Algorithmic Architecture Kostas Terzidis, 2006-08-14 Why does the word design owe its origin to Latin and not Greek roots Where do the limits of the human mind lie How does ambiguity enter the deterministic world of computation Who was Parmenides and why is his philosophy still puzzling today This unique volume challenges the reader to tackle all these complex questions and more Algorithmic Architecture is not a typical theory based architectural book it is not a computer programming or language tutorial book either It contains a series of provocative design projects and yet it is not just a design or graphic art book per se Following the tradition of architecture as a conglomeration of various design fields engineering theory art and recently computation the challenge of this book is to present a concept that like architecture is a unifying theme for many diverse disciplines An algorithm is not only a step by step problem solving procedure a series of lines of computer codes or a mechanistic linguistic expression but is also an ontological construct with deep philosophical social design and artistic repercussions Consequently this book presents many various and often seemingly disparate points of view that lead to the establishment of one common theme algorithmic architecture The Total Question Workout Bennett E.

McClellan,2014-04-02 Heres the one minute description of TQW You have a Big Question of some kind You know its a Big Question because its keeping you up at night the outcome is important and you dont have a ready answer There are four stages you need to go through to answer a Big Question I dont know where you are in the process so let me describe the four stages The first stage involves fully understanding your situation and your motives for wanting to resolve the question that comes from being in that situation The second stage involves separating yourself from the situation you are in You cannot resolve a situation if you see yourself as part of it You have to gain perspective by separating yourself from your situation in as many ways as possible The third stage involves letting go of something that keeps you attached to and subject to the situation you are in Something is holding you back Some fear some projection of implications some belief about what is possible and what is not possible Something As long as you hold onto these things they will hold you back Fourth you need to perceive new possibilities for resolving your Big Question For various reasons you are not able to see alternative resolutions today You need to reframe your question in a way that will enable you to apply the substantial resources you have to address each and every part of the question If you have a Big Question you are stuck at one of those four stages At which stage are you stuck McClellan provides a complete roadmap for getting from the question you have to the question you need to answer Dither no longer Commit to the Total Question Workout Address the Big Question you need to answer to take charge of running your business or your life You can move forward But first you have to take the next step Proof, Evidence and Hate Crime Tshepo Bogosi Mosaka,2025-07-18 Proof is the property of a disputed fact being established inferentially from an extant fact This book explicates the structural components of this phenomenon in the context of hate crimes across various jurisdictions around the world It departs from the orthodox conception of evidence and proof as being a general value neutral or non normative and epistemic subject and offers a relativistic conception of this area of law The core argument is that proof is both semantically and methodologically determined by three conditions of materiality process and probativity This argument is then justified by the context specific application of this relativistic theory of proof to hate crimes This theoretical application of proof is sustained throughout the book using multiple examples and illustrations of hate crimes around the world The discussion both at the level of proof and hate crimes while focusing on the grounds of race religion and ethnicity specifically is framed in jurisprudential cross jurisdictional and interdisciplinary terms The book will be of interest to academics and researchers working in the areas of criminal law legal philosophy and procedural law Research Methods for Public Administrators Gail Johnson,2014-02-12 As in previous editions this highly practical book is written with beginning MPA students and practitioners in mind It focuses on the interpretation and use of research findings not just number crunching It covers the entire research process from initial questions to final report in clear jargon free language and includes numerous easy to understand examples and exercises that provide opportunities for concrete applications of the concepts It is solidly grounded in public administration and recognizes both the promise and limitations of research within a political environment Defending Life Francis J. Beckwith, 2007-08-13 Defending Life is arguably the most comprehensive defense of the pro life position on abortion morally legally and politically that has ever been published in an academic monograph It offers a detailed and critical analysis of Roe v Wade and Planned Parenthood v Casey as well as arguments by those who defend a Rawlsian case for abortion choice such as J J Thomson The author defends the substance view of persons as the view with the most explanatory power The substance view entails that the unborn is a subject of moral rights from conception While defending this view the author responds to the arguments of thinkers such as Boonin Dworkin Stretton Ford and Brody He also critiques Thomson s famous violinist argument and its revisions by Boonin and McDonagh Defending Life includes chapters critiquing arguments found in popular politics and the controversy over cloning and stem cell research
