Conservation Directory 2003 The Guide To Worldwide Environmental Organizations Conservation Directory 2003:

Conservation Directory 2003 National Wildlife Federation, 2003 For the past 48 years the National Wildlife Federation Conservation Directory has served as the preeminent guide to the conservation community for a broad range of audiences Island Press is proud to be a partner with the National Wildlife Federation to produce and distribute this invaluable annual reference The 2003 edition available January 2003 will be the most comprehensive listing yet published with information on nearly 4 000 government agencies nongovernmental organizations and colleges and universities as well as more than 18 000 officials concerned with environmental conservation education and natural resource use and management Included are listings of U S Congress members including committees and subcommittees state provincial and federal agencies in the U S and Canada national and international governmental organizations U S Canadian and international non governmental organizations colleges and universities with conservation programs parks refuges and other protected areas conservation information resources Each entry contains detailed contact information including names addresses and telephone and fax numbers also included are selected e mail and internet addresses descriptions of program areas senior staff by name and responsibility principal publications and more Entries are categorized by organization type and state or country and indexed alphabetically and by subject on subjects ranging from acid rain to zoology Each person listed in the directory is also indexed alphabetically For conservation groups environmental activists students and faculty outdoor writers and science editors natural resources agencies wildlife organizations scientists and researchers job seekers and anyone involved with the field of environmental conservation the Conservation Directory 2003 is an essential resource Global Environmental Challenges James Gustave Speth, 2005 This book will change the way we understand the future of our planet It is both alarming and hopeful James Gustave Speth renowned as a visionary environmentalist leader warns that in spite of all the international negotiations and agreements of the past two decades efforts to protect Earth's environment are not succeeding Still he says the challenges are not insurmountable He offers environmental threats around the world The author explains why current approaches to critical global environmental problems Climate change biodiversity loss deterioration of marine environments deforestation water shortages and others don't work now and won't work in the future He provides a stinging critique of the failure of U S leadership and offers intriguing insights into why the U S has been able to address domestic environmental threats with some success while largely failing at the international level Setting forth eight specific steps to a sustainable future Speth convincingly argues that dramatically different and far reaching actions by citizens and governments are now urgent If ever a book could be described as essential this is it Ulrich's Periodicals Directory 2003 Edgar H. Adcock (Jr.), 2003 Legal, Institutional, and Economic Indicators of Forest Conservation and Sustainable Management, 2005 This review looks at the Nation's legal institutional and economic capacity to promote forest conservation and sustainable resource management It focuses on 20 indicators of Criterion Seven of the so called Montreal Process and involves an extensive search and synthesis of information from a variety of sources It identifies ways to fill information gaps and improve the usefulness of several indicators It concludes that there is substantial information about the application of such capacities although that application is widely dispersed among agencies and private interests which in turn has led to differing interpretations of the indicators Individual chapters identify a need to further develop the conceptual foundation on which many of the indicators are predicated While many uncertainties in the type and accuracy of information are brought to light the review clearly indicates that legal institutional and economic capacities to promote sustainability are large and widely available in both the public and private sectors P vi

The New Walford Guide to Reference Resources Ray Lester,2005 The New Walford highlights the best resources to use when undertaking a search for accurate and relevant information saving you precious time and effort For those looking for a selective and evaluative reference resource that really delivers on its promise look no further In addition to print sources The New Walford naturally covers an extensive range of e reference sources such as digital databanks digital reference services electronic journal collections meta search engines networked information services open archives resource discovery services and websites of premier organizations in both the public and private sectors But rather than supplying a list of all available known resources as a web search engine might The New Walford subject specialists have carefully selected and evaluated available resources to provide a definitive list of the most appropriate and useful With an emphasis on quality and sustainability the subject specialists have been careful to assess the differing ways that information is framed and communicated in different subject areas As a result the resource evaluations in each subject area are prefaced by an introductory overview of the structure of the relevant literature This ensures that The New Walford is clear easy to use and intuitive Publisher The National Agricultural Directory 2009 ,2009 Library Journal ,2002 Current Publications in Legal and Related Fields ,2004

The National Agricultural Directory 2011 ,2010 Cave Ecology Oana Teodora Moldovan,Lubomír Kováč,Stuart Halse,2019-01-05 Cave organisms are the monsters of the underground world and studying them invariably raises interesting questions about the ways evolution has equipped them to survive in permanent darkness and low energy environments Undertaking ecological studies in caves and other subterranean habitats is not only challenging because they are difficult to access but also because the domain is so different from what we know from the surface with no plants at the base of food chains and with a nearly constant microclimate year round The research presented here answers key questions such as how a constant environment can produce the enormous biodiversity seen below ground what adaptations and peculiarities allow subterranean organisms to thrive and how they are affected by the constraints of their environment This book is divided into six main parts which address the habitats of cave animals their complex diversity the environmental factors that support that diversity individual case studies of cave ecosystems and of the conservation challenges they face all of which culminate in proposals for future research directions Given its breadth of coverage it offers an essential reference guide for graduate students and established researchers alike

Art and Cultural Heritage Barbara T. Hoffman, 2006 Art and Cultural Heritage is appropriately but not solely about national and international law respecting cultural heritage It is a bubbling cauldron of law mixed with ethics philosophy politics and working principles looking at how cultural heritage law policy and practice should be sculpted from the past as the present becomes the future Art and cultural heritage are two pillars on which a society builds its identity its values its sense of community and the individual The authors explore these demanding concerns untangle basic values and look critically at the conflicts and contradictions in existing art and cultural heritage law and policy in its diverse sectors The rich and provocative contributions collectively provide a reasoned discussion of the issues from a multiplicity of views to permit the reader to understand the theoretical and philosophical underpinnings of the cultural heritage debate
