and Cancer

September is Childhood Cancer Awareness Month.
Learn how advancements in medicine help save lives.

The Facts

Compared to adult cancers, childhood cancer is rare.
But one child with cancer is too many.

15,780

Each year, approximately 15,780 American children ages 0–19 are diagnosed with cancer, a number that has increased over the last few decades.

3

Somewhere in the world, a child is diagnosed with a childhood cancer every three minutes.

Common childhood cancers affect the blood (leukemia), brain and spinal cord, nerve cells, lymphatic system, bones and kidneys.

Hidden Roots

While many adult cancers are due to lifestyle choices, researchers are not sure what causes most cases of childhood cancer.

- Some childhood cancers are inherited.
- Others are rooted in external environmental factors or random changes in DNA.
- These changes occur for unknown reasons.

Life After Cancer

Fortunately, childhood cancer care has made great advances in recent years.

- New therapies target specific cancers and the genes that cause cancer.
- Children undergoing these targeted therapies can avoid some of the typical side effects from their treatment.
- More children are surviving and thriving after childhood cancer than ever before. Since the mid-1970s, the five-year survival rate for childhood cancer has increased by nearly 30%.

Handbook of Childhood Death and Bereavement PhD Charles A. Corr, PhD, CT, Donna M. Corr, RN, MSN, 2004-01-01. In this comprehensive handbook, a leading group of experts improve our understanding of the challenges faced by children when coping with death, dying, and bereavement. Organized into three parts, the volume addresses specific issues involved in confrontations with death, discusses the role of bereavement, and explains specific therapeutic interventions for caregivers. The reader is introduced to four distinct periods within childhood: infancy, toddlerhood, early childhood, and middle childhood. Through case examples, the contributors illustrate a child's experience with death and bereavement in all four areas. The book's practical orientation and emphasis will appeal to a broad array of caregivers, including counselors, therapists, nurses, and mental health practitioners concerned with child and adolescent death and bereavement.

Beyond the Innocence of Childhood: Helping children and adolescents cope with life-threatening illness and dying David Walter Adams, Eleanor J. Deveau, 1995. Death is not a mere possibility but a certainty for all of us. Yet today's society unrealistically portrays childhood as a time of unremittant joy and freedom. Unfortunately, the reality of life may suddenly bring children face to face with tragic circumstances such as the death of their pet, the terminal illness of their parent, their own struggle with life threatening disease, the accidental death of their sibling, or the suicide of a friend. The gravity of any of these situations takes children beyond the innocence of childhood and plunges them into a world that is frightening and full of uncertainty Unfortunately our perceptions and attitudes toward death do not equip children with the tools to help them cope adequately with such overwhelming experiences Beyond the Innocence of Childhood is a collection of forty chapters which are divided into three separate volumes The overall purpose of this series is to answer the question How do we as educators clinicians other professionals and parents help children and adolescents deal with threat to their lives dying death and bereavement In this three volume set the editors have brought together a number of well known educators researchers and practitioners who share their knowledge and expertise concerning the care and well being of children and adolescents

SPECIFIC TO VOLUME 1 Children explore the world around them through spontaneous and later structured learning acquire knowledge learn to understand themselves establish their role in the family develop peer and adult relationships and find their place in the world However today s society does not include death as part of this developmental process Unfortunately such avoidance may negatively influence children s ability to acquire an understanding of the concepts of death and to develop positive attitudes toward death Highlights of this section include Answering children s questions Children and death past present and future Gender differences Teachable moments Perceptions of death cognitive development and children s artwork The second part of volume 1 examines influences in today s society that potentially impact on children and adolescents perceptions and attitudes toward life threatening illness and death This volume offers readers valuable insights into the various factors which ultimately affect children s ability to achieve a mature understanding of death Features include the following Violent death in a popular culture and the media Political conflict and war The epidemic of AIDS Cultural differences in the management of life threatening illness Death rituals and funeral ceremonies Proceedings of the Conference "Helping Children Cope with Death" Gary Hume Paterson,1986 Children Mourning, Mourning Children Kenneth J. Doka,2014-01-21 Based on the Hospice Foundation of America s second annual teleconference this book explores three basic themes in children s grief Firstly it maintains that children are always developing therefore their understanding of death and their reactions to illness and loss are also multifaceted and constantly undergoing change Secondly children grieve in ways that are both different from and similar to adults While they may need different therapeutic approaches from their elders each loss is different and the grief experience will be affected by many of the same factors that affect adults Thirdly it holds that they need significant support as they grieve Talking to children about loss and and illness is too important to wait until a crisis rather it is essential to provide opportunities to discuss loss in times that are not so Emotionally Laden This Book Aims To Demonstrate That Open Communication between parents and children will lead to skills and understanding that are essential to the child for coping with loss and reaffirming that death is part of the process of living
