Arrested Adulthood James E. Cote,2000-07 An examination into the social influences that have prolonged youth in today s adults Why are today s adults more like adolescents in their dress and personal tastes than ever before Why do so many adults seem to drift and avoid responsibilities such as work and family As the traditional family breaks down and marriage and child rearing are delayed what makes a person an adult Many people in the industrial West are simply not growing up in the traditional sense Instead they pursue personal individual fulfillment and emerge from a vague and prolonged youth into a vague and insecure adulthood The transition to adulthood is becoming more hazardous and the destination is becoming more difficult to reach if it is reached at all Arrested Adulthood examines the variety of young people s responses to this new situation James E C t shows us adults who allow the profit driven industries of mass culture to provide the structure that is missing as their lives become more individualistic and atomized He also shows adults who resist anomie and build their world around their sense of personal connectedness to others Finally C t provides a vision of a truly progressive society in which all members can develop their potentials apart from the influence of the market In so doing he gives us a clearer vision of what it means to be an adult and makes sense of the longest but least understood period of the life course

Social constructionism and theology [electronic resource] Chris A. M. Hermans,2002 Practical theology starts its theological reflections from practices aims at analyzing empirically practices and is directed towards the transformation of these practices From this practice orientation there is a strong connection between practical theology and the social sciences Social constructionism is a growing theory within the social sciences This volume offers a theological and social scientific reflection on this emerging concept of social constructionism New Feminist Stories of Child Sexual Abuse Paula Reavey, Sam Warner, 2003-08-29 The international feminist contributors to this book look through the lens of poststructuralism at how child sexual abuse is differently represented and understood in the populist academic clinical media and legal contexts Reworking earlier feminist analyses they show how child sexual abuse is not just about gender and power but also about class race and sexuality The first theoretical section of the book critiques normative theories of the effects of abuse explores the impact and consequences of feminist interventions and critically examines the potential usefulness of a feminist post structuralist approach In the second part these understandings are applied to specific arenas of practice with the aim of providing a framework for critical intervention and alternative and better ways of working with child sexual abuse Psychotropic Drugs and Popular Culture Lawrence C. Rubin, 2014-01-10 Psychotropic drugs those intended to change moods numb anxiety calm children are pervasive in American culture References are everywhere not just in print and electronic advertisements but in television show dialogue movies song lyrics and on advertising paraphernalia like notepads wall clocks mouse pads coffee mugs pens and pencils The authors in this compilation of essays on psychotropic drugs and mass culture contend that society has been transformed into an asylum without walls a psychotropia With each new definition of a mental ailment a new cure is offered increasing the number of inmates in this borderless asylum and blurring the lines between mental health and mental illness Eight essays probe this issue with an introduction and conclusion by the editor The introduction frames the topic in the dehumanized asylums brought to light in 1961 by sociologist Erving Goffman and in author Marshall McLuhan's warning not to be seduced by the media Essay topics cover how psychotropia came to be drug portrayal in Hollywood advertising in cyberspace and the postmodern condition the advertising madness that promotes better living through chemistry food as medicine the music culture of psychotropia children and psychotropic drugs and stereotypes and manipulation in mass marketing Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here Do You Feel it Too? Nicoline Timmer, 2010 Do You Feel It Too explores a new sense of self that is becoming manifest in experimental fiction written by a generation of authors who can be considered the heirs of the postmodern tradition It offers a precise in depth analysis of a new post postmodern direction in fiction writing and highlights which aspects are most acute in the post postmodern novel Most notable is the emphatic expression of feelings and sentiments and a drive toward inter subjective connection and communication The self that is presented in these post postmodern works of fiction can best be characterized as relational To analyze this new sense of self a new interpretational method is introduced that offers a sophisticated approach to fictional selves combining the insights of post classical narratology and what is called narrative psychology Close analyses of three contemporary experimental texts Infinite Jest 1996 by David Foster Wallace A Heartbreaking Work of Staggering Genius 2000 by Dave Eggers and House of Leaves 2000 by Mark Danielewski provide insight into the typical problems that the self experiences in postmodern cultural contexts

Three such problems or symptoms are singled out and analyzed in depth an inability to choose because of a lack of decision making tools a difficulty to situate or appropriate feelings and a structural need for a we a desire for connectivity and sociality The critique that can be distilled from these texts especially on the perceived solipsistic quality of postmodern experience worlds runs parallel to developments in recent critical theory These developments in fiction and theory both signal in the wake of poststructural conceptions of subjectivity a perhaps much awaited turn to the human in our culture at large today

Exploring the Self, Subjectivity, and Character across Japanese and Translation Texts Senko K. Maynard, 2022-01-17 From the perspective of philosophical contrastive pragmatics this study investigates our multiple selves as manifested in how we use language Based on analyses of original and translation texts of Japanese and English literary works the Japanese self is proposed as being fundamentally empty and yet richly populated with multiple subjective aspects characters and characteristics Incorporating the concept of emptiness drawn from Japanese philosophical traditions and postmodernism primarily developed in the West selves evidenced in grammar style and variation are investigated applying interpretive resources of linguistic subjectivity character and character speak Expressive gaps found in source and target texts across two languages lead us toward different ontological views and guide us to engage in the rethinking of the concept of self
