The Enlightenment has been blamed for some of the most deadly developments of modern life racism and white supremacy imperialist oppression capitalist exploitation neoliberal economics scientific positivism totalitarian rule These developments are thought to have grown from principles that are rooted in the soil of the Enlightenment abstraction reduction objectification quantification division universalization Michael McKeon's new book corrects this defective view by historicizing the Enlightenment by showing that the Enlightenment has been abstracted from its history From its past critics have ignored that Enlightenment thought is a reaction against deadly traditions that precede it From its present the Enlightenment extended its reactive analysis of the past to its own present through self analysis and self criticism From its future much of what's been blamed amounts to the failure of its posterity to sustain Enlightenment principles To historicize the Enlightenment requires that we conjure what it was like to live through the emergence of concepts and practices that are now commonplace society privacy the public the market experiment secularity representative democracy human rights social class sex and gender fiction the aesthetic attitude McKeon's book argues the continuity of Enlightenment thought its consistency and integrity across this broad range of conceptual domains It also shows how the Enlightenment has shaped our views of both tradition and modernity and the revisionary work that needs to be done in order to understand our place in the future In the process Historicizing the Enlightenment exemplifies a distinctive historiography and historical method Published by Bucknell University Press Distributed worldwide by Rutgers University Press IISIIIDIOLOGY Vol 1.
