Moys, 1982 Classification in Theory and Practice Susan Batley, 2005-01-31 This book covers all of the major library classification schemes in use in Europe UK and US it includes practical exercises to demonstrate their application Importantly classifying electronic resources is also discussed The aim of the book is to demystify a very complex subject and to provide a sound theoretical underpinning together with practical advice and development of practical skills The book fills the gap between more complex theoretical texts and those books with a purely practical approach Chapters concentrate purely on classification rather than cataloguing and indexing ensuring a more in depth coverage of the topic Covers the latest Dewey Decimal Classification 22nd edition Provides practical advice on which schemes will be most suitable for different types of library collection Covers classification of electronic resources and taxonomy construction A Handbook of Classification and Cataloguing Margaret S. Taylor, 2021-12-14 This book first published in 1939 deals with the elements of classification and cataloguing from the school library point of view The Dewey Cheltenham and Bliss schemes are fully examined and there is a chapter on the practical application of classification in the library There are simplified rules for Author and Title catalogues while the different kinds of subject catalogues are compared and instructions given for their compilation Many practical examples of cataloguing entries are shown A Selected Bibliography on the Classification of Law Harriet S. Martin, 1952 Essential Classification Vanda Broughton, 2004 Classification is an essential skill for all information workers but a difficult concept to grasp and it s even more difficult to put that theory into practice This practical guide shows the reader how to go about classifying a document from scratch Essential Classification guides the novice cataloguer through the practice of subject cataloguing with an emphasis on practical document analysis and classification It deals with fundamental questions as to the purpose of classification in different situations and the needs and expectations of end users The reader is introduced to the ways in which document content can be assessed and how this can best be expressed for translation into the language of specific indexing and classification systems The characteristics of the major general schemes of classification LCC DDC UDC and BC1 are discussed and their suitability for different classification needs Some basic issues of theory are included to support practical considerations The emphasis in the chapters on the major classification schemes is on the practical application of those schemes Key areas discussed are the purpose of classification the rightness of classification controlled indexing languages concept based retrieval and word based retrieval the structure of classification varieties of classification 1 the enumerative scheme varieties of classification 2 the analytico synthetic scheme varieties of classification 3 the faceted scheme management aspects of classification the need for classification After reading this book the novice cataloguer will understand the purpose of classification will be able to choose the best classification scheme to use for their purposes and will have practical experience of the application of those schemes using real documents practical exercises and worked examples Readership This is essential reading for library school students novice cataloguers and all information workers who need to classify but have not formally been taught how The book also offers practical guidance to those concerned with the design and maintenance of subject tools computer scientists and information and intranet managers Law Library
