Aging And Old Age:

Aging and Old Age Richard A. Posner, 1995 Observing that people change both physically and cognitively as they age Posner suggests that each of us has in succession two separate selves younger and older with different abilities interests and behaviors an insight that helps clarify a number of issues concerning the elderly Old Age and Agency Emmanuelle Tulle, 2004 This book is about rethinking the ways in which we make sense of social action or agency in later life The contributions in this collection challenge traditional academic approaches to the study of later life which arguably often deny older people agency Social gerontology and the wider society should be more reflexive and rather than contribute to the continued marginalisation of older people should draw attention to the extent to which the latter's actions may be understood within the set of normalising discourses which people have to manage and negotiate as they get old The purpose of this collection is to continue this process by providing philosophical theoretical conceptual and empirical direction for a reflexive social gerontology This book argues that the management of later life has become complex caught as it is within a broad discourse which continues to construct old age as a time of decline and dependency but has shifted the burden of responsibility for the avoidance of decline on individuals Ageing Well Ann Bowling, 2005 What is quality of life What is quality of life in older age How can quality of life in older age be improved This book explores concepts of quality of life in older age in the theoretical literature and presents the views of a national sample of people aged sixty five years or older It offers a broad overview of the quality of life experienced by older people in Britain using a number of wide ranging indicators including health hobbies and interests home and neighbourhood income independence psychological wellbeing and social and family relationships The result is a fascinating book enlivened by rich data both quantitative and qualitative drawn from detailed surveys and interviews with almost a thousand older people Ageing Well is key reading for students academics practitioners and policy makers who are concerned with the research and practice that will help to improve quality of life for older people Old Age In Europe Kathrin Komp, Marja Aartsen, 2013-01-24 Europe currently is the oldest continent in the world and its population is still ageing This demographic shift affects society economy and welfare states Scholars from various disciplines and the public noted this development and wonder what effects it may have but lack adequate information They call for explanations that are concise and easily accessible The book at hand fills this lacuna It introduces readers to the most important developments theories concepts and discussions in ageing studies always keeping an eye on the current situation in Europe Each chapter adopts the perspective of a different discipline e.g. public health sociology economics or technology To make the explanations easy to understand the book includes learning tools such as learning objectives multiple choice questions and a glossary Aging and Old Age Sheila C. McKenzie, 1980 Cultural Perspectives on Aging Andrea Hülsen-Esch, 2021-11-22 Current demographic developments and change due to long life expectancies low birth rates changing family structures and economic and political crises causing migration and flight are having a significant impact on intergenerational relationships the social welfare system the job market and what elderly people can expect from their retirement and environment The socio political relevance of the categories of age and ageing have been increasing and gaining much attention within different scholarly fields However none of the efforts to identify age related diseases or the processes of ageing in order to develop suitable strategies for prevention and therapy have had any effect on the fact that attitudes against the elderly are based on patterns that are determined by parameters that are or not biological or sociological ageing is also a cultural fact This book reveals the importance of cultural factors in order to build a framework for analyzing and understanding cultural constructions of ageing bringing together scholarly discourses from the arts and humanities as well as social medical and psychological fields of study The contributions pave the way for new strategies of caring for elderly people

Old Age in Modern Society Christina R. Victor, 2013-11-11 Old age is a part of the lifecycle about which there are numerous myths and stereotypes To present an overstatement of commonly held beliefs the old are portrayed as dependent individuals characterized by a lack of social autonomy unloved and neglected by both their immediate family and friends and posing a threat to the living standards of younger age groups by being a burden that consumes without producing Older people are perceived as a single homogeneous group and the experience of ageing characterized as being the same for all individuals irrespective of the diversity of their circumstances before the onset of old age In this book detailed statistical material is used to portray the circumstances of older people in modern society in an attempt to evaluate the appropriateness or otherwise of the major stereotypes of later life This volume does not address ageing from a psychological or micro social perspective In particular we do not explore major issues relating to old age Rather we feel that from the extensive collection of surveys concerned with the elderly we can provide a context within which individual elderly people can be studied from more anthropological or biographical perspectives

The Aging Experience Jennie Keith, Christine L. Fry, Anthony P. Glascock, Charlotte Ikels, Jeanette Dickerson-Putman, Henry C. Harpending, Patricia Draper, 1994-09-22 In an attempt to understand the meaning of ageing and the treatment of the aged in different cultures seven anthropologists have made studies of 10 communities on four continents the results of which are presented in this book The authors use both qualitative and statistical data to examine such issues as health and well being perceptions of the life course material resources and functionality of elders A unique resource The Aging Experience provides a detailed comparative analysis of ageing worldwide

Aging and Human Nature Mark Schweda, Michael Coors, Claudia Bozzaro, 2020-01-11 This book focuses on ageing as a topic of philosophical theological and historical anthropology It provides a systematic inventory of fundamental theoretical questions and assumptions involved in the discussion of ageing and old age What does it mean for human beings to grow old and become more vulnerable and dependent How can we understand the manifestations of ageing and old age in the human body How should we interpret the processes of change in the temporal course of a human life What impact does old age have on the social dimensions of human existence In order to tackle these questions the volume brings together internationally distinguished scholars from the fields of philosophy theology cultural studies social gerontology and ageing studies The collection of their original articles makes a twofold contribution to contemporary academic discourse On one hand it helps to clarify and deepen our understanding of ageing and old age by examining it from the fundamental point of view of philosophical theological and historical anthropology At the same time it also enhances and expands the discourses of philosophical theological and historical anthropology by systematically taking into account that human beings are essentially ageing creatures

grade Distinction course Master of Social Science in Counselling language English abstract The main purpose of this study was to examine the general public's perception on older people Based on this theme five research questions were identified 1 What are the attitudes of younger and older people toward elderly 2 Are older people's attitudes toward themselves being influenced by prevailing ageism views 3 What are the predictors of ageism 4 Do the interaction between younger and older people influence the attitudes toward older people and 5 What are the implications of the above research findings toward older people for counselling Based on these questions five hypotheses were developed No significant difference was found between the attitudes of younger and older people toward the latter In terms of concept and image about older people older people tend to see themselves more negative than younger people People with higher educational levels younger age and religion tend to score a higher value of FAQ than people with lower educational levels older age and non religious People with higher educational levels younger age and religion tend to form more positive image toward older people than people with low lower educational levels older age and non religious People with more interaction with older adults tend to have higher scores on FAQ Basically all the hypotheses were rejected but this study did make several contributions to the study of ageism in Hong Kong First this study found that attitudes of younger students toward older adults were more negative than older people Students attitudes toward older people were dominated by negative ageism views and image whereas older people's attitudes toward older adults were mixed with both negative and positive ageism views It was suggested in this study attitudes of people toward older adults have to be analyzed from three perspectives namely ageism image about older people and attitudes toward caring in order to generate more precise pictures about ageism Finally the study suggested that education intergenerational activities and positive ageing programs could be used to reduce ageism in our societies
