Internationalization of the Chinese TV Sector Manfred Kops,Stefan Ollig,2007 In this reader media experts discuss the prospects and problems of program exchange between German and Chinese Broadcasters They explain that program exchange is not the cockaigne one could assume with regard to the non rivalry of media content and the huge Chinese TV market more than 300 million TV households and an estimated 180 000 hours of weekly broadcast time across all TV platforms but that many economic peculiarities of the media that only can be read in the footnotes of economic text books are highly relevant in practice To trade TV programs with China thus requires a solid knowledge about the TV business in general but also about the Chinese media order and the Chinese society and the Chinese way of business

The Budget of the United States Government United States. Bureau of the Budget, 1946 Anthropology Matters, Third Edition Shirley A. Fedorak, 2017-04-05 The third edition of this bestselling book introduces readers to anthropology and the world around it by connecting important concepts to current global issues A question based approach encourages readers to understand specific issues in a broader cross cultural context while building an appreciation for anthropology's role in developing global citizenship This edition has been updated and revised throughout including discussion of technology design anthropology and the effects of social media on cultural change As well two new chapters one on global responsibility for refugees and the other on human trafficking as a form of modern day slavery make the text particularly relevant The History of the Arts Council of Northern Ireland, 1943-2016 Lara Cuny, 2022-10-17 This book presents the history of the Council for the Encouragement of Music and the Arts CEMA in Northern Ireland from its conception in 1943 and its successor organisation the Arts Council of Northern Ireland ACNI Exploring the political and social impact of cultural policy in Northern Ireland the book illustrates how the arts developed during the twentieth century and sheds light on the relationship between politics and culture The author takes a closer look at the responsibilities of ACNI and examines its interaction with the unionist government which sought to influence how the organisation distributed its grants Spanning the outbreak of the Troubles in the 1960s and the Peace Process in the 1990s the ACNI evolved through a period of conflict and change and therefore this book argues that there was an undeniable link between the changing political environment and the management of the arts in Northern Ireland The arm's length principle is analysed in relation to ACNI examining the influence that the state had upon its management and governance Offering a unique historical overview of the arts in Northern Ireland this interdisciplinary book fills a gap in Irish history and presents insights into cultural policy conflict resolution and political history Programmer-Distributor Negotiations Terrance I. O'Reilly, 2008 When conflicts arise between a programmer a broadcaster or a cable network owner and a multi channel video programming distributor MVPD usually a cable or satellite operator about the carriage of particular video programming the price for that programming or the tier on which the programming is to be offered to the end user many consumers can be affected Recently there have been several incidents in which a negotiating impasse between a programmer and a distributor has resulted in the programmer refusing to allow the MVPD to carry or the MVPD choosing not to carry a program network While contractual terms conditions and rates are determined by private negotiations they are strongly affected by a number of federal statutory provisions and regulatory requirements including the statutory retransmission consent and must carry rules the FCC program exclusivity rules local into local and distant signal provisions in satellite laws copyright law provisions relating to cable and satellite statutory commercial leased access requirements and program carriage and non discriminatory access provisions and the FCC's media ownership rules The recent increase in negotiating impasses appears to be the result of structural market changes that have given programmers with must have programming much greater leverage particularly when they are negotiating with small distributors Competitive entry in distribution almost all cable companies now face competition from two satellite companies and are beginning to face competition from telephone companies has emboldened programmers with popular programming to demand cash payment from distributors for the right to carry that programming In particular local broadcasters increasingly are using the statutory retransmission consent requirement to demand cash payment from small cable companies who could lose subscribers to the satellite providers and new telephone entrants if they reach an impasse with the broadcaster and can no longer carry the local broadcast signals In the past the cable companies were the only MVPD in a market and could use that countervailing power to refuse to pay cash for carriage Thus ironically competition in the distribution market may be resulting in higher programming costs that MVPDs may have to pass on to their subscribers The small cable companies have argued that some of the existing statutory and regulatory requirements were implemented at a time when cable was a monopoly and were intended to protect broadcasters Now that the market dynamics have changed they argue some of these rules should be changed to allow for more even handed negotiations At the same time however as a result of consolidation and clustering in the cable industry there are a few very large cable companies which primarily serve major markets as well as the two national satellite operators that appear to have sufficient market strength to be able to withstand many of the demands of the programmers with must have programming and to place small independent programmers at a negotiating disadvantage
