Alligator River Northern Territory 2nd Edition:

A Bibliography of the Northern Territory: Sciences, primary industry and recreation, 1977 The Archaeology of Rock Art in Western Arnhem Land, Australia Bruno David, Paul Taçon, Jean-Jacques Delannoy, Jean-Michel Geneste, 2017-11-30 Western Arnhem Land in the Top End of Australia's Northern Territory has a rich archaeological landscape ethnographic record and body of rock art that displays an astonishing array of imagery on shelter walls and ceilings. While the archaeology goes back to the earliest period of Aboriginal occupation of the continent, the rock art represents some of the richest, most diverse and visually most impressive regional assemblages anywhere in the world. To better understand this multi-dimensional cultural record, The Archaeology of Rock Art in Western Arnhem Land, Australia focuses on the nature and antiquity of the region's rock art as revealed by archaeological surveys and excavations and the application of novel analytical methods. This volume also presents new findings by which to rethink how Aboriginal peoples have socially engaged in and with places across western Arnhem Land from the north to the south, from the plains to the spectacular rocky landscapes of the plateau. The dynamic nature of Arnhem Land rock art is explored and articulated in innovative ways that shed new light on the region's deep-time Aboriginal history. The Statesman's Year-Book S.

Fire in Tropical Savannas Alan N. Andersen, Garry D. Cook, Richard J. Williams, 2006-05-17 Fire is a major agent of disturbance in many biomes of the world but is a particularly important feature of tropical savannas. Up to 50% of the extensive tropical savanna landscapes of northern Australia are burnt each year. This includes prestigious conservation reserves such as World Heritage-listed Kakadu National Park in the Top End of the Northern Territory. As in other savanna regions of the world, the responses of biota to different regimes are poorly understood such that management represents one of the greatest challenges to conservation managers and researchers alike. This is the context within which a landscape-scale re-experiment was established at Kapalga Research Station in Kakadu which aimed to provide a sound scientific basis for conservation management in the region. The experiment was established by The Australian Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization CSIRO but involved collaborators from a range of universities and government agencies including the managers of Kakadu, the Australian Nature Conservation Agency ANCA, now Parks Australia North. This book summarizes the findings from the Kapalga re-experiment and explores the implications for conservation management. We believe that Kapalga has provided important insights into the ecology of tropical savannas and has broad relevance for the conservation management of prone landscapes in general. This book should be of interest to researchers, graduate students and land management agencies. vii viii Preface We are extremely grateful to all our collaborators both inside and outside CSIRO for their involvement in the Kapalga experiment. Precambrian of the Southern Hemisphere D.R.

Bulletin, 1988 Minerals Yearbook, 1992 The Purari — tropical environment of a high rainfall river basin T. Petr, 2012-12-06 One of the major river systems of our country the Purari River finds its outlet to the sea in the Gulf of Papua on the southern coast of Papua New Guinea All highlands provinces contribute to this mighty river the Erave of the Southern Highlands Province joins with the Kaugel and Wahgi Rivers Western Highlands the Tua River Simbu and Asaro and Aure Rivers of the Eastern Highlands Province to make the Purari the third largest river in PNG. Unlike its rivals the Fly and the Sepik, the distance between its escape from the mountains and its entrance to the sea is short. After winding its way mostly through deep gorges flanked by high mountains, the river leaves the foothills of the southern slopes of the central cordillera barely eighty kilometers from the sea. The energy potential of such a river is enormous. Could the waters be utilised in any way to the advantage of the nation? Twelve years ago the Electricity Commission of Papua New Guinea proposed an answer to this question: the building of a dam across the river in the Wabo area of the Gulf Province. The generation of vast quantities of hydroelectric power could be fed into a national distribution grid and heavy industries could be established in the Gulf Province and other suitable localities to benefit from this power.

Explorer's Guide To North Carolina's Outer Banks and Crystal Coast Renee Wright, 2013-06-04. Let this guide show you why the Outer Banks is one of the most unique and interesting places in the U.S. to visit. The Outer Banks preserves history and traditions lost to more urban areas of the eastern U.S. Whether it's wild Banker ponies, historic Kitty Hawk, or hidden beaches that visitors would otherwise never find, author Renee Wright leads you to her Wright Choices.

Selected Water Resources Abstracts, 1990 The North Carolina Gazetteer, 2nd Ed William S. Powell, Michael Hill, 2010-06-15. The North Carolina Gazetteer first appeared to wide acclaim in 1968 and has remained an essential reference for anyone with a serious interest in the Tar Heel State, from historians to journalists, from creative writers to urban planners, from backpackers to armchair travelers. This revised and expanded edition adds approximately 1,200 new entries, bringing to nearly 21,000 the number of North Carolina cities, towns, crossroads, waterways, mountains, and other places identified here. The stories attached to place names are at the core of the book, and the reason why it has stood the test of time. Some recall faraway places: Bombay, Shanghai, Moscow, Berlin. Others paint the locality as a little piece of heaven on earth: Bliss, Splendor, Sweet Home. In many cases, the name derivations are unusual, sometimes wildly so: Cat Square, Huggins, Hell, Tater Hill. Why not? Telling us much about our own history in these snapshot histories of particular locales, the North Carolina Gazetteer provides an engaging, authoritative, and fully updated reference to place names from all corners of the Tar Heel State.

International Advances in the Ecology, Zoogeography, and Systematics of Mayflies and Stoneflies F. R. Hauer, Jack Stanford, Robert Newell, 2008-06-24. The purpose of this volume is to encourage and facilitate focused research and provide a forum for scholarly exchange about the status of Mayfly and Stonefly science. Professor John Brittain, whose research is focused on freshwater entomology, especially egg development and life cycle strategies of Ephemeroptera and Plecoptera, presents a chapter reflecting on the quality of mayflies as good indicators of global warming and the quality of streams and lakes. Professor Emeritus Andrew Sheldon, whose interests have encompassed community and population ecology of aquatic animals over a span of more than 40 years, especially insects and fishes, explores topics of Scale and Hierarchy and the Ecology of Plecoptera, discussing how studies emphasizing scale and perspective reveal importance of stoneflies to ecosystems. Other topics cover a broad base of disciplines, including morphology physiology phylogeny taxonomy ecology and conservation The chapters have been compiled into three sections for this volume Ecology Zoogeography and Systematics Stow Region, Northern Territory P. G. Stuart-Smith, Northern Territory Geological Survey, 1988 Peopled Landscapes Simon Haberle, Bruno David, 2012-01-01 This volume brings together a collection of papers from a diverse field of international scholars exploring the multiple ways that East Timorese communities are making and remaking their connections to land and places of ancestral significance The work is explicitly comparative and highlights the different ways Timorese language communities negotiate access and transactions in land disputes and inheritance especially in areas subject to historical displacement and resettlement Consideration is extended to the role of ritual performance and social alliance for inscribing connection and entitlement Emerging through analysis is an appreciation of how relations to land articulated in origin discourses are implicated in the construction of national culture and differential contributions to the struggle for independence Publisher s description Coastal Evolution R.
