Hallin, Paolo Mancini, 2011-11-28 Comparing Media Systems Beyond the Western World offers a broad exploration of the conceptual foundations for comparative analysis of media and politics globally It takes as its point of departure the widely used framework of Hallin and Mancini's Comparing Media Systems exploring how the concepts and methods of their analysis do and do not prove useful when applied beyond the original focus of their most similar systems design and the West European and North American cases it encompassed It is intended both to use a wider range of cases to interrogate and clarify the conceptual framework of Comparing Media Systems and to propose new models concepts and approaches that will be useful for dealing with non Western media systems and with processes of political transition Comparing Media Systems Beyond the Western World covers among other cases Brazil China Israel Lebanon Lithuania Poland Russia Saudi Arabia South Africa and Thailand Comparing Cultures Michael Schnegg, Edward D. Yetley, Sovan Tun, 1984 Extract Three food demand estimation procedures were compared to find which best measures the structure of food demand These procedures were Seemingly Unrelated Regression Block Additive and Ordinary Least Squares The focus was on food commodity substitution The comparison of results was made on the basis of commodity demand and net change in calories consumed as estimated by each procedure Each procedure projects a similar pattern of commodity demand and net caloric intake change Overall the Seemingly Unrelated Regression procedure provides the most reasonable and consistent results Racializing Humankind: Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Practices of 'Race' and Racism Julian T. D. Gärtner, Malin Wilckens, 2022-02-14 Debates on historical and contemporary racism have recently become the subject of increasing public interest The Black Lives Matter movement as well as the Covid 19 pandemic have underlined the importance and urgent necessity of examining racism in society from a multidisciplinary angle The many facets of racism in the past and present also challenge the way we deal with history historical culture in a globalized world Rather than focusing on the history of ideas and its discursive development this volume will focus on the practices of actors It examines how and which practices especially practices of comparing are constitutive in the construction of race and manifestations of racism This edited volume brings together interdisciplinary contributions from history sociology political science American studies literary studies and media studies An important focus lies on the social asymmetries created by racialization including inequalities and violence The chapters foreground historical and contemporary practices of racism and discuss their appearance in different epochs and locations New Method of Comparing Two Self-inductances Hubert Vinton

Carpenter,1900 Apples vs Oranges Xena Mindhurst,2025-01-05 Apples vs Oranges challenges the age old saying about comparing dissimilar things presenting a groundbreaking exploration of how we make decisions and solve problems through comparative analysis Drawing from four decades of cognitive psychology research the book dismantles the notion that comparing different items is impossible instead demonstrating how such comparisons are crucial for innovation and personal growth Through a blend of scientific research and practical applications it reveals how our brains process comparisons and why we often struggle with comparing seemingly unrelated concepts The book s three part structure guides readers from theoretical foundations to practical implementation introducing a six step framework for analyzing disparate situations and tools for identifying hidden similarities Notable insights include how cognitive biases influence our comparative thinking and the role of structured analysis in decision making The author masterfully connects findings from cognitive psychology organizational behavior and decision theory supporting arguments with case studies from Fortune 500 companies and cross cultural research What sets this book apart is its evidence based approach to improving analytical thinking skills offering readers concrete tools while maintaining scientific rigor Rather than relying on anecdotal advice it presents practical exercises and assessment tools that help readers apply concepts across various life situations The content particularly resonates with professionals and individuals seeking to enhance their problem solving capabilities bridging the gap between cognitive science and real world applications in business education and personal relationships Comparative Education Research Mark Bray,Bob Adamson,Mark Mason,2007-08-21 Approaches and methods in comparative education research are of obvious importance but do not always receive adequate attention This book contributes new insights within the longstanding traditions of the field A particular feature is the focus on different units of analysis Individual chapters compare places systems times cultures values policies curricula and other units These chapters are contextualised within broader analytical frameworks which identify the purposes and strengths of the field The book includes a focus on intra national as well as cross national comparisons and highlights the value of approaching themes from different angles The book will be of great value not only to producers of comparative education research but also to consumers who wish to understand more thoroughly the parameters and value of the field International Comparison of Physical Education Uwe Pühse,2005 Even though Physical Education is considered as a basic right of all children views vary on what comprises quality Physical Education Huge differences exist between countries and regions In this important book the situation of Physical Education is compared by means of a worldwide survey This allows the definition of some universally accepted features and concepts and of appropriate responses to common problems It is the first publication to provide concentrated information on the state of
