Crc Handbook Series In Zoonoses Section B Viral Zoonoses Volume 1:

Handbook of Zoonoses, Section B George W. Beran, 2017-12-06 This multivolume handbook presents the most authoritative and comprehensive reference work on major zoonoses of the world The Handbook of Zoonoses covers most diseases communicable to humans as well as those diseases common to both animals and humans It identifies animal diseases that are host specific and reviews the effects of various human diseases on animals Discussions address diseases that remain important public and animal health problems and the techniques that can control and prevent them The chapters are written by internationally recognized scientists in their respective areas of disease who work or have worked extensively in the most affected areas of the world The emphasis for each zoonosis is on the epidemiology of the disease the clinical syndromes and carrier states in infected animals and humans and the most current methods for diagnosis and approaches to control For infectious agents or biologic toxins which may be transmitted by foods of animal origin a strong focus is placed on food safety measures The etiologic and therapeutic aspects of each disease important to epidemiology and control are identified

Zoonoses and Communicable Diseases Common to Man and Animals Pedro N. Acha, 2001 Agents Transmissible from Simians to Man Manfred Brack, 2012-12-06 The contacts between man and nonhuman primates enable the transmission of microorganisms from one species to the other Such contact may occur at quite different levels man and nonhuman primates may share the same ecosystem including the presence of vectors in the countries of origins of monkeys and apes the animals are captured to be sold or used for food field researchers have to stay near the animals in the wild an uncontrolled human population gets close enough to almost touch the animals in zoological gardens around the world pet owners establish bodily contact and finally researchers doing surgery or necropsies are exposed to an increased number of pathogens liberated from the organs and body fluids Usually monkeys and apes are more threatened with catching the microorganisms indigenous to man than vice versa but nevertheless outbreaks of true zoonoses with nonhuman primates as the source of infection have occurred Also the retransmission of originally human pathogens via nonhuman primates to man may pose a considerable risk to human health Unfortunately the information on the different agents transmissible between man and his relatives is too disseminated for practical use as it involves quite different scientific disciplines such as virology bacteriology parasitology primatology laboratory animal science etc It seemed therefore necessary to compile the current knowledge concerning this topic in a single publication Human infections of simian origin may be caused by several viruses bacteria fungi or endoparasites Ectoparasites in comparison are of little importance
