International lawyers usually disregard the vital functions that general principles of law may play in the decisions of international courts and tribunals As far as international criminal law is concerned general principles of law may be crucial to the outcome of an international trial inter alia because the conviction of an accused in respect of a particular charge may depend on the existence of a given defence under this source This volume examines the role that general principles of law have played in the decisions of international criminal courts and tribunals In particular it analyses their alleged subsidiary nature their process of determination and their transposition from national legal systems into international law It concludes that general principles of law have played a significant role in the decisions of international criminal courts and tribunals not only by filling legal gaps but also by being a fundamental means for the interpretation of legal rules and the enhancement of legal reasoning The International Criminal Court, 1 March 2014-22 May 2014 André Klip,Steven Freeland,Victoria Häberle,2020

into account the differences between e.g. inquisitorial and adversarial penal systems and between criminal law and international humanitarian law. In doing so in this book full credit is given to the sui generis character of supranational criminal law. Individual Criminal Responsibility in International Law E. van Sliedregt, 2012-03. Atrocities such as genocide or crimes against humanity are usually committed by a large number of perpetrators. The International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia 2001-2002 André Klip, 2005. The Contribution of the Rwanda Tribunal to the Development of International Law Larissa van den Herik, 2005-07-01. This book offers a thorough analysis of the establishment and the Statute of the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda. Furthermore, it gives insight into how the Rwanda Tribunal has operated in practice during its first ten years and it examines the case law on the three major international crimes: genocide, crimes against humanity and war crimes. The author provides a balanced judgement of the contribution of the Rwanda Tribunal towards the development of international criminal law, emphasizing its strong points in particular the case law on genocide but also exposing its weaknesses in terms of legal reasoning. The author also demonstrates the inherent limits of the Rwanda Tribunal due to the political and social situation within Rwanda and due to its own Statute.
