

CONDUCTING THE INTERNAL AUDIT ENGAGEMENT

1. ENGAGEMENT INFORMATION

1.1 INTRODUCTION

Internal audit work includes (1) engagement planning; (2) identifying, analyzing, evaluating, and documenting information; (3) communicating results; and (4) monitoring progress to ensure compliance with the International Professional Framework Framework of the IIA.

This process includes identifying, analyzing and evaluating information, through the execution of an engagement program.

The process also includes the gathering of qualitative evidence and the resulting information on appropriate auditing program.

Early in the process, evidence is based on observations, conclusions and recommendations.

1.2 IDENTIFYING AND GATHERING INFORMATION

Identify and Gather Information

Internal auditors must identify sufficient, reliable, relevant and useful information to achieve the engagement's objectives.

- Sufficient information is reliable, adequate in quantity and of sufficient quality to support conclusions that have been reached on the internal audit.
- Reliable information is the basis for the information through the use of appropriate engagement techniques.
- Relevant information supports engagement observations and conclusions that are in compliance with the objectives for the engagement.
- Useful information helps the organization meet its goals.

Obtain Information and make a decision

The internal auditor should ensure that most appropriate procedures for gathering evidence.

The internal auditor will collect information on all matters related to engagement objectives and scope of work.

Internal auditors should be based upon facts and supported by appropriate evidence.

When performing audit engagements the internal auditor will ensure the quality of evidence, its use, its reliability and the independence and objectivity of the process.

This through process of gathering information is essential to sufficient support for engagement objectives, conclusions and recommendations.
