Hopkins,Edward Fraser Hopkins,1921 Tulip Universe Marques Vickers,2016-06-02 Tulip Universe is photographer Marques Vickers visual survey of the cup shaped flower often popularly misunderstood and underestimated for its beauty His pictorial edition features over 110 images of this exotic flower capturing the diversity of colors and complexity of design From the Preface by Linda L Allen Tulips are generally perceived as a simple sweet flower In truth there are over 3 000 varieties that include every color other than blue and have a history as fascinating as the most glorious rose or exotic orchid The tulip is commonly thought to have originated in the Netherlands in particular Holland Cultivation actually began in Central Asia over a thousand years ago and was later brought East by the Turks In the mid 1600 s they were introduced to Europe In an unusual twist the Dutch obsession was fueled in part by a virus that caused broken tulips The disease identified by the botanist Carolus Clusius caused gorgeous striations within flower s color Tulip Mania was rampant and the price of bulbs soared At its height some bulbs sold for 10 times an average workingman s yearly salary and cost more than most homes Speculation on future crops earned tulips the dubious distinction of having caused the first investment bubble Although opinions differ and there is no recorded history it is generally accepted that the resulting market crash had a catastrophic effect on the country s economy The spring blooming tulips are members of the Liliaceae family which includes asparagus aloe garlic onions and wide diversity of flowers Their height varies from less than 8 inches to 2 feet and may bloom from 1 to 3 weeks although their bloom time is usually limited to 1 7 days Commonly there is one flower per stem but some varieties have up to 4 There may be from 2 12 leaves While many have no scent some are known for their beautiful scent Most varieties of tulips are almost perfectly symmetrical It appears that the flower possesses 6 petals Actually they have 3 petals and 3 sepals Since the sepals and petals are almost the same size and shape the common misconception was developed As mentioned tulips come in every color but blue The most common are yellow orange violet pink and red with the last being the most popular Today some varieties combine a variety of colors and rival the showiest tropical flower Rather than a virus they are the result of extensive breeding programs The Black Tulip Alexandre Dumas,1870 Distribution of Tulip and Narcissus Bulbs in 1917 United States. Goldgar,2008-09-15 In the 1630s the Netherlands was gripped by tulipmania a speculative fever unprecedented in scale and as popular history would have it folly We all know the outline of the story how otherwise sensible merchants nobles and artisans spent all they had and much that they didn't on tulip bulbs We have heard how these bulbs changed hands hundreds of times in a single day and how some bulbs sold and resold for thousands of guilders never even existed Tulipmania is seen as an example of the gullibility of crowds and the dangers of financial speculation But it wasn't like that As Anne Goldgar reveals in Tulipmania not one of these stories is true Making use of extensive archival research she lays waste to the legends revealing that while the 1630s did see a speculative bubble in tulip prices neither the height of the bubble nor its bursting were anywhere near as dramatic as we tend to think By clearing away the accumulated myths Goldgar is able to show us instead the far more interesting reality the ways in which tulipmania reflected deep anxieties about the transformation of Dutch society in the Golden Age Goldgar tells us at the start of her excellent debunking book Most of what we have heard of tulipmania is not true She tells a new story Simon Kuper Financial Times Tech Stock Valuation Mark
