U.S. food and tobacco manufacturing industries John M. Connor, 1980 The Dynamics of Industrial Competition John R. Baldwin, Paul Gorecki, 1998-09-13 The Dynamics of Industrial Competition describes the internal dynamics of industries using new and unique longitudinal data that make it possible to track firms over time It provides a comprehensive picture of a number of aspects of firm turnover in North America that arise from the competitive process the entry and the exit of firms the growth and the decline of incumbent firms and the merger process Instantaneous and cumulative measures of market dynamics are provided Since the forces contributing to competition are varied and industries are affected by heterogeneous forces different aspects of firm turnover are considered in order to provide a comprehensive overview of the competitive process Entry is divided into that portion coming from the creation of new plants and that portion arising from the acquisition of existing firms Differences are drawn between the effects of related and unrelated acquisitions and between the effects of take overs made by domestic and foreign firms Differences between large and small firm activity are also investigated The effects of turnover on productivity efficiency wage rates and profitability are extensively model led Using various measures of firm turnover to proxy the amount of competition the study examines and contextualizes the relationship between industry performance and the intensity of the competitive process The food industry in Brazil and the United

Industry Agglomerations and Regional Development in Hungary Cordula Wandel, 2010 In context with the Eastern enlargement of the European Union this research deals with the effects of pre and post enlargement integration policies on industry concentration and regional development in Hungary Economic processes are analysed empirically and by means of regression analyses with a spatial perspective and in the framework of the new economic geography over a time span of almost two decades The results for the manufacturing industries and for regional specialization show which economic centres played a role for the economic development of the country over time The roles which agglomerations and regional specialization can play are discussed with a view to the problems of cohesion in Hungary the enlarged EU and future EU accession countries The conclusions also take into account the current political and academic debate regarding European

Economics of Innovation: The Case of Food Industry Giovanni Galizzi, Luciano Venturini, 2012-12-06 Giovanni Galizzi and Luciano Venturini The food industry has been characterized by several and profound changes in its structure and competitive environment in the last decades Although it is not a research oriented industry there is no arguing that technological change and particularly product innovations are crucial determinants of firms performance and In recent years food manufacturers have accelerated the consumers welfare development of new products by using new ingredients processing and packaging techniques Thus food markets are increasingly characterized by competitive environments where relevant flows of innovative products quality improvements and new technologies provide new consumption trends food habits market opportunities and firms strategies However the issue of product innovation in the food industries has been rather neglected by economists Few works have explicitly addressed this issue After the pioneering book of Buzzell and Nourse 1967 one can count few contributors Connor 1981 examined the empirical determinants of new food products introductions Padberg and Westgren 1979 provided crucial insights about the nature of food innovation through their notions of consumer inertia technological redundancy and incremental product innovation Some case studies provide useful empirical materials but they are generally sparse

Exchange Rates and Prices Jayant Menon, 2013-12-11 The objective of this study is to provide an in depth analysis of the exchange rate pass through relationship using Australian imports of manufactures as a case study The study begins by piecing together the theoretical literature on exchange rate pass through to provide the basis for the development of models for the empirical analysis To place the empirical analysis in comparative context a critical survey of the existing empirical literature on exchange rate pass through is then undertaken This is followed by a review of aspects of the structure and performance of Australian manufacturing that relate to the theme of the study Next the data and methodology are discussed The analysis of exchange rate pass through is conducted in two stages First it seeks to establish the degree to which Australian dollar AUD import prices of total manufactures and 50 product categories contained therein have responded to the massive fluctuations in the AUD during the 1980s This is done by applying an econometric procedure which avoids the pitfalls in previous studies to a carefully assembled data set Second the study investigates the determinants of inter product differences in the degree of exchange rate pass through This is done by relating the pass through coefficients to a series of variables representing foreign control quantitative restrictions QRs product characteristics and market structure within a cross section regression framework

The Economics of Industries and Firms Malcolm Sawyer, 1985-09-19 A complete study of industrial economics requires a knowledge of micro economics especially theories of the firm and of elementary econometrics I have endeavoured to write this book so that someone with only a one year course in economics behind them could follow the line of argument. But without a further study of micro economics they would miss the significance of some parts of the argument and without knowledge of econometrics would have to take many of the empirical results on trust. In writing this book limitation on space and a natural inclination have led to an emphasis on providing t
