Taylor, 2022 Alternative World Scenarios for a New Order of Nations Charles William Taylor, 1993 This futures book reflects the global trends and events of the recent past of today that are bringing about change to the world's political economic social technological and military environments Provides a set of plausible scenarios against which users can build policies and decisions while anticipating and judging their consequences before implementation Useful for strategic planning through active and reserve components of the U S military Also useful for long range planning by business industry academia and other private and governmental organizations Charts tables and drawings Also includes a 21 page study Creating Strategic Visions Alternative World Scenarios for a New Order of Nations , Alternative World Scenarios for a New Order of Nations Charles William Taylor, 1993 This futures book reflects the global trends and events of the recent past and those of today that are bringing about change to the world's political economic social technological and military environments The forecasts found throughout the book are derived from analysis of the open literature and other media the author's experience as a futurist and his own futures writings This book was written as a text and guide for long range planners policymakers and others It provides a set of plausible scenarios against which users can build policies and decisions while anticipating and judging their consequences before implementation Alternative World Scenarios for a New Order of Nations Lieutenant G. Scott Taylor, 2012-12-07 This book is written to provide decisionmakers policymakers long range planners and others interested in the future a means to compare the consequences of their actions taken today to plausible future alternative world environments or scenarios Earlier work by the author has provided the four basic scenarios which are easily monitored for updating Scenario updating is a task that is advisable at least every 5 years to maintain the usefulness of the scenarios The text presented here describes the processes and methods for the creation of alternative scenarios and the use of the Cone of Plausibility described in Creating Strategic Visions Taylor 1990 to project the scenarios 10 to 30 years or more into the future The text also supports and is based on the following two previous writings of the author Alternative World Scenarios for Strategic Planning Taylor 1988 and 1990 and A World 2010 A New Order of Nations Taylor 1992 This is a work of the Strategic Studies Institute The Strategic Studies Institute of the U S Army War College publishes national security and strategic research and analysis which serves to influence policy debate and bridge the gap between Military and Academia An Alternative Scenario for the Reunification of Korea Steve A. Fondacaro, 1997 This paper predicts an alternate scenario to Korean reunification to those currently being discussed in and out of South Korea Much of what has been written discusses the demise of the present North Korean government along a spectrum of turbulence from gradual decay to violent implosion The predicted results also vary from peaceful absorption by the South Korean government to a war of desperation scenario precipitated by the decaying Northern regime in a last ditch effort to retain power This paper explores a scenario where the two Koreas end up as secondary players in the future of the Korean peninsula The primary regional actor to emerge will be China As the ascendant regional power China will shape events on the Korean Peninsula to fit its own future vision of Northeast Asia It is further proposed that this Chinese vision will seek to maintain the peaceful division of North and South Korea in the short term 10 to 20 years following the demise of the present North Korean government China is seen in this scenario as moving unilaterally on the basis of long standing agreements with North Korea into North Korea as the government implodes It is in the Chinese interest to prevent the uncontrolled rise of a new potentially powerful reunified Korean regional competitor Additionally China will seek to minimize United States influence in the region For obvious historical military and economic reasons the Japanese desire to maintain the geopolitical and economic status quo will cause them to play a supporting role in the Chinese effort This move together with its predictable control of the Spratly Islands oil and natural gas reserves an already powerful military and rapidly growing economy will put China in a position to much more effectively influence the future of the region
