Alternative Management Systems for Fisheries David Symes, 1999-03-19 The approach of a new millennium provides a suitable opportunity to reassess existing management systems and to seek out more appropriate systems for the future The debate which is initiated by the reform of the Common Fisheries Policy in 2002 is likely to prove wide ranging As a contribution to the debate this book focuses on the need for institutional change in order to accommodate new policy objectives new stakeholders and new regulatory measures Alternative management systems are examined at different levels from the regionalisation of the CFP through coastal state participation in the management of local fisheries Issues of integrated fisheries management are explored through a number of approaches including ecosystem management the Marine Stewardship Council and integrated coastal zone management Several Contributions focus on alternative means of controlling fishing effort and their enforcement The Fisheries Co-management Experience Douglas Clyde Wilson, Jesper Raakjaer Nielsen, Poul Degnbol, 2013-03-09 For two decades the idea of governments and fishers working together to manage fisheries has been advocated questioned disparaged and most importantly attempted in fisheries from North and South America through Europe Africa Asia and Oceania This book is the first time these experiences have been pulled together in a single volume summarized and explained The Fisheries Co management Experience begins with a review of the intellectual foundations of the co management idea from several professional perspectives Next fisheries researchers from six global regions describe what has been happening on the ground in their area Finally the volume offers a set of reflections by some of the best authors in the field The end result describes both the state of the art and emerging issues for one of the most important trends in natural resources management

Participation in Fisheries Governance Tim S. Gray, 2006-06-30 The chapters focus on three main themes first what value does stakeholder participation bring to fisheries governance Its advocates claim that participation improves the quality of decision making resolves conflicts and increases compliance with regulations On the other hand critics argue that participation is often unnecessary ineffective costly time consuming and cosmetic The second theme is the relationship between the participatory mode and the current switch from single species based fisheries management to the ecosystem based approach EBA In what way does widening the extent of public participation contribute to the EBA Third is the vexed question of the relationship between fishers experiential knowledge and fisheries science how far does fishers knowledge improve our understanding of the marine environment The central message of the book is that while stakeholder participation is beneficial it carries with it responsibilities as well as rights all stakeholders have a public duty to act as stewards for the marine environment Evolving Approaches to Managing Marine Recreational Fisheries Donald

Cochrane,Serge M. Garcia,2009-06-15 Co published with the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations Fisheries management is the process that has evolved to try to ensure that fisheries operate in a manner that provides the immediate benefits in a sustainable manner The widely accepted goal is that the full range of benefits should not only be available for this generation but for generations to come Fisheries management has been successful in some cases but there have also been many many cases of failure This volume is intended to contribute to improving this unsatisfactory state by addressing the widespread need for information and guidance on the broad and often complex task of fisheries management It is an updated and expanded edition of the first version of A fishery manager s guidebook which was published as a FAO Fisheries Technical Paper in 2002 The major part of this new edition is divided into five parts intended to cover the range of concerns tools and techniques essential to the modern fisheries manager whether that manager is an individual or a formal or informal group Following the Introduction Part I examines the primary dimensions of fisheries biological ecological social and economic Part II looks at the legal and institutional characteristics of fisheries Part III explores the tools that fishery managers have to achieve the objectives expected from a fishery Part IV discusses the role of scientific information of indicators and reference points Part V moves into implementation of fisheries management and includes a chapter on special considerations in small scale fisheries This landmark publication is aimed at fishery managers and scientists All libraries in research establishments and universities where fisheries and aquatic sciences are studied and taught will need copies of this important volume Fisheries around the world make essential contributions to human well being including the provision of basic food supplies employment recreational opportunities foreign currency and others providing benefits to hundreds of millions of people Despite these benefits our record of managing fisheries so that the benefits can be sustained has been poor at best and most fisheries around the world are experiencing serious ecological social or economic problems and usually all three Today there is global concern about the state of fishery resources and aquatic ecosystems their resilience to future stresses such as climate change and their ability to continue to provide benefits

Implementing and Enforcing European Fisheries Law Astrid Berg,2023-09-20 Within the European Union overfishing overcapacity and non compliance with the system of catch quotas are threatening the very existence of some fisheries resources In dealing with these problems the Common Fisheries Policy CFP has developed into one of the most regulated areas of the European Union Yet in order to provide for the necessary implementation and enforcement frameworks the European Union strongly relies on the Member States a reliance on fifteen different legal systems with different regulatory capacities different legal traditions and different enforcement systems of criminal law administrative law private law or disciplinary law Implementing and Enforcing European Fisheries Laws focuses on the legal and practical problems of the implementation and enforcement of the EU's catch quotas in a shared legal order It examines in detail how effective enforcement can be achieved in a process of European integration A distinctive feature of this book is the attention given to the trend towards sectoralization whereby management and enforcement responsibilities are shared between the central government and organisations representing fishermen To what extent does sectoralization affect traditional systems of public law enforcement What does resort to the fishing sector itself mean for the degree of legal control Member States exercise over these systems The book is divided into three sections Part One examines the Community law context Part Two investigates implementation and enforcement in the Netherlands and the United Kingdom and analyzes the effectiveness of the existing regulatory frameworks and the systems of criminal administrative and disciplinary law used to enforce the fisheries laws and regulations Part Three compares the national systems in the light of European law requirements and the protection of individual rights The book concludes with the future of fisheries enforcement and considers the potential changes in enforcement The study is of importance for the future role of the CFP and its possible effects on national implementation and enforcement More generally the book reveals the shifting distribution of responsibilities between the Community and the national institutions and actors involved and shows many of the possibilities for and the limits of regulatory enforcement in a setting of European integration

Fishing Europe's Troubled Waters David Symes, 2023-03-31 Spanning the last 50 years of fisheries policy in Europe this book is the parting contribution and career spanning reflection from one of Europe's most renowned social scientists working in the field of fisheries management and policy The last 50 years have without doubt been the most turbulent years in the history of North Atlantic fisheries a turbulence brought about by the actions of fishers scientists and above all politicians It is a period of change that sees a radical redrawing of the political geography of fisheries globalisation of trade the development of fisheries management towards increasingly restrictive regulation and declining fish stocks The book explains why the bold but deeply flawed Common Fisheries Policy persistently failed to deliver its basic goal of sustainable fisheries The spotlight falls on the monolithic highly centralised command and control nature of the Policy that strives to apply a universal one size fits all approach thus creating a governing system wholly unsuited to the system to be governed out of kilter with preferred models of governance and disconnected from the practical realities of fishing as a livelihood in a challenging environment A final section on Brexit focuses on its halting progress from concept to reality the implications for the fisheries sector and the fateful final negotiations with the EU over the fisheries question Seeking to explain why the anticipated benefits for the UK industry failed to materialise attention is drawn to the misplaced political hubris over regaining sovereignty in areas like the North Sea This book will be essential reading for students scholars professionals and policymakers working on fisheries marine governance natural resource management environmental policy and the European Project Using Market Mechanisms to Manage Fisheries Smoothing the Path OECD,2006-04-04 This study demystifies the concept of market like instruments in order to help policy makers make better use of market like instruments in fisheries management Case Studies on the Allocation of Transferable Quota Rights in Fisheries Ross Shotton,Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2001-01-01 This report contains 23 studies which examine the initial allocations of transferable fishing quotas by a variety of fisheries management regimes The case studies include accounts from the UK the Netherlands Iceland Canada United States South Africa Australia and New Zealand Salmon S. Shaw,J.F.
