Albanian Cinema through the Fall of Communism Bruce Williams, 2025-10-01 Albanian cinema truly represents a terra incognita for most of the world Decidedly Europe's most isolated country during the Cold War era communist Albania had already been cut off from the West for centuries as a one of the western most outposts of the Ottoman empire Nonetheless and unknown to most of the world communist Albania had a vibrant cinema tradition Although bound by official orthodoxy the films of the state run Kinostudio enterprise were surprisingly innovative and at times daringly subversive This book opens with examinations of moving images in Albania from the Ottoman period through those captured under independence and the Fascist occupation It subsequently foregrounds transformations in Kinostudio from the early optimism of socialist realism through the brooding social angst of the 1980s which constitute a bridge to the socioeconomic concerns of Albanian films of the postcommunist period

The Alchemical Carnival of Eternal Dusk Heather Thornton, 2025-01-03 Step right up step right up to the Alchemical Carnival of Eternal Dusk where the air crackles with burnt sugar and forgotten dreams Beneath an Arizona sky perpetually kissed by twilight this is no ordinary carnival It's a crucible for the soul a labyrinth of illusion where the past whispers from the shadows and the future shimmers like a mirage Mira Alden a juggler haunted by a self-imposed amnesia arrives seeking not amusement but a cure Her hands skilled in manipulating both objects and memories tremble with a desperate need to piece together the fractured mosaic of her lost identity The carnival for her is not a playground but a battlefield Within this hallucinogenic realm she encounters Corin Finch a sardonic potion maker whose eyes hold the weight of centuries He becomes her reluctant guide offering a shimmering draught that unlocks the hidden chambers of Mira's mind Together they embark on a quest for the Seven Keys of Self-mystical artifacts rumored to restore Mira's memories each hidden within the carnival's most surreal attractions Their journey begins on the Carousel of Forgotten Dreams a macabre merry-go-round where spectral figures beckon from painted horses In the Hall of Whispers sentient mirrors reflect not their outward forms but the hidden scars within With each key discovered a new layer of Mira's past is revealed a loving grandmother's whispered tales a romance cut short by tragedy a shadowy figure lurking at the edges of her mind But they are not alone The Carnival Master a figure wreathed in shadows and the scent of burnt sugar watches their every move He is a collector of lost souls and he sees in Mira a prize beyond measure manifesting her deepest fears into grotesque obstacles A childhood terror of clowns twists into a troop of razor toothed harlequins while Corin's fear of abandonment takes the form of spectral whispers promising oblivion. As they delve deeper, Mira and Corin's alliance blossoms into something more—a flicker of connection in the overwhelming darkness. But the closer they get to the truth, the more dangerous the carnival becomes. In the Library of Lost Narratives, they face the temptation to rewrite their pasts. Within the Labyrinth of Reflections, Mira confronts the shattering trauma that fractured her identity. The final key lies within the Grand Tent of Illusions, the Carnival Master's inner sanctum. Here, amidst a kaleidoscope of light and shadow, Mira must confront not only the Carnival Master but the fragmented pieces of herself. Will she succumb to the seductive promise of oblivion, or will she reclaim her story and step into the dawn of a new beginning?

Lilla is on her way to meet Enzo, and together they intend to leave on a steamship for a new life in America. First, though, they must evade his father's spies. For Don Carmelo believes the daughter of a fisherman unworthy of his son's affections, and second, they must survive the greatest earthquake in the city's long history. In July 1943, Mira receives a visit from Lieutenant Aldo de la Grascia at her family home in the village of Ganzirri. Mira is fond of the officer, and without his continuous gift of provisions, her café would have closed long ago. However, the war has already made her a widow, and Mira isn't sure if she is ready to love again. Then, late one night, an Italian sailor knocks on her door and asks her to help his companion, a wounded British naval officer. And in the summer of 2018, on the beach at Capo Peloro, Angelica is intrigued by an Englishwoman who speaks Sicilian in the Messinese dialect and who seems more than a little melancholy. In the afternoon, the woman goes for a swim and is caught in the strong tides that run through the Strait. Angelica wonders whether the woman has put herself in danger intentionally and knows there is little that can be done to prevent her from drowning—that is, until a feluca appears. A three-part novel based on historical events, Constant Tides follows the loves of three courageous women through the spring, summer, and autumn of their lives in the Strait of Messina, Sicily.
