Junn, 1997-01-01 Criminology 97/98, 1997 Annual Editions Freiberg, Freiburg, 1997 Art and Intimacy Ellen Dissanayake, 2015-08-03 To Ellen Dissanayake the arts are biologically evolved propensities of human nature their fundamental features helped early humans adapt to their environment and reproduce themselves successfully over generations In Art and Intimacy she argues for the joint evolutionary origin of art and intimacy what we commonly call love It all begins with the human trait of birthing immature and helpless infants To ensure that mothers find their demanding babies worth caring for humans evolved to be lovable and to attune themselves to others from the moment of birth The ways in which mother and infant respond to each other are rhythmically patterned vocalizations and exaggerated face and body movements that Dissanayake calls rhythms and sensory modes Rhythms and modes also give rise to the arts Because humans are born predisposed to respond to and use rhythmic modal signals societies everywhere have elaborated them further as music mime dance and display in rituals which instill and reinforce valued cultural beliefs Just as rhythms and modes coordinate and unify the mother infant pair in ceremonies they coordinate and unify members of a group Today we humans live in environments very different from those of our ancestors They used ceremonies the arts to address matters of serious concern such as health prosperity and fecundity that affected their survival Now we tend to dismiss the arts to see them as superfluous only for an elite But if we are biologically predisposed to participate in artlike behavior then we actually need the arts Even or perhaps especially in our fast paced sophisticated modern lives the arts encourage us to show that we care about important things Positive Child Guidance Darla Ferris Miller, 2000 Beginning with the idea that children should ultimately become cooperative members of a democratic society this text outlines both the theory and practice needed to achieve this goal offering tools for supporting the long term development of responsibility self confidence and self control in children In considering children s individuality and diverse cultural needs and interests this process teaches adults how to deal with a broad range of behaviors and provides tips about how to maintain a positive assertiveness in the face of many challenges Miller has been a teacher child care center director teacher trainer consultant and professor and now works in administration at North Harris College Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Marketing 97/98 John E.
