Coping Isn't Enough:

"When Salary is not Enough..." Eckhard Dittrich, Heiko Schrader, 2015 Systemic change from a planned economy to a market society requires not only an implementation of market institutions but also the actions of people according to the new conditions in everyday life This book focuses on the question of how far middle class households are able to organize their livelihoods It presents a cross country rural urban comparison in Kazakhstan and Kyrgyzstan based on secondary data and quantitative and qualitative primary research It examines region specific questions such as Do these households take the necessary self responsibility for their lives Or do they still rely on the Soviet type nanny state of the past Or do they only believe in their own networks of kin and acquaintances for earning their livelihoods Series Societal Transformations Gesellschaftliche Transformationen Vol 20 Subject Sociology Economics Asian Studies Why Knowing What To Do Is Not Enough Anne-Greet Keizer, Will Tiemeijer, Mark Bovens, 2019-09-19 This open access book sets out to explain the reasons for the gap between knowing and doing in view of self reliance which is more and more often expected of citizens In today's society people are expected to take responsibility for their own lives and be self reliant This is no easy feat They must be on constant high alert in areas of life such as health work and personal finances and if things threaten to go awry take appropriate action without further ado What does this mean for public policy Policymakers tend to assume that the government only needs to provide people with clear information and that once properly informed they will automatically do the right thing However it is becoming increasingly obvious that things do not work like that Even though people know perfectly well what they ought to do they often behave differently Why is this This book sets out to explain the reasons for the gap between knowing and doing It focuses on the role of non cognitive capacities such as setting goals taking action persevering and coping with setbacks and shows how these capacities are undermined by adverse circumstances By taking the latest psychological insights fully into account this book presents a more realist perspective on self reliance and shows government officials how to design rules and institutions that allow for the natural limitations in people's capacity to act

How We Cope with Digital Technology Phil Turner, 2022-06-01 Digital technology has become a defining characteristic of modern life Almost everyone uses it we all rely on it and many of us own a multitude of devices What is more we all expect to be able to use these technologies straight out of the box This lecture discusses how we are able to do this without apparent problems We are able to use digital technology because we have learned to cope with it To cope is used in philosophy to mean absorbed engagement that is we use our smart phones and tablet computers with little or no conscious effort In human computer interaction this kind of use is more often described as intuitive While this of course is testament to improved design our interest in this lecture is in the human side of these interactions We cope with technology because we are familiar with it We define familiarity as the readiness to engage with technology which arises from being repeatedly exposed to it often from birth This exposure involves the frequent use of it and seeing people all around us using it every day Digital technology has become as common a feature of our everyday lives as the motor car TV credit card cutlery or a dozen other things which we also use without conscious deliberation We will argue that we cope with digital technology in the same way as we do these other technologies by means of this everyday familiarity But this is only half of the story We also regularly support or scaffold our use of technology These scaffolding activities are described as epistemic actions which we adopt to make it easier for us to accomplish our goals With digital technology these epistemic actions include appropriating it to more closely meet our needs In summary coping is a situated embodied and distributed description of how we use digital technology Table of Contents Introduction Familiarity Coping Epistemic Scaffolding Coping in Context Bibliography Author Biography
