Chinese Occupational Welfare In Market Transition:

Chinese Occupational Welfare in Market transition M. Lee, 2000-05-15 Based on a case study carried out in the southern city of Guangzhou in China the book describes in compelling detail the dramatic changes occurring at a large state owned enterprise as this socialist country undergoes market transition It shows how these changes have led to the dismantling of the iron rice bowl the transformation of the socialist work unit and the life of its members and the creation of a new model of occupational welfare Beyond the iron rice bowl Ming Kwan Lee, 1998 Chinese Occupational

Welfare in Market Transition Ming-kwan Lee, 2000-01-01 List of tables and figures Chinese Intellectuals Between State and Market Merle Goldman, Edward Gu, 2005-08-03 This edited volume describes the intellectual world that developed in China in the last decade of the twentieth century How as China s economy changed from a centrally planned to a market one and as China opened up to the outside world and was influenced by the outside world Chinese intellectual activity became more wide ranging more independent more professionalized and more commercially oriented than ever before The future impact of this activity on Chinese civil society is discussed in the last chapter The Transformation of

Chinese Socialism Chun Lin, 2006 A significant contribution to both political theory and China studies this volume provides a critical assessment of the past and future Chinese socialism China's Social Insurance in the Twentieth Century

Aiqun Hu, 2015-10-27 In China s Social Insurance in the Twentieth Century Aiqun Hu develops a framework of interactive diffusion of global models in examining the history of China s social insurance since the 1910s The book covers both Nationalist and Communist controlled areas 1927 1949 and Taiwan 1949 present surpassing the party divide It argues that China s progression in social insurance resulted from diffusion of two global models German capitalist and Soviet socialist social insurance until the early 1990s Thereafter China s social insurance reforms were increasingly directed by the World Bank s neoliberal models which also influenced Taiwan s pension reforms During the entire process however global forces provided the basic intellectual framework while national forces determined the timing and specifics of adopting the models

Rapid economic growth is often a disruptive social process threatening the social relations and ideologies of incumbent regimes Yet far from acting defensively the Chinese Communist Party has lead a major social and economic transformation over forty years without yet encountering fundamental challenges subverting its rule A key question for political sociology is thus how have the logics of China s governmentality been able to help maintain compliance from the governed while acting so radically to advance the state s growth priorities This book explores the issue by analysing the detailed trajectories rationale and effects of China s pension reforms It uses strong methods including institutional analysis of resource allocation in the multiple pension schemes and programmes and quantitative text analysis of the knowledge construction in official discourse along with the reforms Causal identification estimates the effects of key policy instruments on public opinion about pension responsibility and political trust Moving beyond the pension issues the analysis discusses with qualitative evidence why falsified compliance might exist in China's society and the mechanisms that may lie behind it Where active counter conduct such as resistance is confined individuals may choose cognitive rebellion and falsify their public compliance The Chinese state's strategy to generate public compliance is hybrid organic and dynamic The state rules society by its customised governance design and constant adjustments Public compliance is not only acquired through buying off the public with governmental performance and transfer benefits but is also manufactured through achieving cultural changes and new ideological foundations for general legitimation

Gains, Labor's Losses Dorothy J. Solinger, 2018-07-05 In this explicitly comparative work Dorothy J Solinger examines the effects of global markets on the domestic politics of major states In the late 1970s leaders around the world faced a need both to continue productive investment and to cut labor costs to compete internationally in a changed world market To accommodate forces seemingly beyond their control they often opted to reduce social protections and benefits that citizens had come to expect in the process recalibrating their established political economic coalitions For countries whose governance was built on a coalition between workers and the state the political conundrum was particularly intense States Gains Labor's Losses concentrates on three countries China France and Mexico where revolution inspired political compacts between labor and the state had to be renegotiated In all three cases choices to forge a deepened dependence on international capital markets required the ruling parties to fire large numbers of workers and cut social benefits while attempting not to provoke widespread social unrest or even full scale revolt among their supporters China France and Mexico also shared strong legacies of protectionism and state intervention in the economy so the decision of each to join a supranational economic organization France and the EU China and the GATT WTO Mexico and NAFTA in the hope of alleviating crises of capital shortage involved submission to a new set of liberal economic rules that further compromised their sociopolitical compacts Examining a fundamental question about the dynamics of globalization and worker protest through an innovative comparative perspective States Gains Labor's Losses emphasizes the growing tensions and new compromises between the working class and their political leaders in the face of intense international economic pressures

One Hundred Years of Social Protection Lutz Leisering, 2020-12-14 While the rise of social protection in the global North has been widely researched we know little about the history of social protection in the global South This volume investigates the experiences of four middle income countries Brazil India China and South Africa from 1920 to 2020 analysing if when and how these countries articulated a concern about social issues and social cohesion As the first in depth study of the ideational foundations of social protection policies and programmes in these four countries the contributions demonstrate that the social question was articulated in an increasingly inclusive way The contributions identify the ideas beliefs and visions that underpinned the movement towards inclusion and social peace as well as counteracting doctrines Drawing on perspectives from the sociology of knowledge grounded theory historiography discourse analysis and process tracing the volume will be of interest to scholars across political science sociology political economy history area studies and global studies as well as development experts and policymakers China, the Belt and Road Initiative, and the Century of Great Migration Michele Bruni, 2022-04-13 The book argues whether future migrations will be organized by destination countries or by criminal organizations whether migrants will travel in a humane way or will continue to die along the road whether properly trained migrants will boost the productivity of arrival countries or these countries will continue to squander money to build useless walls possibly far from their border and pay neighbours not certainly in the top list from the human right perspective to keep workers they need in concentration camps It suggests that it is in the interest of more developed countries to stop denying their structural shortage of labour and start co managing with one or more potential departure countries migration flows coherent with the quantitative and qualitative needs of their labour market Economic fairness and sound economic thinking would also require destination countries to finance the training of potential migrants in the country of departure in substance to build schools and vocational centres not walls China represents an ideal case study in this regard not only because of its history institutional setting and international relationships but because in the next decades it will be the country most affected by the largest shortage of labour Social Enterprise in China Echo Lei Wang, 2023-07-21 Wang offers an empirically based exploration into work integration social enterprises as a means for delivering social services in China Focusing on the political economy of social enterprise development in China Wang examines the nature of the relationship between the state and social enterprises and the implications of such relationships for their institutional effectiveness She adopts a bottom up approach that investigates indigenous practices embedded within the local political context Common ground has been established internationally that the social enterprise model provides new ways of social service delivery that could potentially change and restructure the social welfare economy However the development path differs across social contexts especially in an authoritarian country like China This study provides insights into China's efforts to develop its social welfare sector and reinvigorate customary ideas about how public services could be better offered given the country's political economy This book will be of great interest to both scholars of China's political economy and those with an interest in the development of the social enterprise sector looking to see how this works in a Chinese context
