Grammar in Use Across Time and Space Misumi Sadler, 2007 This monograph contains the first systematic investigation of the Japanese dative subject construction across time and space It demonstrates that in order to capture what speakers/writers know about how to put an utterance or a clause together it is necessary to pay attention to what they do in actual language use and in different discourse types The work also shows the importance of diachronic perspectives to help us better understand the ways in which a particular grammatical structure is represented synchronically By utilizing modern Japanese conversation contemporary Japanese novels and a pre modern and modern Japanese literature corpus the study highlights the role of dative subjects at the semantic and discourse pragmatic levels Specifically it demonstrates that what has been considered to be a most grammatical aspect of Japanese actually turns out to be rather pragmatically oriented

The Interactional Instinct Namhee Lee, 2009-05-21 The Interactional Instinct explores the evolution of language from the theoretical view that language could have emerged without a biologically instantiated Universal Grammar In the first part of the book the authors speculate that a hominid group with a lexicon of about 600 words could combine these items to make larger meanings Combinations that are successfully produced comprehended and learned become part of the language Any combination that is incompatible with human mental capacities is abandoned The authors argue for the emergence of language structure through interaction constrained by human psychology and physiology In the second part of the book the authors argue that language acquisition is based on an interactional instinct that emotionally entrains the infant on caregivers This relationship provides children with a motivational and attentional mechanism that ensures their acquisition of language In adult second language acquisition the interactional instinct is no longer operating but in some individuals with sufficient aptitude and motivation successful second language acquisition can be achieved The Interactional Instinct presents a theory of language based on linguistic evolutionary and biological evidence indicating that language is a culturally inherited artifact that requires no a priori hard wiring of linguistic knowledge Routledge Handbook of Technological

A Taste for Corpora Fanny Meunier, Gaëtanelle Gilquin, Magali Paquot, 2011. The eleven contributions to this volume written by expert corpus linguists tackle corpora from a wide range of perspectives and aim to shed light on the numerous linguistic and pedagogical uses to which corpora can be put. They present cutting edge research in the authors' respective domain of expertise and suggest directions for future research. The main focus of the book is on learner corpora but it also includes reflections on the role of other types of corpora such as native corpora, expert users corpora, parallel corpora or corpora of New Englishes. For readers who are already familiar with corpora, this volume offers an informed account of the key role that corpus data play in applied linguistics today. As for readers who are new to corpus linguistics, the overview of approaches, methods and domains of applications presented will undoubtedly help them develop their own taste for corpora. This volume has been edited in honour of Sylviane Granger who has been one of the pioneers of learner corpus research.

The Interactional Organization of Academic Talk Holger Limberg, 2010. This book provides interesting and critical insights into a common university practice: the academic office hour. Office hours are a discursive site for a variety of different issues ranging from administrative matters to course-related and study-related concerns. The study offers both an ethnographic account of this speech event within the socio-cultural context of a German university as well as a more detailed analysis of the interactional organization of academic consultations. It draws on natural recordings of entire office hour interactions in order to show how participants' actions at different stages of the talk organize and accomplish the consultation. The analytical focus is set on the sequential activities teachers and students engage in as they conduct a consultation. This includes, for instance, how participants open an office hour talk, how they establish an agenda, how they manage advice giving and how they close the consultation. As such, this book will be of practical use to students and faculty members as well as scholars from different disciplines who work in the areas of institutional talk and talk in interaction.
