Walking the Tightrope Vibha Bakshi Gokhale,1996 Feminist account of the chief writings of Therese Huber the important 19th c German author The German writer Therese Huber 1764 1829 lived at a time when women s activity outside the home was widely condemned but the need to support themselves and their families forced many female writers to turn towards writing as a means of earning their livelihood Her prolific career encompassing novels short prose narratives and translations from French into German besides the editing of a newspaper demonstrates her ability to express herself while conforming to the male literary establishment This study examines Huber s short prose narratives showing the influence of various factors on women s writing and the ways in which female writers incorporated dissent from the conventions into their works without jeopardising their professional and personal lives Huber s works are both moralising persuading her readers to become good housewives and mothers and dissenting constructing characters who refuse to abide by the norms The author s feminist analysis of her narratives brings out their subtext of protest showing how Huber negotiates for women s rights to self expression
