Certification, qualité et emploi Institut de socio-économie des entreprises et des organisations,1997-01-01T00:00:00+01:00 Le processus de résolution du problème de la qualité dans les entreprises françaises nous paraît maintenant bien engagé Des enseignements constructifs sont tirés de l'expérience de cette longue crise économique Des acteurs autrefois sensibles à la discipline économique ont modifié leurs discours et souvent leurs comportements Parmi les messages clés de cette mutation la notion de qualité a fait son chemin dans l'opinion publique et dans tous les milieux professionnels Depuis quelques années la qualité est donc devenue un enjeu mobilisateur pour la plupart des entreprises Avec l'arrivée des normes ISO et du grand marché européen l'obtention de la certification est devenue un objectif prioritaire pour de nombreuses entreprises Elle a pour objet de certifier que le système d'assurance de la qualité d'une entreprise est conforme à un des trois modèles normalisés de la série des normes ISO 9000 International Standard Organisation Devant l'enjeu qui représente la qualité aujourd'hui un grand nombre d'entreprises se sont lancées dans la course à la certification portant tous leurs espoirs sur cette dernière Devant la complexité et la durée de la mise en place d'une démarche qualité beaucoup ont été déçus du résultat et surtout surpris du coût que cela a engendré En effet les méthodes d'évaluation du coût de la qualité comportent parfois des limites importantes Depuis 1988 avec le concours du ministère de l'Industrie l'ISEOR organise un Colloque annuel qui rassemble des consultants et experts issus de cabinets conseils de toutes tailles des auditeurs internes des responsables d'entreprises et d'organisations publiques ou privées autour d'un thème central Qualité de l'entreprise et professionnalisme des consultants Chaque année les débats s'articulent autour d'un thème spécifique de réflexion Le thème de cette neuvième édition des Actes du Colloque 1996 est la certification la qualité et l'emploi Cet ouvrage présente les réflexions et les témoignages d' acteurs de personnalités d'entreprises et d'organisations de divers secteurs de l'activité économique de dirigeants d'entreprises et de consultants en management. Cette manifestation a été organisée en partenariat avec la Direction régionale du travail de l'emploi et de la formation et la Direction régionale de l'industrie de la recherche et de l'environnement. La certification stimule-t-elle l'amélioration de la qualité? Quelles sont les incidences de l'une et de l'autre sur l'emploi? Quels apports permettent l'analyse socio-économique dans la mise en œuvre d'une démarche qualité? Quels sont les enjeux, les contraintes et les objectifs de la certification? Comment se déroule une démarche d'amélioration de la qualité? Les intervenants de ce Colloque tentent de répondre à ces interrogations se fondant sur leurs expériences et leurs pratiques professionnelles. Parmi différents cas d'entreprises, la Direction de Tournus équipement SA apporte son témoignage sur l'obtention de la certification ISO 9002. Cet ouvrage étudie aussi les exigences du marché de consultant et les caractéristiques du transfert de savoir-faire dans le domaine de l'ingénierie du management socio-économique. La présentation de cas d'intervention dans de grandes entreprises ou organisations comme l'établissement Technique de Bourges, DGA France Telecom Rhône-Poulenc Silicones Flammarion 2 ou encore la Clinique Saint-Pierre Belgique permet d'illustrer la méthodologie d'intervention socio-économique de l'ISEOR depuis l'implantation de la démarche jusqu'à l'évaluation des résultats. L'ISEOR Institut de socio-économie des entreprises et des organisations dirigé par le Professeur Henri Savall est un des tout premiers centres français de recherche en sciences de gestion associé à l'Université Lumière Lyon 2 et au Groupe ESC Lyon.
