Constable and His Drawings Ian Fleming-Williams, John Constable, 1990 This collection of 42 drawings never previously published together gives new insight into Constable's technical and emotional approach into his work With the help of copious comparative illustrations and exhaustively detailed research drawn from numerous contemporary sources the author builds up a portrait of the artist his background and family life The luscious quality of Constable's painting typifies an idealized image of the English countryside in the 18th century Such familiar paintings as Greenham Lock and Flatford Mill were not captured in spontaneous bursts but were committed to canvas only after numerous working drawings and oil sketches had been completed This is the first full length study of the subject presenting much hitherto unpublished material and offering a balanced and pertinent assessment of Constable and his work John Constable Ronald Parkinson, 1998 Both an introduction to John Constable's life and a companion to the Victoria and Albert Museum's collection this book ranges from his early years at the Royal Academy through his relationship with fellow artist William Turner to his last years in Hampstead

Constable: Paintings, Drawings and Watercolours John Constable, Basil Taylor, 1973      Constable, the Painter and His Landscape Michael Rosenthal, John Constable, 1983

Traces the life and career of the great English landscape painter and discusses the influence of his background and literature of the period on his work.

John Constable Anthony Bailey, 2007

Born in 1776 in East Anglia near the river Stour, John Constable was destined for his father's business of milling and grain shipping. But he was obdurately opposed to this and persuaded his family he should become an artist instead. In the same determined spirit he wooed Maria Bicknell in the teeth of opposition from her formidable grandfather and persisted in painting landscapes at a time when history paintings and portraits were the fashion. Sometimes sharp and sarcastic and often depressed, Constable in fact possessed a warm gift for intimate friendship. This is revealed in his letters to John Dunthorne, village handyman and housepainter, and to his best friend and patron, archdeacon John Fisher, to whom he wrote, "I have a kingdom of my own, both fertile and populous, my landscape and my children." In recent times, after a period of relative ignominy, Constable's influence on British landscape painting has been reacknowledged; he has been more widely exhibited and his reputation has been reestablished as one of the masters of his genre. This important and absorbing biography explores his life and work and highlights the dramatic tension between the two.

An exhibition of sketches and drawings by John Constable from the collection of Dr. H.A.C. Gregory M.C., 1949, 1949      John Constable: 81 Drawings and Watercolors Narim Bender, 2015-01-15

John Constable was an English painter ranked with Turner as one of the greatest British landscape artists. After spending some years working in the Picturesque tradition of landscape and the manner of Gainsborough, Constable developed his own original treatment from the attempt to render scenery more directly and realistically. He thought that "No two days are alike, nor even two hours; neither were there ever two leaves of a tree alike since the creation of the world." The sound of water escaping from mill dams, willows, old rotten planks, slimy posts, and brickwork: "I love such things. These scenes made me a painter." He never went abroad, and his finest works are of the places he knew and loved best, particularly Suffolk and Hampstead, where he lived from 1821. Often completing primary sketches prior to starting a large canvas, Constable would draw on the inspiration nature gave him and tries to capture a moment in time, testing his composition first in sketches.

John Constable R.A., 1776-1837 John Constable, Harold A. E. Day, 1975      Constable and Salisbury Timothy Wilcox, 2011

Apart from the Stour Valley on the borders of Suffolk and Essex, where he grew up, Constable made more paintings and drawings in and around Salisbury than in any other part of England. He was a regular visitor for nearly twenty years, staying in the Close first as guest of the bishop, then with his nephew, Archdeacon John Fisher. Paintings and drawings of Salisbury figure in every exhibition of Constable's art, but they have never been considered in isolation. This new study examines every aspect of Constable's connections with Salisbury casting new light not only on the places and people but on his intriguing interpretations of such familiar monuments as Salisbury Cathedral Old Sarum and Stonehenge Published to accompany the exhibition Constable and Salisbury The Soul of Landscape at the Museum of Salisbury and South Wiltshire situated within Salisbury Cathedral Close it promotes a fresh understanding of Constable's art AUTHOR Timothy Wilcox is a writer and curator with a particular interest in British landscape painting and watercolours He is the author of Samuel Palmer and The Glory of Watercolour and a contributor to Constable's Clouds and The Solitude of Mountains Constable in the Lake District 157 colour illustrations
