400 and still burning M. A. Hoad,2007 Remember Remember the fifth of November The gunpowder treason and plot I see no reason why gunpowder and treason should ever be forgot Not something you hear everyday but down on the south coast there is still a fixation to celebrate an event from over four hundred years ago One day a year the historic town of Battle East Sussex sheds off its conservatism and feeds the flames of ancient rebellion Bonfire celebrations here are not a few friends with a couple of sparklers and baked potatoes around a bonfire in the garden but a year long preparation cumulating with a fiery and explosive parades around the town which includes reputedly the oldest guy in the world a huge firework display and a Normus Gurt bonfire witnessed by up to twenty thousands people but almost unknown outside the county borders It has a four hundred year history which tales the story of how celebrations of the failure of the gunpowder plot evolved into today s multi organisation event It includes the story of the perpetual struggle to keep the event alive against the back drop of indifference and even downright opposition from the establishment It includes tales of how a local creation was instrumental in the law of the land being changed How through all its problems the devotion of a band of Bonfire Boyes the event has and still raises thousands of pounds for local charities Patchwork of Poems Moira Andrew,2000 A collection of poems on popular themes familiar to young children Photocopiable and illustrated the poems provide opportunities for class discussion for poetry writing by the children and display of their work The Hallowed Eve Jack Santino,2021-10-21 In Northern Ireland Halloween is such a major celebration that it is often called the Irish Christmas A day of family reunions meals and fun Halloween brings people of all ages together with rhyming storytelling family fireworks and community bonfires Perhaps most important it has become a day that transcends the social conflict found in this often troubled nation Through the extensive use of interviews The Hallowed Eve offers a fascinating look at the various customs both past and present that mark the celebration of the holiday Looking through the lenses of gender ethnicity and religious affiliation Jack Santino examines how the traditions exist in a nonthreatening celebratory way to provide a model of how life could be in Northern Ireland Halloween concludes Santino is a marriage of death and life a joining of cultural opposites indoor and outdoor domesticity and wildness male and female old and young Although current folk and popular traditions can be divisive Halloween in Northern Ireland is universally considered to belong to everyone regardless of their background or political leanings The holiday is a dramatic example of how a community comes together one day a year and these Northern Irish traditions capture the fundamental and everyday dimensions of life in Ulster beyond the headlines This book is the perfect companion on your journey Bonfire Night Julian Robert Breeds,2018-05-30 A bonfire blazes in Outback Australia Two men sit all night in its glow commemorating their dead friend He blew his head off with a shotgun Bonfires burn across Lewes England commemorating Guy Fawkes Night As crowds of revellers lurch through the streets a boy stands teetering on the ledge of a bridge waiting for the train to pass below Two different lives two different places one story to tell Halloween and Other Festivals of Death and Life Jack Santino,2025-03-14 Why do we celebrate Halloween No one gets the day off and unlike all other major holidays it has no religious or governmental affiliation A survivor of our pre Christian agrarian roots it has become one of the most popular and widely celebrated festivals on the contemporary American calendar Jack Santino has put together the first collection of essays to examine the evolution of Halloween from its Celtic origins through its adaptation into modern culture Using a wide variety of perspectives and approaches the thirteen essayists examine customs communities and material culture to reveal how Halloween has manifested itself throughout all aspects of our society to become not just a marginal survivor of a dying tradition but a thriving contemporary post industrial festival Its steadily increasing popularity despite overcommercialization and criticism is attributed to its powerful symbolism that employs both pre Christian images and concepts from popular culture to appeal to groups of all ages orientations and backgrounds However the essays in this volume also suggest that there is something ironic and unsettling about the immense popularity of a holiday whose main images are of death evil and the grotesque Halloween and other Festivals of Death and Life is a unique contribution that questions our concepts of religiosity and spirituality while contributing to our understanding of Halloween as a rich and diverse reflection of our society's past present and future identity The Chemistry of Fireworks Michael S.
