Studying Correlations between Genetic Variation and Test Score Gaps Gregory Connor, John G.R. Fuerst, 2024-02-07 This book is an edited collection of recently published papers on the sources of average test score gaps when analysed through the lenses of race and ethnicity socio economic status and biogeographic ancestries such as European African and East Asian ancestry It brings together exciting recent findings that rely on powerful DNA based methods developed in the last few decades The book also considers the public policy question as to whether and how these findings should be disseminated to the general public audience Artificial Intelligence in Spectroscopy Joseph Dubrovkin, 2025-07-17 This textbook summarizes studies and significant materials on Artificial Intelligence in spectroscopy into a fundamental monograph Its rigorous mathematical basis in depth detailed description and numerous examples of applications in chemistry and physics make it valuable for theorists practitioners and students specializing in data processing in spectroscopy chemometrics and analytical chemistry The bibliography part briefly describes hundreds of data analytics applications for solving Artificial Intelligence based spectroscopic tasks in industrial and research laboratories This book differs from existing brief reviews and articles on this topic in that it forms for the first time the big picture of all kinds of Artificial Intelligence methods in spectroscopy Also the book provides quickly reproducible computer calculations illustrating its significant theoretical statements As such it can also serve as a practical guide to lecturers in Artificial Intelligence in spectroscopy including chemometrics and analytical chemistry Everyone's Choices , Flying Magazine ,1957-08

Book Review Digest ,1990 Excerpts from and citations to reviews of more than 8 000 books each year drawn from coverage of 109 publications Book Review Digest provides citations to and excerpts of reviews of current juvenile and adult fiction and nonfiction in the English language Reviews of the following types of books are excluded government publications textbooks and technical books in the sciences and law Reviews of books on science for the general reader however are included The reviews originate in a group of selected periodicals in the humanities social sciences and general science published in the United States Canada and Great Britain Publisher Resources in Education ,1997 Research in Education ,1973 When Did We All Become Middle Class? Martin Nunlee,2016-08-05 In When Did We All Become Middle Class Martin Nunlee discusses how a lack of class identity gives people a false sense of their relationship to power which has made the US population accept the myth that they live in a meritocracy This book examines social class within the framework of psychological tendencies everyday interactions institutions and pervasive cultural ideas to show how Americans have shifted from general concerns of social and economic equality to fragmented interests groups Written in a conversational style this book is a useful tool for undergraduate courses covering social class such as inequality stratification poverty and social problems The Publishers Weekly ,2002 Popular Photography ,1996-06 Training-induced cognitive and neural plasticity Julia Karbach,Torsten Schubert,2013-07-08 Throughout the entire lifespan individuals are required to adapt to the demands of changing developmental contexts and dynamic social environments The potential modifiability of a person s cognitive and neural processes has been referred to as plasticity One way to assess cognitive and neural plasticity is to apply training interventions and to measure the related changes in trained and untrained situations Over the last decade the literature on the effects of cognitive interventions has been growing rapidly oftentimes focusing on the magnitude scope and maintenance of training related benefits and their transferability to untrained tasks and abilities Recent studies show that plasticity is present across the lifespan although it seems to decline in older age and that the long term maintenance as well as the transferability of training gains strongly depends on the type and the intensity of the intervention The findings from behavioral cognitive training research have also been accompanied by findings from cognitive neuroscience The related observations oftentimes point to training induced changes in a number of cortical and subcortical regions which may be responsible for the magnitude of training and of transfer effects Thus cognitive training may be a promising tool for understanding basic mechanisms of adaptive behavior on the one hand and for designing applications and interventions within different disciplines in psychology on the other hand However not all studies have consistently shown beneficial effects of cognitive training and some questions that are critical for our understanding of plasticity are still unanswered What are the key processes mediating training effects on laboratory tasks and in real world situations Which characteristics of the training process and of the trainings situations mediate transfer effects Are training effects subject to age related changes How are training induced neural changes in the brain related to improvements in cognitive performance How effective are training interventions in patients with specific cognitive impairments To what extent can age related cognitive decline be compensated by means of cognitive training The focus of this Research Topic is on training induced cognitive and neural plasticity across the lifespan The goal is to provide a broad scope of state of the art research in order to enhance our knowledge regarding the mechanisms underlying plasticity We invite contributions applying behavioral computational and neuroscientific approaches reviews and theoretical contributions Contributions are also welcomed if they focus on the implications of cognitive training in applied fields like educational and clinical settings as well as rehabilitation and training science
