The Novel in England, 1900-1950

Robert L. Caserio, 1999 In the first half of the twentieth century English fiction played a crucial role in the artistic and intellectual movement called modernism In recent decades however modernism and its proponents have come under attack Today's critics claim that modernist fiction has been socially and politically harmful and that literary modernism has fortunately been superseded by post modernism The Routledge Handbook of Crime Fiction and Ecology Nathan Ashman, 2023-10-27 The Routledge Handbook of Crime Fiction and Ecology is the first comprehensive examination of crime fiction and ecocriticism Across 33 innovative chapters from leading international scholars this Handbook considers an emergent field of contemporary crime narratives that are actively responding to a diverse assemblage of global environmental concerns whilst also opening up classic crime fictions and writers to new ecocritical perspectives Rigorously engaged with cutting edge critical trends it places the familiar staples of crime fiction scholarship from thematic to formal approaches in conversation with a number of urgent ecological theories and ideas covering subjects such as environmental security environmental justice slow violence ecofeminism and animal studies The Routledge Handbook of Crime Fiction and Ecology is an essential introduction to this new and dynamic research field for both students and scholars alike

Tri-quarterly, 1986 African American Adolescent Female Heroes Melanie A. Marotta, 2023-03-24 In the wake of the second wave of the Black Lives Matter movement inequalities and disparities were brought to light across the publishing industry The need for more diverse representative young adult literature gained new traction resulting in an influx of young adult speculative fiction featuring African American young women While the BlackGirlMagic movement inspired a wave of positive African American female heroes in young adult fiction it is still important to acknowledge the history and legacy of enslavement in America and their impact on literature Many of the depictions of young Black women in contemporary speculative fiction still rely on stereotypical representations rooted in American enslavement African American Adolescent Female Heroes The Twenty First Century Young Adult Neo Slave Narrative investigates the application of the neo slave narrative structure to the twenty first century young adult text Author Melanie A Marotta examines texts featuring a female adolescent protagonist of color including Orleans Tankborn The Book of Phoenix Binti and The Black God s Drums as well as series like the Devil s Wake series Octavia E Butler s Parable series and the Dread Nation series Taken together these chapters seek to analyze whether the roles for adolescent female characters of color are changing or whether they remain recreations of traditional slave narrative roles Further the chapters explore if trauma healing and activism are enacted in this genre Nnedi Okorafor Sandra J. in the Fiction of Don DeLillo Elise Martucci, 2012-09-10 This book presents an ecocritical reading of DeLillo's novels in an attempt to mediate between the seemingly incompatible influences of postmodernism and environmentalism. Martucci argues that although DeLillo is responding to and engaging with a postmodern culture of simulacra and simulation, his novels do not reflect a postmodernist theory of the end of nature. Rather, his fiction emphasizes the lasting significance of the natural world and alerts us to the dangers of destroying it. In order to support this argument, Martucci examines DeLillo's novels in the context of traditional American literary representations of the environment, especially through the lens of Leo Marx's discussion of the conflict between technology and nature found in traditional American literature. She demonstrates that DeLillo's fiction explores the way in which new technologies alter perceptions and mediate reality to a further extent than earlier technologies; however, she argues that he keeps the material world at the forefront of his novels, thereby illuminating the environmental implications of these technologies. Through close readings of Americana, The Names, White Noise, and Underworld, and discussions of postmodernist and ecocritical theories, this project engages with current criticism of DeLillo's postmodernist fiction and environmental criticism.

Chinese Theories of Fiction Ming Dong Gu, 2007-06-01 In this innovative work, Ming Dong Gu examines Chinese literature and traditional Chinese criticism to construct a distinctly Chinese theory of fiction and places it within the context of international fiction theory. He argues that because Chinese fiction or xiaoshuo was produced in a tradition very different from that of the West, it has formed a system of fiction theory that cannot be adequately accounted for by Western fiction theory grounded in mimesis and realism. Through an inquiry into the macrocosm of Chinese fiction, the art of formative works, and theoretical data in fiction commentaries and intellectual thought, Gu explores the conceptual and historical conditions of Chinese fiction in relation to European and world fiction. In the process, Gu critiques and challenges some accepted views of Chinese fiction and provides a theoretical basis for fresh approaches to fiction study in general and Chinese fiction in particular. Such masterpieces as The Jin Ping Mei, The Plum in the Golden Vase, and The Hongloumeng (The Story of the Stone) are discussed at length to advance his notion of fiction and fiction theory.

The Cambridge Companion to Science Fiction Edward James, Farah Mendlesohn, 2003-11-20 Science fiction is at the intersection of numerous fields. It is a literature which draws on popular culture and which engages in speculation about science, history, and all types of social relations. This volume brings together essays by scholars and practitioners of science fiction which look at the genre from these different angles. After an introduction to the nature of science fiction, historical chapters trace science fiction from Thomas More to more recent years, including a chapter on film and television. The second section introduces four important critical approaches to science fiction, drawing their theoretical inspiration from Marxism, postmodernism, feminism, and queer theory. The final and largest section of the book looks at various themes and subgenres of science fiction. A number of well-known science fiction writers contribute to this volume, including Gwyneth Jones, Ken MacLeod, Brian Stableford, Andy Duncan, James Gunn, Joan Slonczewski, and Damien Broderick.

Unveiling Structures in Colson Whitehead's Fiction Paula Martín-Salván, 2025-10-03 This book offers a comprehensive critical analysis of Colson Whitehead's fiction positioning him as a key figure in both African American literature and the global turn to genre It explores how Whitehead employs conventions from popular genres such as detective zombie and caper stories not merely for entertainment but as tools for ideological critique and narrative innovation Central to the study is the concept of narratives of unveiling in which information is revealed retrospectively disrupting linear storytelling and reshaping ethical perspectives These structures allow Whitehead to expose the systemic roots of racism and ideological conflict embedded in American society The book situates his work within broader debates about canon formation Afropessimist and postsoul aesthetics and the politics of form Through close readings of Whitehead's novels it demonstrates how Whitehead challenges racial myths and signifies genre expectations offering narratives that performatively enact cultural critique

Thomas Middleton and the Plural Politics of Jacobean Drama Mark Kaethler, 2021-05-10 Thomas Middleton and the Plural Politics of Jacobean Drama represents the first sustained study of Middleton's dramatic works as responses to James I's governance Through examining Middleton's poesis in relation to the political theology of Jacobean London Kaethler explores early forms of free speech namely parrhesia and rhetorical devices such as irony and allegory to elucidate the ways in which Middleton's plural art exposes the limitations of the monarch's sovereign image. By drawing upon earlier forms of dramatic intervention, James's writings and popular literature that blossomed during the Jacobean period, including news pamphlets, the book surveys a selection of Middleton's writings ranging from his first extant play The Phoenix (1604) to his scandalous finale A Game at Chess (1624). In the course of this investigation, the author identifies that although Middleton's drama spurs political awareness and questions authority, it nevertheless simultaneously promotes alternative structures of power which manifest as misogyny and white supremacy.

Twentieth-century American Science-fiction Writers David Cowart, Thomas L. Wymer, 1981. Contains critical biographical studies of American science fiction writers who began writing after 1900 and before 1970.

The Quest for Epic in Contemporary American Fiction Catherine Morley, 2008-09-25. This volume explores the confluences between two types of literature in contemporary America: the novel and the epic. It analyses the tradition of the epic as it has evolved from antiquity through Joyce to its American manifestations and describes how this tradition has impacted upon contemporary American writing.

Narrative Fiction and Death Sabine Köllmann, 2023-09-29. Narrative Fiction and Death: Dying Imagined offers a new perspective on the study of death in literature. It focuses on narrative fiction that conveys the experience of dying from the internal perspective of a dying protagonist. Writers from Victor Hugo in the early 1800s to Elif Shafak in the present day have imagined the unknowable final moments on the threshold to death. This literary study examines the wide range of narrative strategies used to evoke the transition from life to death and to what effect, revealing not only each writer's unique way of representing the dying experience, the comparative reading also finds common concerns in these texts and uncovers surprising parallels and unexplored intertextual relations between works across time and space that will interest comparatists as well as specialists in the literatures discussed. Students of individual texts examined here will benefit from detailed analyses of these works. The fictional evocation of dying addresses our basic human fears, offering catharsis, consolation, and a greater cognitive and emotional understanding of that unknowable experience. Presented in an engaging and highly readable manner, this study argues for literature's potential to challenge our assumptions about the end of life and change our approach to dying, an aspect that will interest students and researchers of the health humanities, palliative caregivers, and all those interested in questions of the end of life.
