Agricultural Involution Processes Of Ecological Change In Indonesia By Geertz:

Agricultural Involution Clifford Geertz, 1963 The Agricultural Involution Clifford Geertz, 1966 Essays in Trespassing Albert O. Hirschman, 1981-08-31 This book brings together fourteen articles and papers written by Albert O. Hirschman. About half deal with the interaction of economic development with politics and ideology, the area in which Hirschman perhaps has made most noted contributions. Among these papers are 'The Rise and Declines of Development Economics', a magisterial and yet pointed essay in intellectual history, and his famous article 'The Changing Tolerance for Income Inequality in the Course of Economic Development'. Hirschman's ability to trespass or rather his inability not to trespass from one social science to another and beyond is the unifying characteristic of the volume. Authoritative searching surveys alternate here with essays presenting some of Hirschman's characteristic inventions, for instance the tunnel effect and obituary improving activities. Three of the papers have not been published previously and a number of introductory notes have been especially drafted for the present volume to evoke the intellectual political climate in which certain groups of essays were written.

Transforming the Indonesian Uplands Tania Li, 2005-06-27 Drawing upon current theoretical debates in social anthropology, development studies and political ecology and presenting original research from across the Archipelago, this book addresses the changing histories and identities of upland people as they relate in new ways to the natural resource base, to markets and to the state. It is an engaged study which fills important analytical gaps and addresses real world concerns, exploring the uplands as components of national and global systems of meaning, power and production. It offers a significant re-assessment of concepts, processes, histories, relationships and discourses, many of which are not unique to either the uplands or Indonesia, making the book essential and compelling reading for both scholars and practitioners.

critique interpretivism time and change Islam and violence A fitting tribute to one of the great thinkers of our age this collection will be enjoyed by anthropologists as well as students of psychology history and philosophy Art in a Multipolar World Mi You,2025-01-22 This monograph takes a look at how the increasing multipolarity of our world affects art It is a diagnosis of the socio political contexts that surround art and questions what the upheavals in geopolitics economic and social policy mean for the field of art today The text is divided into four sections First the phenomenon is conceptualized and theorized This is followed by an in depth examination of the interrelationships using documenta fifteen as a case study an exhibition that can be seen as a crystallization point for current political shifts This is followed by an in depth reading of Chinese art policy which oscillates between particularist and universalist claims in order to arrive at the concluding section which opens up a horizon of thought and experimentation that helps us to come to terms with the era of multipolarity

The Encoded Cirebon Mask Laurie Margot Ross,2016-08-29 In The Encoded Cirebon Mask Materiality Flow and Meaning along Java s Islamic Northwest Coast Laurie Margot Ross situates masks and masked dancing in the Cirebon region of Java Indonesia as an original expression of Islam This is a different view from that of many scholars who argue that canonical prohibitions on fashioning idols and imagery prove that masks are mere relics of indigenous beliefs that Muslim travelers could not eradicate Making use of archives oral histories and the performing objects themselves Ross traces the mask s trajectory from a popular entertainment in Cirebon once a portal of global exchange to a stimulus for establishing a deeper connection to God in late colonial Java and eventual links to nationalism in post independence Indonesia The Routledge Dictionary of Anthropologists Gerald Gaillard,2004-06-01 This detailed and comprehensive guide provides biographical information on the most influential and significant figures in world anthropology from the birth of the discipline in the nineteenth century to the present day Each of the fifteen chapters focuses on a national tradition or school of thought outlining its central features and placing the anthropologists within their intellectual contexts Fully indexed and cross referenced The Routledge Dictionary of Anthropologists will prove indispensable for students of anthropology The Ecological Transition John W. Bennett,2017-09-29 Written during the height of the ecology movement The Ecological Transition is a stunning interdisciplinary work It combines anthropology ecology and sociology to formulate an understanding of cultural environmental relationships While anthropologists have been studying relationships between humans and the physical environment for a very long time only in the last thirty years have questions inherent in these relationships broadened beyond description and classification For example the concept of environment has been extended beyond the physical into the social Although anthropologists have adopted many of the concepts that Bennett develops in the book he also feels that the central issues have never been addressed either by anthropologists or by people in related disciplines The most important of these in Bennett s opinion is the failure to incorporate a respect for the environmental in contemporary culture which would allow making exceptions in certain human practices in order to protect the environment

His point in The Ecological Transition is that a basic cultural change in modern civilization is necessary to achieve this end. Both a theoretical and a practical work, The Ecological Transition emphasizes the relationships between human culture, the physical environment, technology, and social policy. The Ecological Transition is a challenging volume that makes us face the consequences of human behavior in the modern world: its effect on pollution, natural resources, agriculture, the economy, and population, to name just a few areas. The book remains a significant contribution to the discourse on social, economic, and environmental problems. While the book was first published in 1976, it still reads as a contemporary tract. Southeast Asia (Routledge Revivals) Jonathan Rigg, 2013-09-13. Southeast Asia: A Region in Transition first published in 1991 is a contemporary human geography of the market economies of the region, usually defined by membership of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN). Organized thematically, the chapters deal with the environment and development, plural societies, agrarian change, and urbanization. This thematic approach provides a comprehensive picture of the ASEAN countries and gives a depth of coverage often lacking in other regional geographies. With a detailed introduction dealing with the physical environment and history of the region, this work will be of great value to students studying the human geography of Southeast Asia, as well as those with a more general interest in the issues and developments affecting the ASEAN region.

From Slash-and-burn to Replanting François Ruf, Frédéric Lançon, 2004. The most traditional and widely used farming systems in the humid upland tropics are based on fallowing and various forms of slash and burn agriculture. Their sustainability depends on the duration of the fallow. When fallow duration drops below the threshold of seven or eight years, crop yield usually declines. A concept described as forest rent. Given the plight of millions of farmers, the development of upland agriculture has become increasingly important. This book reports the results of fieldwork conducted by the editors and other experts in some 40 regions of Indonesia from 1989 to 2001. It finds that some of the most successful improvements have been the result of innovations by the farmers themselves. Nature Contained Tony O'Dempsey, Mark Emmanuel, John van Wyhe, Nigel P. Taylor, Fiona L.P. Tan, Cynthia Chou, Goh Hong Yi, Corinne Heng, 2014-03-20. How has Singapore's environment and location in a zone of extraordinary biodiversity influenced the economic, political, social, and intellectual history of the island since the early 19th century? What are the antecedents to Singapore's image of itself as a City in a Garden? Grounding the story of Singapore within an understanding of its environment opens the way to an account of the past that is more than a story of trade, immigration, and nation building. Each of the chapters in this volume, focusing on topics ranging from tigers and plantations to trade in exotic animals and the greening of the city, and written by botanists, historians, anthropologists, and naturalists, examines how humans have interacted with and understood the natural environment on a small island in Southeast Asia over the past 200 years, and conversely how this environment has influenced humans. Between the chapters are travelers' accounts and primary documents that provide eyewitness descriptions of the events examined in the text. In this regard, Nature Contained: Environmental Histories of Singapore provides new insights into the Singaporean past and reflects much of the diversity and dynamism of environmental history globally
