Elderly People, Their Medicines, and Their Doctors Ann Cartwright, Christopher Smith, 2024-05-10 In the late 1980s an increasing proportion of all prescribed medicines went to people over 65 years of age not only because they constituted a growing sector of the population but also because their consumption rate unlike that of younger people was increasing This increase was therefore a matter for widespread concern which had until now been largely speculative as no recent national survey had focused on this issue Originally published in 1988 Ann Cartwright and Christopher Smith looked at the medicines prescribed for and taken by a nationally representative sample of elderly people The experiences and views of both patients elderly people and professionals general practitioners are examined and related What is revealed is how much and how little GPs knew about the social circumstances and medicine taking of their elderly patients Evaluation of all the prescribed medicines taken shows the extent of elderly people s knowledge of their medication and identifies duplications potentially harmful interactions contraindications and inappropriate dosages Recommendations for action to be taken by doctors pharmacists medical educators and elderly people themselves made this book essential reading for all those concerned with the health and welfare of elderly people at the time
