Young Audiences, Theatre and the Cultural Conversation John O'Toole, Ricci-Jane Adams, Michael Anderson, Bruce Burton, Robyn Ewing, 2013-12-17 This volume offers rare insights into the connection between young audiences and the performing arts Based on studies of adolescent and post adolescent audiences ages 14 to 25 the book examines to what extent they are part of our society's cultural conversation It studies how these young people read and understand theatrical performance It looks at what the educational components in their theatre literacy are and what they make of the whole social event of theatre It studies their views on the relationship between what they themselves decide and what others decide for them The book uses qualitative and quantitative data collected in a six year study carried out in the three largest Australian States thirteen major performing arts companies including the Sydney Opera House three state theatre companies and three funding organisations The book's perspectives are derived from world wide literature and company practices and its significance and ramifications are international The book is written to be engaging and accessible to theatre professionals and lay readers interested in theatre as well as scholars and researchers This extraordinary book thoroughly explains why young people ages 14 25 do and do not attend theatre into adulthood by delineating how three inter linked factors literacy confidence and etiquette influence their decisions Given that theatre happens inside spectators minds the authors balance the theatre equation by focusing upon young spectators and thereby dispel numerous beliefs held by theatre artists and educators Each clearly written chapter engages readers with astute insights and compelling examples of pertinent responses from young people teachers and theatre professionals To stem the tide of decreasing theatre attendance this highly useful book offers pragmatic strategies for artistic educational and marketing directors as well as national theatre organizations and arts councils around the world I have no doubt that its brilliantly conceived research conducted across multiple contexts in Australia will make a significant and original contribution to the profession of theatre on an international scale Jeanne Klein University of Kansas USA

Young Audiences Theatre and the Cultural Conversation is a compelling and comprehensive study on attitudes and habits of youth theatre audiences by leading international scholars in the field This benchmark study offers unique insights by and for theatre makers and administrators theatre educators and researchers schools parents teachers students audience members of all ages A key strength within the book centers on the emphasis of the participant voices particularly the voices of the youth Youth voices along with those of teachers and theatre artists position the extensive field research front and center George Belliveau The University of British Columbia Canada

Serving Young Teens and 'Tweens Sheila B. Anderson, 2006-11-30 Notable teen experts and stellar practitioners from across the country explain why library service to adolescents in this age range is so important and how you can enhance your collection and services to accommodate and win over this important group Topics range from understanding adolescent informational needs and building and promoting a winning collection to creating programs with tween appeal Contributors include Sheila B Anderson James Rosinia Deb Taylor Robyn Lupa and Kristine Mahood Brimming with valuable insights and fresh ideas as well as nuts and bolts directions this is a must read for all librarians who work with young adolescents If someone is described as a young adult what image comes to mind In fact a young adult can be a twelve year old middle schooler or a high school graduate Libraries have traditionally offered a variety programs and services for YAs and although more emphasis has been given to serving teens in recent years little has been done to distinguish between groups within the category and meet the specific developmental needs of this broad range of library users This collection complements Anderson's previous collection Serving Older Teens by focusing on the needs of tweens and young teens ages 11-14 This is the age range when many young people stop using the library and lose interest in reading Notable teen experts and stellar practitioners from across the country explain why service to adolescents in this age range is so important and how you can enhance your collection and services to accommodate and win over this important group Topics range from understanding adolescent informational needs and building and promoting a winning collection to creating programs with tween appeal Contributors include Sheila Anderson, James Rosinia, Deb Taylor, Robyn Lupa, Brenda Hager, and Kristine Mahood Brimming with valuable insights and fresh ideas as well as nuts and bolts directions, this is a must read for all librarians who work with young adolescents Rough Magic

Steven Adler, 2001 Broadway stage manager, director, and teacher Steven Adler discusses the history of the Royal Shakespeare Company (RSC). During six years of research, Adler attended more than 40 RSC productions. The text is based largely upon interviews with more than 60 members of the Company, including actors, directors, stagehands, designers, producers, stage managers, craftspeople, and administrators. Coverage includes theater facilities, budgeting, producing, directing, designing, and acting. c. Book News, Inc. Translating Children's Literature

Gillian Lathey, 2015-07-24

Translating Children's Literature is an exploration of the many developmental and linguistic issues related to writing and translating for children, an audience that spans a period of enormous intellectual progress and affective change from birth to adolescence. Lathey looks at a broad range of children's literature, from prose fiction to poetry and picture books. Each of the seven chapters addresses a different aspect of translation for children, covering Narrative style and the challenges of translating the child's voice; The translation of cultural markers for young readers; Translation of the modern picture book; Dialogue, dialect, and street language in modern children's literature; Read-aloud qualities, wordplay, onomatopoeia, and the translation of children's poetry; Retranslation, retelling, and reworking; The role of translation for children within the global publishing and translation industries. This is the first practical guide to address all aspects of translating children's literature, featuring extracts from commentaries and interviews with published translators of children's literature, as well as examples and case studies across a range of languages and texts. Each chapter includes a set of questions and exercises for students. Translating Children's Literature is essential reading for professional translators, researchers, and students on courses in translation studies or children's literature.
