Air Power As A Coercive Instrument:

Air Power as a Coercive Instrument Daniel Byman, John G. McGinn, Keith Crane, Seth G. Jones, Rollie Lal, Ian O. Lesser, 1999-08-20 Coercion the use of threatened force to induce an adversary to change its behavior is a critical function of the U S military U S forces have recently fought in the Balkans the Persian Gulf and the Horn of Africa to compel recalcitrant regimes and warlords to stop repression abandon weapons programs permit humanitarian relief and otherwise modify their actions Yet despite its overwhelming military might the United States often fails to coerce successfully This report examines the phenomenon of coercion and how air power can contribute to its success Three factors increase the likelihood of successful coercion 1 the coercer s ability to raise the costs it imposes while denying the adversary the chance to respond escalation dominance 2 an ability to block an adversary s military strategy for victory and 3 an ability to magnify third party threats such as internal instability or the danger posed by another enemy Domestic political concerns such as casualty sensitivity and coalition dynamics often constrain coercive operations and impair the achievement of these conditions Air power can deliver potent and credible threats that foster the above factors while neutralizing adversary countercoercive moves When the favorable factors are absent however air power or any other military instrument will probably fail to coerce Policymakers use of coercive air power under inauspicious conditions diminishes the chances of using it elsewhere when the prospects of success would be greater

Air Power as a Coercive Instrument, 1999 As part of this larger study members of the research team explored the role of air power as a coercive instrument In recent years decision makers have called on the USAF to play a major role in attempting to coerce foes in the Persian Gulf the Horn of Africa and Europe Although the United States and the USAF have scored some notable successes the record is mixed The purpose of the study reported here is to better understand the phenomenon of coercion and learn what is necessary to carry it out anticipate likely constraints on the use of force and determine how air power can best be used to coerce The report will be of particular interest to USAF and other Defense Department planners who seek to use force more effectively

The RAF and Tribal Control Richard D. Newton, 2019-11-01 In light of technological advances and multiplying irregular conflicts conventional wisdom suggests airpower as the ideal low cost means of conducting modern warfare and the air control method adopted by the British between the two world wars seems to back this up Swift and precise targeting from above was considered more humane after all sparing civilians as well as British soldiers during punitive expeditions in unruly colonial regions But what conventional wisdom misses and this book makes clear is how the Royal Air Force s RAF innovative approach actually worked relying on British airmen on the ground at least as much as on airborne technology to control restive tribes and villages The RAF and Tribal Control tells the story of these forgotten airmen the RAF special service officers who embedded among local populations and indigenous tribes collected vital intelligence developed targets directed air strikes when necessary and perhaps most important provided personal assessments of airpower s qualitative effects against primarily guerrilla forces

Airpower is a highly technological endeavor But in wars where the human dimension takes primacy Richard Newton reminds us that measuring the effectiveness of air actions requires a qualitative approach that is nearly impossible via overhead sensors And this is where the RAF special service officers came in airmen who understood the local cultures and peoples they served as conduits for information and communication between the colonial administration and the tribes and villages It was their ground level contributions that made the integration of airpower into the civilian administration of colonies and mandates possible This first in depth account of the RAF special service officers role brings to light previously unpublished insights The RAF and Tribal Control fills a significant gap in the history of air warfare In doing so the book dispels the notion that airpower alone is effective in small wars and irregular conflicts and reveals the importance of the boots on the ground human component in waging unconventional air warfare both in the days of the RAF s vaunted air control and in our own time

The Dynamics of Coercion Daniel Byman,Matthew Waxman,2002-02-04 Successful coercion should be relatively simple for the United States Since the demise of the Soviet Union the United States is without rivals in military might political influence or economic strength Yet despite the lopsided US edge in raw power regional foes persist in defying the threats and ultimatums brought by the United States and its allies This book examines why some attempts to strong arm an adversary work while others do not It explores how coercion today differs from coercion during the Cold War It describes the constraints on the United States emanating from the need to work within coalitions and the restrictions imposed by domestic politics and it assesses the special challenges likely to arise when an adversary is a non state actor or when the use of weapons of mass destruction is possible

Air Power and Warfare Elwood L. White,2002 This highly selective bibliography supplements the original bibliography developed in 1978 by Ms Betsy C Kysely to support the Eighth Military History Symposium While this bibliography focuses primarily on materials published since the earlier bibliography was developed it does include some significant materials that were published prior to 1978 but that were omitted from that edition Emphasis in this supplement is on scholarly analysis of air power itself and scholarly depictions of its history Like most editions of the United State Air Force Academy Directorate of Libraries publication Special Bibliography Series this compilation is limited to current holdings of the Academic Library at the Academy It includes books reports government documents and journal articles Excluded are pictorial works newspaper articles works of fiction studies of the technology of aircraft and associated weaponry and items focused on the general history of aviation Readers wanting information on the history of aviation certainly prior to the Wright Brothers are encouraged to consult the U S Air Force Academy Friends of the Library publication The Genesis of Flight The Aeronautical History Collection of Colonel Richard Gimbel

Nationalism and Ethnic Conflict, revised edition Michael E. Brown,Owen R. Cote, Jr.,Sean M. Lynn-Jones,Steven E. Miller,2001-09-14 Understanding the roots and causes of ethnic animosity analyses of recent events in Bosnia Kosovo

Rwanda Somalia and the former Soviet Union Most recent wars have been complex and bloody internal conflicts driven to a significant degree by nationalism and ethnic animosity Since the end of the Cold War dozens of wars in Bosnia Kosovo Rwanda Somalia the former Soviet Union and elsewhere have killed or displaced millions of people Understanding and controlling these wars has become one of the most important and frustrating tasks for scholars and political leaders This revised and expanded edition of Nationalism and Ethnic Conflict contains essays from some of the world's leading analysts of nationalism ethnic conflict and internal war The essays from the first edition have been updated and supplemented by analyses of recent conflicts and new research on the resolution of ethnic and civil wars The first part of the book addresses the roots of nationalistic and ethnic wars focusing in particular on the former Yugoslavia The second part assesses options for international action including the use of force and the deployment of peacekeeping troops The third part examines political challenges that often complicate attempts to prevent or end internal conflicts including refugee flows and the special difficulties of resolving civil wars

Air Power in the Age of Primacy Phil Haun, Colin Jackson, Timothy Paul Schultz, Tim Schultz, 2021-12-16 Analyzes the effectiveness of post Cold War air wars in Bosnia Kosovo Afghanistan Iraq Lebanon Libya Yemen Syria and against terrorist groups

Airmen and air theory a review of the sources Phillip S. Meilinger, 2001 This part of the book reviews the state of American airpower biography and autobiography I have set certain parameters to define the boundaries of my discussion I discuss biographies and autobiographies anthologies and oral histories of military officers who served in senior positions Thus although the stories of great aviators like Eddie Rickenbacker Charles Lindbergh and Chuck Yeager are important those men did not command large forces either in combat or in peace they had only a temporary effect on the development of strategy and doctrine Similarly excluded are civilian political leaders and industrialists like Stuart Symington and Donald Douglas even though they played key roles In their own spheres What follows are the stories some published some not of America's greatest military airmen some told by themselves others by biographers The order of presentation is roughly chronological according to the time during which these men served The fact that a surprising number of air luminaries do not appear here means that much work remains to be done

Coercion Kelly M. Greenhill, Peter Krause, 2018 From the rising significance of non state actors to the increasing influence of regional powers the nature and conduct of international politics has arguably changed dramatically since the height of the Cold War Yet much of the literature on deterrence and compellence continues to draw whether implicitly or explicitly upon assumptions and precepts formulated in and predicated upon politics in a state centric bipolar world Coercion moves beyond these somewhat hidebound premises and examines the critical issue of coercion in the 21st century with a particular focus on new actors strategies and objectives in this very old bargaining game The chapters in this volume examine intra state inter state and transnational coercion and deterrence as well as both military and non military instruments of persuasion thus expanding our understanding of coercion for conflict in the 21st century Scholars have analyzed the causes dynamics and effects of coercion for decades but previous works have principally focused on a single state employing conventional military means to pressure another state to alter its behavior. In contrast, this volume captures fresh developments both theoretical and policy relevant. This chapter in this volume focuses on tools: terrorism, sanctions, drones, cyber warfare, intelligence, and forced migration; actors: insurgents, social movements, and NGOs; and mechanisms: trilateral coercion, diplomatic and economic isolation, foreign imposed regime change, coercion of nuclear proliferators, and two level games that have become more prominent in recent years but which have yet to be extensively or systematically addressed in either academic or policy literatures.

Transformation Concepts for National Security in the 21st Century, 2002. This book represents some of the thinking by students at the U.S. Army War College considering the nature and direction of transformation. They consider how the transformed joint services of the United States should employ force in the 21st century. The services are exploring concepts such as Effects Based Operations and Rapid Decisive Operations to move swiftly and strike vigorously to secure victory in the coming decades. At the same time, the nation and its armed forces are developing new concepts of homeland security to defend the country in the war on terrorism. Officers who participated in the Advanced Strategic Art Program (ASAP) during Academic Year 2002 wrote the individual chapters. Air & Space Power Journal spr 04, Crisis Stability and Long-Range Strike Forrest E. Morgan, 2013-06-07. To effectively manage an international crisis, the United States must balance its threats with restraint. It must posture forces in ways that deter aggression without implying that an attack is imminent while limiting its own vulnerability to surprise attack. A RAND study sought to identify which long range strike assets—strike fighters, bombers, ballistic missiles, cruise missiles—offer capabilities most conducive to stabilizing such crises.

The Air Force Law Review, 2007. Conventional Coercion Across the Spectrum of Operations David E. Johnson, Karl P. Mueller, William H. Taft (V.), 2002. The raison d'être for any military is to deter an adversary from acting inimically to a nation's interests or, if deterrence fails, to coerce him into ceasing the actions. After defining terms and reviewing the literature on coercion, this report looks at the utility of the military as a coercive instrument. The authors analyze cases that provide insights into conventional coercion. They conclude by stressing the unchanged nature of coercion and that only a thorough understanding of our adversaries and of our own will and capabilities will yield a successful coercive strategy. Clean

Bombs and Dirty Wars Robert H. Gregory, 2015-10. After the United States along with NATO allies bombed the Serbian forces of Slobodan Milosevic for seventy-eight days in 1999, Milosevic withdrew his army from Kosovo. With no troops on the ground, political and military leaders congratulated themselves on the success of Operation Allied Force, considered to be the first military victory won through the use of strategic air power alone. This apparent triumph motivated military and political leaders to embrace a policy of using clean bombs, precision munitions, and air strikes without a dirty ground war as the preferred choice for answering military aggression. Ten years later, it inspired a similar air campaign against Muammar Gaddafi's forces in Libya as a groundswell of protests erupted into revolution. Clean Bombs and Dirty Wars offers a fresh perspective on the role relevance and effectiveness of air power in contemporary warfare including an exploration of the political motivations for its use as well as a candid examination of air to ground targeting processes Using recently declassified materials from the William J Clinton Presidential Library along with primary evidence culled from social media posted during the Arab Spring Robert H Gregory Jr shows that the argument that air power eliminates the necessity for boots on the ground is an artificial and illusory claim The Oxford Handbook of Foreign Policy Analysis Juliet Kaarbo, Cameron G. Thies, 2024 The Oxford Handbook of Foreign Policy Analysis provides an inclusive and forward looking assessment of this subfield Edited and written by a team of world class scholars it sets the agenda for future research in FPA and in IR A History of Air Warfare John Andreas Olsen, 2010 An overview of air power's history and effectiveness by the top experts in the field The Military Lens Christopher P. Twomey, 2011-07-15 In The Military Lens Christopher P Twomey shows how differing military doctrines have led to misperceptions between the United States and China over foreign policy and the potential dangers these might pose in future relations Because of their different strategic situations histories and military cultures nations may have radically disparate definitions of effective military doctrine strategy and capabilities Twomey argues that when such doctrines or theories of victory differ across states misperceptions about a rival's capabilities and intentions and false optimism about one's own are more likely to occur In turn these can impede international diplomacy and statecraft by making it more difficult to communicate and agree on assessments of the balance of power When states engage in strategic coercion either to deter or to compel action such problems can lead to escalation and war Twomey assesses a wide array of sources in both the United States and China on military doctrine strategic culture misperception and deterrence theory to build case studies of attempts at strategic coercion during Sino American conflicts in Korea and the Taiwan Strait in the early years of the Cold War as well as an examination of similar issues in the Arab Israeli conflict After demonstrating how these factors have contributed to past conflicts Twomey amply documents the persistence of hazardous miscommunication in contemporary Sino American relations His unique analytic perspective on military capability suggests that policymakers need to carefully consider the military doctrine of the nations they are trying to influence

International Humanitarian Law Facing New Challenges Wolff Heintschel von Heinegg, Volker Epping, 2007-03-06 Recent armed conflicts whether international or non international in character are in many respects characterized by a variety of asymmetries These asymmetries may be overstressed sometime even abused and ultimately virtually meaningless Still either as such or in conjunction with other developments they seem to challenge the law of armed conflicts or international humanitarian law These challenges may very well compromise the very function of that body of law which is to mitigate as far as possible the calamities of war Thus the law of armed conflict may be deprived of its fundamental function as an order of necessity because its legally binding directives will increasingly be disregarded for the sake of allegedly superior values In order to discuss these and other questions a most distinguished group of experts in the field of the law of armed conflicts gathered in Berlin in June 2005. The goal of that colloquium, which marked the 70th birthday of Knut Ipsen, was to find operable solutions for problems and challenges the contemporary law of armed conflict is confronted with. With contributions by Bill Boothby, Michael Bothe, Yoram Dinstein, Knut Dörmann, Charles J. Dunlap Jr., Volker Epping, Dieter Fleck, Steven Haines, Wolff Heintschel von Heinegg, Hans Joachim Heintze, Rainer Hofmann, Frits Kalshoven, Stefan Oeter, W. Hays Parks, Michael Schmitt, Torsten Stein, and Andreas Zimmermann.
