Hopes, Utopian Dreams Don Hanlon Johnson, 2006 Finding his idealism challenged by the reactionary forces that have proliferated in the post 9 11 world Don Hanlon Johnson felt a need to recover more sober visions of hope amid the many reasons for despair and cynicism Everyday Hopes Utopian Dreams is a bracing backward turn toward the diverse and often conflicting visions passed down to Johnson by his immigrant ancestors who settled in the Sacramento Valley in the nineteenth century Through stories about neighborhood local churches hunting and fishing driving cooking heavy construction and schools he examines what in our forebears ideals continue to nurture us and what aspects of those ideals carry germs of personal and social harm Johnson s descriptions offer a lens for recovering the deep soul of America one that deserves attention as a model for progressives and anyone concerned the directions our country has taken in response to 9

11 Transrational Peace Research and Elicitive Facilitation Norbert Koppensteiner, 2020-06-22 This book sheds new light on transrational approaches to peace research and highlights elicitive approaches to facilitation Rather than encouraging researchers teachers and practitioners to control and suppress their own positionality the book argues that they can see themselves as a potential resource that can be creatively tapped for their work Using dance as a central metaphor it seeks to reposition research and facilitation as a truly experiential process where the entirety of human experiences and epistemologies can be brought into interplay opening up new sources of knowledge Providing a cutting edge theoretical framework and based on his practical experience the author demonstrates that facilitation and research are not just cognitive but can also become embodied emotional intuitive relational and spiritual By proposing a systematic methodological framework for research and facilitation the book offers practical guidance for peace practitioners facilitators and researchers interested in working through all dimensions of their being and engaging with conflict transformation in a holistic way

Designing with the Body Kristina Hook, 2018-11-13 Interaction design that entails a qualitative shift from a symbolic language oriented stance to an experiential stance that encompasses the entire design and use cycle With the rise of ubiquitous technology data driven design and the Internet of Things our interactions and interfaces with technology are about to change dramatically incorporating such emerging technologies as shape changing interfaces wearables and movement tracking apps A successful interactive tool will allow the user to engage in a smooth embodied interaction creating an intimate correspondence between users actions and system response And yet as Kristina H k points out current design methods emphasize symbolic language oriented and predominantly visual interactions In Designing with the Body H k proposes a qualitative shift in interaction design to an experiential felt aesthetic stance that encompasses the entire design and use cycle H k calls this new approach soma design it is a process that reincorporates body and movement into a design regime that has long privileged language and logic Soma design offers an alternative to the aggressive rapid design processes that dominate commercial interaction design it allows and requires a slow thoughtful process that takes into account fundamental human values She argues that this new approach will yield better products and create healthier more sustainable companies H k outlines the theory underlying soma design and describes motivations methods and tools She offers examples of soma design encounters and an account of her own design process She concludes with A Soma Design Manifesto which challenges interaction designers to restart their field to focus on bodies and perception rather than reasoning and intellect
