The Qualimetrics Approach Henri Savall, Veronique Zardet, 2011-06-01 The impetus for this work emerged from Savall s belief that there is a doubleloop interaction between social and economic factors in organizations between behaviors and structures and between the quality of life in organizations and their economic performance When managers underestimate this dynamic interaction the resulting tension ultimately manifests in lowered performance and increased costs what he refers to as the hidden costs of organizational life Only by delving into the depths of these organizational dynamics can we hope to fully understand and create the basis for improving organizational performance The Qualimetrics Approach presents a different and challenging way of thinking about analyzing organizations one that draws together quantitative information financial analysis and qualitative insights into organizational dynamics As Savall and Zardet argue to gain a true understanding of what is happening in organizations intervenier researchers must focus on all three perspectives as ignoring any one of them will lead to incomplete understandings Their approach underscores the importance of using qualitative data to validate quantitative depictions the numbers of organizational performance in understanding the construction of financial statements The strength of Savall and Zardet s approach is that it pushes us to go deeper to fully understand the narratives underlying the numbers and the social construction of our financial assessments Applying Qualitative Research

Development and Territorial Restructuring in an Era of Global Change Elisabeth Peyroux, Christine Raimond, Vincent Viel, Emilie Lavie, 2023-07-25. Thinking about development and the environment simultaneously is one of the biggest scientific and societal challenges of the 21st century. Understanding the interactions between biophysical systems and human activities in an era of global change requires overcoming disciplinary divides and opening up new epistemological perspectives. This book explores these challenges using a territorial lens. Combining various scales of analyses from global to local and contexts both urban and rural in the North and in the South, it analyzes the relationships between environment and development through a variety of geographical objects: cities, rural and agricultural areas, coastlines, watershed themes, ecological transitions, food, energy, transport, agriculture, mining, activities, and methodologies: qualitative and quantitative approaches, modeling, in situ measurements. By engaging in a dialogue between social science and natural science disciplines within different fields and with a variety of forms of knowledge production, this book provides essential information for understanding and reading the complexity of a globalized world. This book is targeted at academics and students in social sciences and at stakeholders in the field of territorial and environmental management.

(Re)presentations and Dialogue François Cooren, Alain Létourneau, 2012. This edited volume proposes key contributions addressing the connections between two important themes: dialogue and representation. These connections were approached or interpreted in three possible ways: 1. Dialogue as representation, 2. Normative perspectives on dialogue, representation issues, and 3. Representations of dialogue. The first interpretation: Dialogue as representation consists of exploring dialogue as an activity where many things, beings, or voices can be made present, whether we think in terms of ideologies, cultures, situations, collectives, roles, etc. The second interpretation: Normative perspectives on dialogue, representation issues leads scholars to explore questions of normativity which are often associated with the notion of dialogue when conceived as a morally stronger form of conversation. Finally, the third interpretation: Representations of dialogue invites us to address methodological questions related to the representation of this type of conversation. Echoing Bakhtin, contributors were invited to explore the polyphonic, heteroglot, or dialogic character of any text, discourse, or interaction.
