Agricultural Decision Making Anthropological Contributions To Rural Development Studies In Anthropology:

Agricultural Decision Making Peggy F. Barlett, 2013-10-22 Agricultural Decision Making Anthropological Contributions to Rural Development presents the impact of farmers' choices in agricultural production. This book discusses how individual decisions determine household profits and well-being, capital requirements, land use, and the adoption of technology. Organized into three parts encompassing 14 chapters, this book begins with an overview of the theoretical and methodological questions concerning the use of formal models in evaluating the alternatives open to farmers. This text then explores the patterns of agricultural choices within one rural community. Other chapters consider the implications of decision-making research for agricultural development policy and explore the decision-making context of aid programs. This book discusses as well the impacts of nonagricultural alternatives on agricultural decisions. The final chapter deals with various policy and development programs for agricultural development. This book is a valuable resource for economic anthropologists, historians, economists, agricultural economists, rural sociologists, psychologists, farmers, and research workers. Agricultural Decision Making Peggy F. Carrier, 2012-01-01 Acclaim for the first edition The volume is a remarkable contribution to economic anthropology and will no doubt be a fundamental tool for students, scholars, and experts in the sub-discipline. Mao Mollona Journal of the Royal Anthropological Institute This excellent overview would serve as an excellent text for advanced undergraduate and graduate level classroom use. Because of the clarity, conciseness, and accessibility of the writing, the chapters in this volume likely will be often cited and recommended to those who want the alternative and frequently culturally comparative perspective on economic topics that anthropology provides. Highly recommended. All academic levels libraries. K. F. Rambo Choice The first edition of this unique Handbook was praised for its substantial and invaluable summary discussions of work by anthropologists on economic processes and issues on the relationship between economic and non-economic areas of life and on the conceptual orientations that are important among economic anthropologists. This thoroughly revised edition brings those discussions up to date and includes an important new section exploring ways that leading anthropologists have approached the current economic crisis Its scope and accessibility make it useful both to those who are interested in a particular topic and to those who want to see the breadth and fruitfulness of an anthropological study of economy This comprehensive Handbook will strongly appeal to undergraduate and post graduate students in anthropology economists interested in social and cultural dimensions of economic life and alternative approaches to economic life political economists political scientists and historians A History of Farming Systems Research Michael P. Collinson,2000 This book provides a detailed history of farming systems research FSR While it includes the application of FSR to developed country agriculture its main focus is on FSR in its original role with small scale resource poor farmers in less developed countries There are some 40 contributions from nearly 50 contributors from 20 countries illustrating both the diversity and yet the coherence of FSR The five parts of the book cover 1 FSR understanding farmers and their farming FSR origins and perspectives understanding farming systems 2 the applications of farming systems research FSR in technology choice and development FSR in extension and policy formulation 3 institutional commitment to FSR FSR some institutional experiences in national agricultural research dimensions of the organization of FSR training for FSR 4 FSR the professional dimension regional and international associations FSR and the professional disciplines and 5 cutting edge methods abiding issues and the future for FSR

Anthropology and Risk Asa Boholm,2015-04-24 Drawing on theory from anthropology sociology organisation studies and philosophy this book addresses how the perception communication and management of risk is shaped by culturally informed and socially embedded knowledge and experience It provides an account of how interpretations of risk in society are conditioned by knowledge claims and cultural assumptions and by the orientation of actors based on roles norms expectations identities trust and practical rationality within a lived social world By focusing on agency social complexity and the production and interpretation of meaning the book offers a comprehensive and holistic theoretical perspective on risk based on empirical case studies and ethnographic enquiry As a selection of sa Boholm s publications throughout her career along with a newly written introduction overviewing the field this book provides a unified perspective on risk as a construct shaped by social and cultural contexts This collection should be of interest to students and scholars of risk communication risk management environmental planning environmental management and environmental and applied anthropology

Peasants on the Edge William P. Mitchell, 2010-07-05 Throughout Latin America and the rest of the Third World profound social problems are growing in response to burgeoning populations and unstable economic and political systems In Peru terrorist acts by the Shining Path guerilla movement are the most visible manifestation of social discontent but rapid economic and religious changes have touched the lives of almost everyone radically altering traditional lifeways In this twenty year study of the community of Quinoa in the Department of Ayacucho William Mitchell looks at changes provoked by population growth within a severely limited ecological and economic setting including increasing conversion to a cash economy and out migration the decline of the Catholic fiesta system and the rise of Protestantism and growing poverty and revolution When Mitchell first began his field studies in Quinoa in 1966 farming was still the Quinoas principal means of livelihood But while the population was increasing rapidly the amount of arable land in the community remained the same creating increased food shortfalls At the same time government controls on food prices and subsidies of cheap food imports drove down the value of rural farm production These ecological and economic factors forced many people to enter the nonfarm economy to feed themselves Using a materialist approach Mitchell charts the new economic strategies that Quinoas use to confront the harsh pressures of their lives including ceramic production wage labor petty commerce and migration to cash work on the coast and in the eastern tropical forests In addition he shows how the growing conversion from Catholicism to Protestantism is also an economic strategy since Protestant ideology offers acceptable reasons for redirecting the money that used to be spent on elaborate religious festivals to household needs and education The twenty year span of this study makes it especially valuable for students of social change Mitchell s unique interdisciplinary approach considering ecological economic and population factors simultaneously offers a model that can be widely applied in many Third World areas Additionally the inclusion of an entire chapter of family histories reveals how economic and ecological forces are played out at the individual level

The Broken Hoe David Uru Iyam, 1995-06-15 In this study of the Biase a small ethnic group living in Nigeria s Cross River State David Uru Iyam attempts to resolve a long standing controversy among development theorists must Third World peoples adopt Western attitudes practices and technologies to improve their standard of living or are indigenous beliefs technologies and strategies better suited to local conditions The Biase today face social and economic pressures that seriously strain their ability to cope with the realities of modern Nigeria Iyam an anthropologist and a Biase examines the relationship between culture and development as played out in projects in local communities Western technologies and beliefs alone cannot ensure economic growth and modernization Iyam shows and should not necessarily be imposed on poor rural groups who may not be prepared to incorporate them neither however is it possible to recover indigenous coping strategies given the complexities of the postcolonial world A successful development strategy Iyam argues needs to strengthen local managerial capacity and he offers suggestions as to how this can be done in a range of cultural and social settings

Human Impact on Ancient Environments Charles L. Redman, 1999-10-01 Threats to biodiversity food shortages urban sprawl lessons for environmental problems that confront us today may well be found in the past The archaeological record contains hundreds of situations in which societies developed long term sustainable relationships with their environments and thousands in which the relationships were destructive Charles Redman demonstrates that much can be learned from an improved understanding of peoples who through seemingly rational decisions degraded their environments and threatened their own survival By discussing archaeological case studies from around the world from the deforestation of the Mayan lowlands to soil erosion in ancient Greece to the almost total depletion of resources on Easter Island Redman reveals the long range coevolution of culture and environment and clearly shows the impact that ancient peoples had on their world These case studies focus on four themes habitat transformation and animal extinctions agricultural practices urban growth and the forces that accompany complex society They show that humankind's commitment to agriculture has had cultural consequences that have conditioned our perception of the environment and reveal that societies before European contact did not necessarily live the utopian existences that have been popularly supposed Whereas most books on this topic tend to treat human societies as mere reactors to environmental stimuli Redman's volume shows them to be active participants in complex and evolving ecological relationships Human Impact on Ancient Environments demonstrates how archaeological research can provide unique insights into the nature of human stewardship of the Earth and can permanently alter the way we think about humans and the environment

Human Organizations and Social Theory Murray J. Leaf, 2010-10-01 In the 1930s George Herbert Mead and other leading social scientists established the modern empirical analysis of social interaction and communication enabling theories of cognitive development language acquisition interaction government law and legal processes and the social construction of the self However they could not provide a comparably empirical analysis of human organization The theory in this book fills in the missing analysis of organizations and specifies more precisely the pragmatic analysis of communication with an adaptation of information theory to ordinary unmediated communications The study also provides the theoretical basis for understanding the success of pragmatically grounded public policies from the New Deal through the postwar reconstruction of Europe and Japan to the ongoing development of the European Union in contrast to the persistent failure of positivistic and Marxist policies and programs Social Sciences And Farming Systems Research Jeffrey R Jones, Ben J Wallace, Robert Booth, Robert E Rhoades, 2019-07-11 The publication of this book has required the cooperation of many people along the way From its very conception the project of bringing together experiences from ongoing Farming Systems Research projects has faced a problem of communication due to the dispersal of the participants Dr William Partridge and Lynne Goldstein were instrumental in the initial presentation of the symposium on Social Science participation in Farming Systems Research at the 83rd Annual Meeting of the American Anthropological Association Ben Wallace has done an admirable job not only as editor but as a point man throughout the process of organizing the conference and preparing the manuscript He deserves credit for expediting countless activities that could never have otherwise been accomplished because of the vagaries of international mails and telecommunications American Dreams, Rural Realities Peggy F.
