Corpse Without Flesh:

Corpse Without Flesh George BRUCE (American Novelist.),1938 I More than Others Eric R. Severson,2009-12-14

Fyodor Dostoyevsky expressed a strange and surprising sentiment through one of the characters of The Brothers Karamazov. A dying young man named Markel declares: Every one of us has sinned against all men and I more than others. He later says every one of us is answerable for everyone else and for everything. Markel's absurd claims have engendered many reflections on the nature of suffering and what it means to be responsible for someone else's suffering. The world has no shortage of pain and evil; what exactly is the relationship between suffering and responsibility? Markel's declarations press forward a question that drives this essay collection: how responsible should we consider ourselves for the suffering of the world? This volume is a collection of essays that struggle in various ways to understand and respond to several philosophical, theological, and practical problems. In each case, the authors grapple with issues surrounding suffering, immorality, evil, exploitation, and oppression. The contributors share a clear concern for the ways that philosophers and theologians should respond to the problems of suffering and evil. They also share a conviction that these remain intense and central problems for philosophy and theology. Evil is an obstacle for belief, for morality, for hospitality, and for hope. This book struggles to address the particular and strong sense of responsibility that falls on Christians when it comes to understanding and, more importantly, responding to the problems of suffering and evil in the world.

Intensities Katharine Sarah Moody,2016-05-23 Is the affirmation or intensification of life a value in itself? Can life itself be thought? This book breaks new ground in religious and philosophical thinking on the concept of life. It captures a moment in which such thinking is regaining its force and attraction for scholars and the relevance of thought to social, cultural, political, and religious dilemmas about how and why to live. Bringing together original contributions by highly distinguished authors in the field of Continental philosophy of religion, including John D. Caputo, Pamela Sue Anderson, Philip Goodchild, Alison Martin, and Don Cupitt, this book has a distinctiveness based on its refusal to sit easily within either secular philosophical or theological approaches. The concept of life mobilizes a thinking that crosses narrow disciplinary boundaries whilst retaining philosophical rigour. Three sections explore the various dimensions of the question of life: The Politics of Life, Life and the Limits of Thinking, and Life and Spirituality. This book will be of interest to a broad range of readers in the humanities, particularly to philosophers, theologians, cultural theorists, and all those interested in philosophical or theological debates on the concept of life.

Animism in Rainforest and Tundra Marc Brightman, Vanessa Elisa Grotti, Olga Ulturgasheva,2012-08-01 Amazonia and Siberia, classic regions of shamanism, have long challenged western understandings of man's place in the world. By exploring the social relations between humans and non-human entities credited with human-like personhood, not only animals and plants but also things such as artifacts, trade items, or mineral resources, from a comparative perspective, this volume offers valuable insights into the constitutions of humanity and personhood characteristic of the two areas. The contributors conducted their ethnographic fieldwork among peoples undergoing transformative processes of their lived environments such as the depletion of natural resources and migration to urban centers They describe here fundamental relational modes that are being tested in the face of change presenting groundbreaking research on personhood and agency in shamanic societies and contributing to our global understanding of social and cultural change and continuity

Body Image and Identity in Contemporary Societies Ekaterina

Sukhanova,Hans-Otto Thomashoff,2015-03-24 Popular interest in body image issues has grown dramatically in recent years due to an emphasis on individual responsibility and self determination in contemporary society as well as the seemingly limitless capacities of modern medicine however body image as a separate field of academic inquiry is still relatively young The contributors of Body Image and Identity in Contemporary Societies explore the complex social political and aesthetic interconnections between body image and identity It is an in depth study that allows for new perspectives in the analysis of contemporary visual art and literature but also reflects on how these social constructs inform clinical treatment Sukhanova and Thomashoff bring together contributions from psychoanalysts psychotherapists psychiatrists and scholars in the fields of the social sciences and the humanities to explore representations of the body in literature and the arts across different times and cultures The chapters analyse the social construction of the ideal body in terms of beauty gender sexuality race ethnicity class and disability from a broadly psychoanalytic perspective and traces the mechanisms which define the role of the physical appearance in the formation of identity and the assumption of social roles Body Image and Identity in Contemporary Societies unique interdisciplinary outlook aims to bridge the current gap between clinical observations and research in semiotic theory It will be of interest to psychoanalysts psychotherapists art therapists art theorists academics in the humanities and social sciences and those interested in an interdisciplinary approach to the issues of body image and identity Ekaterina Sukhanova is University Director of Academic Program Review at the City University of New York USA She serves as Scientific Secretary of the Section for Art and Psychiatry and the Section of Art and Psychiatry of the World Psychiatric Association She is also engaged in interdisciplinary research on cultural constructs of mental health and illness and curates exhibits of art brut as a vehicle for fighting stigma Hans Otto Thomashoff was born in Germany and lives in Vienna He is a psychiatrist psychoanalyst art historian and author of fiction and non fiction books He has been curator of several art exhibitions highlighting the connection between the psyche and art as well as president of the section of Art and Psychiatry of the World Psychiatric Association and advisory committee member of the Sigmund Freud Foundation Vienna

Happy Death Club Naomi Westerman,2025-10-10 Anthropologist Naomi Westerman was studying death rituals around the world when her whole family died Upon losing those closest to her Naomi Westerman saw that death was more than just an abstract academic concept it was a deeply painful and personal experience She became fascinated by loss and grief and hoped to cope and demystify death by turning to history art and pop culture Happy Death Club examines the many faces of death and grief in Westerman s own life and in cultures around the world From expensive coffins and unconventional burials to horror films and true crime what does our treatment of death and dying have to tell us about how we live our lives What makes a good death And who owns our bodies before and after we die Both meaningful and darkly humorous Happy Death Club presents a frank curious look at this universal human experience one we re often too afraid to talk about and what lies beyond Routledge Handbook of Medicine and Poetry Alan Bleakley,Shane Neilson,2024-05-02 The Routledge Handbook of Medicine and Poetry draws on an international selection of authors to ask what the cultures of poetry and medicine may gain from reciprocal critical engagement The volume celebrates interdisciplinary inquiry critique and creative expansion with an emphasis upon amplifying provocative and marginalized voices This carefully curated collection offers both historical context and future thinking from clinicians poets artists humanities scholars social scientists and bio scientists who collectively inquire into the nature of relationships between medicine and poetry Importantly these can be both productive and unproductive How for example do poet doctors reconcile the outwardly antithetical approaches of bio scientific medicine and poetry in their daily work where typically the former draws on technical language and associated thinking and the latter on metaphors How does non narrative lyrical poetry engage with narrative based medicine How do poets writing about medicine identify as patients Central to the volume is the critical investigation of the consequences of varieties of medical pedagogy for clinical practice Presenting a vision of how poetic thinking might form a medical ontology this thought provoking book affords an essential resource for scholars and practitioners from across medicine health and social care medical education the medical and health humanities and literary studies The Book of Martyrs, Or, Christian Martyrology: Containing an Authentic and Historical Relation of Many Dreadful Persecutions Against the Church of Christ, from the Death of Abel to the Beginning of the Nineteenth Century. Being a Particular Account of All the Martyrs of the Old and New Testaments, and the Ten Great Persecutions Under the Roman Emperors, with the Persecutions Exercised by the Papists in England and Other Parts of Europe. Including Every Important Relation in Fox's Book of Martyrs and Also All the Essential Parts of Every Work on the Subject which Has Appeared Since that Publication ... With Some Original Matter, Etc. [With Illustrations Including a Portrait.] John Foxe,1803 The Acts and monuments of the Church; containing the history and sufferings of the martyrs. A new ed., revised, corrected, and condensed by M.H. Seymour John Foxe,John Fox,1838 Fox's Original and Complete Book of Martyrs ... A new edition. Now carefully revised, corrected, and improved, by a Minister of the Gospel i.e. P. Wright ... Embellished with near 300 elegant engravings John Foxe,1811 Insider Trading Naomi Pfeffer,2017-01-01 The cadaver industry in Britain and the United States its processes and profits Except for organ transplantation little is known about the variety of stuff extracted from corpses and repurposed for medicine A single body might be disassembled to provide hundreds of products for the millions of medical treatments performed each year Cadaver skin can be used in wound dressings corneas used to restore sight Parts may even be used for aesthetic enhancement such as liquefied skin injections to smooth wrinkles This book is a history of the nameless corpses from which cadaver stuff is extracted and the entities involved in removing processing and distributing it Pfeffer goes behind the mortuary door to reveal the technical imaginative and sometimes underhanded practices that have facilitated the global industry of transforming human fragments into branded convenience products The dead have no need of cash but money changes hands at every link of the supply chain This book refocuses attention away from individual altruism and onto professional and corporate ethics

The (Un)Certain Future of Empathy in Posthumanism, Cyberculture and Science Fiction Elsa Bouet, 2019-01-04 This volume was first published by Inter Disciplinary Press in 2015 This volume investigates the future of empathy as contemplated by posthumanism cyberculture and science fiction As humanity increasingly networks and communicates online the reconfiguration of human communities through the removal and immediacy of the body challenges traditional notions of humanity and human capacity for empathy The impact of cyberculture and posthumanism on humanity and its capacity for empathy is here assessed through research in literature films neuroscience anthropology and philosophy This volume addresses the centrality of the body to human interactions and assesses how intrinsic it is to the defining of the human The exploration of posthuman narratives which display futuristic bodily modifications also engages with the anxieties and hopes for the future of human empathy Research in dystopian narratives shows that these anxieties are also expressed without the tropes of bodily modifications and that ideological distancing creates the conditions necessary for a lack of empathy towards otherness

The Acts and Monuments of the Church John Foxe, 1855 A History of the Mishnaic Law of Purities, Part 4 Jacob Neusner, 2007-04-01 The history of Jews from the period of the Second Temple to the rise of Islam From A History of the Mishnaic Law of Appointed Times Part 1 This volume introduces the sources of Judaism in late antiquity to scholars in adjacent fields such as the study of the Old and New Testaments Ancient History the ancient Near East and the history of religion In two volumes leading American Israeli and European specialists in the history literature theology and archaeology of Judaism offer factual answers to the two questions that the study of any religion in ancient times must raise The first is what are the sources written and in material culture that inform us about that religion The second is how have we to understand those sources in reconstructing the history of various Judaic systems in antiquity The chapters set forth in simple statements intelligible to non specialists the facts which the sources provide Because of the nature of the subject and acute interest in it the specialists also raise some questions particular to the study of Judaism dealing with its historical relationship with nascent Christianity in New Testament times The work forms the starting point for the study of all the principal questions concerning Judaism in late antiquity and sets forth the most current critical results of scholarship

A Radical Jew Daniel Boyarin, 1994-10-14 Daniel Boyarin turns to the Epistles of Paul as the spiritual autobiography of a first century Jewish cultural critic What led Paul in his dramatic conversion to Christianity to such a radical critique of Jewish culture Paul's famous formulation 'There is neither Jew nor Greek, neither male and female in Christ' demonstrates the genius of Christianity: its concern for all people. The genius of Judaism is its validation of genealogy and cultural/ethnic difference. But the evils of these two thought systems are the obverse of their geniuses. Christianity has threatened to coerce universality while ethnic difference is one of the most troubled issues in modern history. Boyarin posits a diaspora identity as a way to negotiate the pitfalls inherent in either position. Jewishness disrupts categories of identity because it is not national, genealogical or even religious, but all of these in dialectical tension with one another. It is analogous with gender: gender identity makes us different in some ways but not in others. An exploration of these tensions in the Pauline corpus argues Boyarin will lead us to a richer appreciation of our own cultural quandaries as male and female, gay and straight Jew and Palestinian and as human beings.
