Tassi, 2005 In Elizabethan England dramatists and painters were both achieving the greatest degree of artistic excellence yet witnessed but they were also in a state of transition vying for social status and patronage as well as struggling against religious reformers accusations of idolatry and eroticism This interdisciplinary study brings to light the radical inventive ways in which dramatists such as Shakespeare Lyly and Marston appropriated painting and subtly competed with painters to advance their own art and defend theater against Puritan attacks They transformed painting into a provocative stage property and trope that enhanced the language of their scripts and the audience s imaginative participation in the drama At the same time they reflected a profound ambivalence towards painting by staging scenes with painters and pictures that emphasized the dangerous powers inherent in visual images and image making

Writing the Lives of People and Things, AD 500-1700 Robert F.W. Smith, Gemma L. Watson, 2017-05-15 Historical biography has a mixed reputation at its best it can reveal much not only about an individual but the wider context of their life and society at worst it can result in a narrowly focused work of hagiography or condemnation Yet in spite of its sometimes inferior status amongst academics biography has remained a popular genre and in recent years has developed into new and intriguing areas As the essays in this volume reveal scholars from an array of different disciplines have embraced what biography can offer them expanding the remit of biography from people to things tracing the life of their chosen object from creation to use to disposal to rediscovery The increasing concern with the physicality of manuscripts and books has also meant an awareness of and interest in the lives of these forms of material culture Historians have also become increasingly interested in groups of individuals resulting in prosopographical studies A book on the diversity of biography is therefore very timely exploring the multi disciplinary application of historical biography in the period 500 1700 It presents fourteen case studies offering new approaches to historical biography written by early career researchers from backgrounds in archaeology English art architectural history and history demonstrating different approaches and techniques Overall the collection is a strong and united statement by a group of early career researchers who insist on the vitality of biography as a central concern of historians across the disciplines of the humanities Contributors believe that the life is a fundamental medium of study for the medieval and early modern periods and thus bolsters the move back towards biography as a primary tool of medieval and early modern scholars as well as a tool for future research for humanities scholars interested in biography
