percent of executions now occur Do Asian values and traditions support capital punishment or will development and democratization end executions in the world's most rapidly developing region David T Johnson an expert on law and society in Asia and Franklin E Zimring a senior authority on capital punishment combine detailed case studies of the death penalty in Asian nations with cross national comparisons to identify the critical factors for the future of Asian death penalty policy The clear trend is away from reliance on state execution and many nations with death penalties in their criminal codes rarely use it Only the hard line authoritarian regimes of China Vietnam Singapore and North Korea execute with any frequency and when authoritarian states experience democratic reforms the rate of executions drops sharply as in Taiwan and South Korea Debunking the myth of Asian values Johnson and Zimring demonstrate that politics rather than culture or tradition is the major obstacle to the end of executions Carefully researched and full of valuable lessons The Next Frontier is the authoritative resource on the death penalty in Asia for scholars policymakers and advocates around the world
