Basic Writers:

Mainstreaming Basic Writers Gerri McNenny, Sallyanne H. Fitzgerald, 2001-06 Explores the many facets of the mainstreaming movement in college level basic writing that are currently being debated Examines the theoretical political pedagogical concerns that arise as pressures push colleges to eliminate basic writing programs Rethinking Basic

Writing Laura Gray-Rosendale, 1999-12-01 This book surveys the history of basic writing scholarship suggesting that we cannot adequately theorize the situations of basic writers unless we examine how they construct their own conceptions of their identities their constructions of their relationships to social forces and their representations of their relationships to written work Using a cross disciplinary analytic model Gray Rosendale offers a detailed examination of the oral conversations that take place within one basic writing peer revision group She explains the ways in which the students own conversational structures impact and shape their written products Gray Rosendale then draws out the potentials of her work for basic writing administrators curricula builders and teachers Creative Writing Pedagogies for the Twenty-First Century

Alexandria Peary, Tom C Hunley, 2015-05-22 The creative writing workshop has long been entrenched as the primary pedagogy of creative writing classes This book offers twelve different approaches to the teaching of creative writing to supplement or replace traditional workshop pedagogy Contributors are from both creative writing and composition studies a discipline rich with a wide range of established pedagogies Writing Students Marguerite H. Helmers, 1994-11-22 This is a book about the usual teacher student relationship in composition courses It disrupts and rewrites the commonplace conception of the relationship by revealing the uneven ways in which power is deployed in and around the classroom And it offers a responsible alternative The author not only offers teachers a way of learning about power relations at their own specific sites but also works towards a more equitable redistribution Drawing from testimonials about teaching practice published in the journal College Composition and Communication Helmers explores conventions in this form of writing that portray students in a negative light and show the teacher to be powerfully triumphant in his or her creative pedagogy Several prevalent modes of representation are discussed in the book all of which define the students as distinctly different from the teachers in other words as an other The texture of the work is rich because Helmers takes an enormous amount of post structuralist theory and recasts it in the sphere of the teacher student relationship itself an underexplored realm

Teaching Writing Christina Russell McDonald, Robert L. McDonald, 2002 Teaching Writing Landmarks and Horizons edited by Christina Russell McDonald and Robert L McDonald is designed to present an overview of some of the major developments in the establishment of composition studies as a field during the past thirty five years The essays are theoretically grounded but are focused on pedagogy as well Divided into two parts the first presents nine landmark essays selected and introduced by distinguished composition scholars and the second brings together eight new essays by emerging scholars Resources in Education , 1997 Literacy as Social Exchange Maureen M. Hourigan, 1994-09-27 Literacy as Social Exchange examines the intersection of culture and literacy education. In particular, it explores the roles that class, race, ethnicity, and gender play in students learning to negotiate the conventions of academic discourse. It argues that recent literacy scholarship has tended to isolate class, gender, and culture as discrete marginalizing factors, but such isolation may unintentionally silence voices from non-Western, non-mainstream cultures. Writing program administrators and writing teachers who are interested in constructing programs that address the needs of all students in increasingly multicultural classrooms will need to examine how cultural factors influence the way students learn to read, write, and think critically. The author points out that some of the most influential scholars writing about the plight of underprivileged writers teach at some of the most exclusive institutions in the nation. These basic writers are not nearly so disadvantaged as many of the student writers most writing teachers encounter every day. The author explores enrollment trends in higher education that indicate conclusively that writing classrooms will soon be filled with students from non-Western, non-mainstream cultures. Because these students' rhetorical and literacy traditions will be unlike both those of their teachers and of the basic writers upon which so much literacy scholarship focuses, educators and literacy scholars need to increasingly conceptualize literacy in its larger political, social, and economic contexts.

A Pedagogy of Possibility Kay Halasek, 1999. The author reconceives composition studies from a Bakhtinian perspective, focusing on both the discipline's theoretical assumptions and its pedagogies. Halasek explores the implications of Bakhtin's work and provides a model of scholarship balanced between practice and theory.

Developing and Sustaining Adult Learners Carrie J. Boden, Kathleen P. King, 2013-10-01. Developing and Sustaining Adult Learners is the second volume in a series of scholarly publications associated with the annual Adult Higher Education Alliance (AHEA) The Alliance conference. The title of this volume derived from the theme of the 2012 conference, co-sponsored by the American Association of Adult and Continuing Education (AAACE) in Las Vegas, NV, encompasses significant issues and questions at the forefront of the field of adult education. At the conference, scholars, practitioners, and adult educators gave presentations and received feedback on some of the most significant and timely issues in their praxis. The Alliance, which values collaboration, transformative dialogue, and collegiality among professionals, considers this volume a continuation of those conversations as the presentations were expanded into chapters. We are glad that you are joining the conversation. This volume confirms not only that adult learning, higher education, and both fields of research have many contexts but also that there is so much more to learn about different perspectives and opportunities for research and practice. Opportunities for symbiotic relationships abound. We hope that Developing and Sustaining Adult Learners will be a book that you pull off your bookshelf or open in your e-reader often. We know that as we engage in program and course planning, design, and teaching, this book will provide needed refreshment and new vision. When research ideas seem too similar, this volume will also provide many seeds for new opportunities.

Best of the Independent Journals in Rhetoric and Composition 2014 Steve Parks, Brian Bailie, 2016-03-01. THE BEST OF THE INDEPENDENT RHETORIC AND COMPOSITION JOURNALS 2014 represents the result of a nationwide conversation beginning with journal editors but expanding to teachers scholars and workers across the discipline of Rhetoric and Composition to select essays that showcase the innovative and transformative work now being published in the field's independent journals

Nothing Begins with N Pat Belanoff, Peter Elbow, Sheryl I. Fontaine, 1991 The 16 essays in this book provide a theoretical underpinning for freewriting Sheryl I. Fontaine opens the book with a description of the organization purpose and content of students' 10 minute unfocused freewriting Pat Belanoff discusses the relationship between skilled and unskilled student writers Richard H. Haswell analyzes forms of freewriting Lynn Hammond describes the focused freewriting strategies used in legal writing and in the analysis of poetry Joy Marsella and Thomas L. Hilgers suggest ways of teaching freewriting as a heuristic Diana George and Art Young show what teachers learned about the writing abilities of three engineering students through freewriting journals Anne E. Mullin seeks to determine whether freewriting lives up to claims made for it Barbara W. Cheshire assesses the efficacy of freewriting James W. Pennebaker checks the short and long term effects of freewriting on students' emotional lives Ken Macrorie notes that freewriting means being freed to use certain powers Peter Elbow shows how authors use freewriting Robert Whitney tells why he hates to freewrite Karen Ferro considers her own freewriting showing how it leads to a deeper self understanding Chris Anderson discusses the qualities in freewriting that we should maintain in revision Burton Hatlen shows the parallels between writing projective verse and freewriting Sheridan Blau describes the results of experiments with invisible writing

A Rhetoric for Writing Program Administrators Rita Malenczyk, 2013-07-15 Influenced by Erika Lindemann's A Rhetoric for Writing Teachers A Rhetoric for Writing Program Administrators delineates the major issues and questions in the field of writing program administration and provides readers new to that field with theoretical lenses through which to view those issues and questions In brief and direct though not oversimplified chapters A Rhetoric for Writing Program Administrators explains the historical and theoretical background of such concepts as academic freedom first year composition basic writing writing across the curriculum placement ESL general education and transfer Its thirty nine contributors are seasoned writing program and center administrators who in a range of voices map the discipline of writing program administration and guide readers toward finding their own answers to solving problems at their own institutions

Research in Basic Writing Martin Jacobi, Michael G. Moran, 1990-02-15 This reference handbook surveys research on the central issue associated with the teaching of unprepared writers Though basic writing has only been recognized as a distinct area of teaching and research since 1975 the existing bibliographic texts already seem limited due to their age or lack of annotation This volume provides current and extensive bibliographic essays and will help to define this new field of study for teachers and researchers Following an introduction that summarizes the origins and significant texts in basic writing the book is divided into three sections Social Science Perspectives Linguistic Perspectives and Pedagogical Perspectives The first section which contains three essays views the field through the lens of social psychological and political issues The second section also containing three essays examines contributions made from studies of grammar dialects and second language acquisition The third section in its four essays focuses on the design development administration and evaluation of basic writing courses the use of computers in basic writing classrooms the role of the writing lab and the preparation of basic writing teachers An appendix that reviews current textbooks for basic writing courses is also included as well as an index This book will be a valuable resource for teachers of basic writing in education courses and workshops that train teachers and tutors and in fields such as linguistics technical writing and Teaching English as a Second Language It will also be an important addition to public and university libraries and many education programs

Literacy David Wray, 2004 This four volume collection reprints key debates about exactly what it means to be literate and how literacy can best be taught Rather than centering on the emotional reaction of mass media debates this set focuses on research findings into processes and pedagogy The themes covered include Literacy its nature and its teaching Reading processes and teaching Writing processes and teaching and New Literacies the impact of technologies Reconnecting Reading and Writing Alice S. Horning, Elizabeth W. Kraemer, 2013-09-06 Reconnecting Reading and Writing explores the ways in which reading can and should have a strong role in the teaching of writing in college Reconnecting Reading and Writing draws on broad perspectives from history and international work to show how and why reading should be reunited with writing in college and high school classrooms It presents an overview of relevant research on reading and how it can best be used to support and enhance writing instruction Constructing Rhetorical Education Davida Charney, Wilma R. Ebbitt, 1992 In nineteen essays illustrating its many aspects this book offers an argument for what it takes to construct a complete rhetorical education The editors take an approach that is pragmatic and pluralistic based as it is on the assumptions that a rhetorical education is not limited to teaching freshman composition or any specific writing course and that the contexts in which such an education occurs are not limited to classrooms This thought provoking volume stresses that while a rhetorical education results in the growth of writing skills its larger goal is to foster critical thinking

Teaching Academic Literacy , Community Colleges as Cultural Texts Kathleen M. Shaw, James R. Valadez, Robert A. Rhoads, 1999-09-02 Questions whether and how community colleges confront the challenges of diversity and provide real opportunities for upward mobility Student Writing Theresa M. Lillis, 2002-01-04 Student Writing presents an accessible and thought provoking study of academic writing practices Informed by composition research from the US and academic literacies studies from the UK the book challenges current official discourse on writing as a skill Lillis argues for an approach which sees student writing as social practice The book draws extensively on a three year study with ten non traditional students in higher education and their experience of academic writing Using case study material including literacy history interviews extended discussions with students about their writing of discipline specific essays and extracts from essays Lillis identifies the following as three significant dimensions to academic writing Access to higher education and to its language and literacy representational resources Regulation of meaning making in academic writing Desire for participation in higher education and for choices over ways of meaning in academic writing Student Writing access regulation desire raises questions about why academics write as they do who benefits from such writing which meanings are valued and how on what terms outsiders get to be insiders and at what costs Crossing the Digital Divide Barbara Jean Monroe, 2004-04-17 As poor nonwhite communities on the other side of the digital divide become immersed in electronic media how can we evaluate their experiences to transform the teaching of writing and literature and improve student learning This important book offers a balanced view of instructional technology and critical multiculturalism with valuable insights to help English educators at all levels working in all types of schools
