Imaging of Brain Tumors with Histological Correlations Antonios Drevelegas,2013-04-17 The purpose of this book is to bring a new understanding to bear on the diagnosis of brain tumors by linking radiographic image characteristics to the underlying pathology Brain tumors are relatively uncommon compared with other neoplasms e g lung breast gastrointestinal They require special study however since they are pathologically complicated difficult to diagnose and account for high morbidity Although many excellent neuroradiological books have been written few of them focus especially on the diagnosis of brain tumors In this book brain tumors are discussed in detail Special emphasis is placed on CT and MRI findings in relation to the pathology of each tumor As pathology is the mother of radiology this approach may be the best way to understand in depth the imaging manifestations of brain tumors The illustrative examples herein were chosen on the basis of their clarity or complexity their teachability and their significance for diagnosis and treatment

Immune mechanisms of protection against Mycobacterium tuberculosis Rhea Coler,Sarah Fortune,Willem Henry Boom,JoAnne L. Flynn,2025-08-11 There were an estimated 1.6 million deaths due to tuberculosis TB in 2021 including 187 000 people with HIV and AIDS Mycobacterium tuberculosis M.tb a NIAID Category C pathogen the causative agent of TB is the 13th leading cause of death globally and has again taken the lead as the number one killer due to a single infectious agent after being second to SARS CoV 2 during the COVID 19 pandemic In 2021 an estimated 10.6 million people fell ill with TB worldwide 6 million men 3.4 million women and 1.2 million children TB is present in all countries and age groups The Immune Mechanisms of Protection Against Mycobacterium tuberculosis Centers IMPAc TB program is an initiative established by NIAID in 2019 to elucidate the immune responses needed to protect against infection with M.tb The program also aims to develop a better understanding of various pathogenesis aspects of TB infection such as latent infection and transition to active TB disease To accomplish these objectives multidisciplinary research teams at Harvard T.H.Chan School of Public Health Boston and Seattle Children's Research Institute were selected to conduct immunological analyses of tissue specific and systemic responses in small animals non human primates NHPs and humans to identify the key immune responses needed for protection against M.tb identify immunologic targets that can be used to improve TB vaccine strategies determine the impact of human immunodeficiency virus HIV simian immunodeficiency virus SIV and nontuberculous mycobacteria NTM infections on relevant immune responses to M.tb infection or TB vaccines and identify how bacterial immune evasion mechanisms subvert immune responses to M tb This Research Topic will provide Center Objectives and Goals as well as some data that have been generated since execution of the three IMPAc TB contracts In this Research Topic we discuss important questions including What are the mediators of the complex immune responses required to prevent M tb infection or active TB disease What are the common protective correlates of immunity against M tb in escalating preclinical animal models of TB How does NTM exposure affect the rational design and development of candidate vaccines that generate robust levels of durable protective immunity against TB What is the role of Systems Immunology in the context of investigating immune correlates of protection against M tb Why is it important to develop standardized reagents and standard operating procedures to profile immune responses in preclinical and human experimental medicine TB studies Are transcriptional signatures predictive What benefits are afforded by including the guinea pig model in the TB preclinical vaccine evaluation pipeline How to manage data across consortiums generating large datasets The Topic Editors RC SF WB JF declare that they are supported by the NIH on this IMPAc TB collaboration

Molecular Pathology of

Hematolymphoid Diseases Cherie H. Dunphy, 2010-06-16 The past two decades have seen an ever accelerating growth in knowledge about molecular pathology of human diseases which received a large boost with the sequencing of the human genome in 2003 Molecular diagnostics molecular targeted therapy and genetic therapy are now routine in many medical centers The molecular field now impacts every field in medicine whether clinical research or routine patient care There is a great need for basic researchers to understand the potential clinical implications of their research whereas private practice clinicians of all types general internal medicine and internal medicine specialists medical oncologists radiation oncologists surgeons pediatricians family practitioners clinical investigators pathologists and medical laboratory directors and radiologists require a basic understanding of the fundamentals of molecular pathogenesis diagnosis and treatment for their patients Traditional textbooks in molecular biology deal with basic science and are not readily applicable to the medical setting Most medical textbooks that include a mention of molecular pathology in the clinical setting are limited in scope and assume that the reader already has a working knowledge of the basic science of molecular biology Other texts emphasize technology and testing procedures without integrating the clinical perspective There is an urgent need for a text that fills the gap between basic science books and clinical practice In the Molecular Pathology Library series the basic science and the technology is integrated with the medical perspective and clinical application
