Maria D. Lane, 2011 This volume explores the origins of our Martian obsession in the late nineteenth century and examines the way turn of the century Americans and Europeans thought about space knowledge and power The author paints a picture of how scientists and the public saw Mars around the beginning of the 20th century when canals on the Red Planet seemed a very real possibility It is a story of mountain observatories of fieldwork conducted at a distance and of how Mars's geographers sought social and scientific legitimacy exploring how astronomy and geography intersected in the debates over the existence of life on Mars Publications of the Geological Survey Geological Survey (U.S.), 1948 The Planet Observer's Handbook Fred W. Price, 2000-10-26 This is an informative up to date and well illustrated guide to planetary observations for amateurs After a brief description of the solar system and a chapter on the celestial sphere readers are shown how to choose test and use a telescope with various accessories and how to make observations and record results For each planet and the asteroids details are given of observational techniques together with suggestions for how to make contributions of scientific value From a general description and detailed observational history of each planet observers can anticipate what they should see and assess their own observations The chapter on planetary photography includes the revolutionary use of videography charge coupled devices and video assisted drawing There are also chapters on making maps and planispheres and on photoelectric photometry Encyclopedia of Paleoclimatology and Ancient Environments Vivien Gornitz, 2008-10-31 One of Springer's Major Reference Works this book gives the reader a truly global perspective It is the Kallenbach,Johannes Geiss,W.K. Hartmann,2013-11-11 Mars is about one eighth the mass of the Earth and it may provide an analogue of what the Earth was like when it was at such an early stage of accretion The further growth of the Earth was sustained by major collisions with planetesimals and planets such as that which resulted in the formation of the Earth's moon Hartmann and Davis 1975 Cameron and Ward 1976 Wetherill 1986 Cameron and Benz 1991 This late accretionary history which lasted more than 50 Myr in the case of the Earth Halliday 2000a b appears to have been shorter and less catastrophic in the case of Mars Harper et al 1995 Lee and Halliday 1997 In this article we review the basic differences between the bulk composition of Mars and the Earth and the manner in which this plays into our understanding of the timing and mechanisms of accretion and core formation We highlight some of the evidence for early cessation of major collisional growth on Mars Finally we reevaluate the isotopic evidence that Mars differentiated quickly Fundamental differences between the composition of Mars and that of other terrestrial planets are apparent from the planet's slightly lower density and from the compositions of Martian meteorites The low density is partially explicable if there is a greater proportion of more volatile elements Martian Geomorphology Matthew R. Balme,2011 The latest Mars missions are returning data of unprecedented fidelity in their representation of the martian surface New data include images with spatial resolution better than 30 cm per pixel stereo imaging derived terrain models with one meter postings high resolution imaging spectroscopy and RADAR data that reveal subsurface structure This book reveals how this information is being used to understand the evolution of martian landscapes and includes topics such as fluvial flooding permafrost and periglacial landforms debris flows deposition and erosion of sedimentary material and the origin of lineaments on Phobos the larger martian moon Contemporary remote sensing data of Mars on a par with those of Earth reveal landscapes strikingly similar to regions of our own planet so this book will be of interest to Earth scientists and planetary scientists alike An overview chapter summarising Mars climate geology and exploration is included for the benefit of those new to Mars Extraterrestrial Life NASA Scientific and Technical Information Facility,1965 Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports ,1991 Lists citations with abstracts for aerospace related reports obtained from world wide sources and announces documents that have recently been entered into the NASA Scientific and Technical Information Database Literature 1980, Part 1 Siegfried Böhme,Ute Esser,Professor Dr. Walter Fricke,Inge Heinrich,Wilfried Hofmann,Dietlinde Krahn,Dorothea Rosa,Dr. Lutz D.
