Creating Corporate Audiovisual Presentations:

Creating Corporate Audio-Visual Presentations Richard Worth, 1991-04-19 Successful audio visual presentations are the result of careful management by as well as creative collaboration between the client and the professional communications firm. Because of their high visibility within the corporation, presentations risk falling prey to script by committee unless there is a clear plan at hand for managing the project. Executives who find themselves responsible for a presentation need to be fully aware of what audio visual can and cannot do and how to go about getting it done right. In this how to guide for corporate executives, author Richard Worth covers every step of the process in sequence from determining objectives to preparing for production and post production. While the emphasis is on working with an audio visual professional, Worth also includes do it yourself tips for readers who want to keep the project in house. Selecting slides, video, film, or multimedia is one of the first choices to make. This decision like others that follow should be based on a determination of purpose, audience, and message. Worth provides easy to follow worksheets to help get the planning process going. Readers looking for budget guidelines will learn how much money they will need to invest to get the presentations they want. And to help readers select the communications professional they will be working with, Worth offers down to earth advice based on his years of practical experience. In non technical language, he critiques and analyzes samples of script proposals and treatments, providing valuable insight into the creative process. Any executive or manager responsible for sales, training, public relations, fund raising, employee relations, or recruitment will find this a valuable resource for planning and implementing effective presentations.
