Coping With Population Challenges:

Coping with Population Challenges Louise Lassonde, 2014-04-23 Despite rapidly decreasing rates of population growth caused by reduced fertility in the majority of world regions demographers are predicting that the world's population will still double by the year 2050. The question is therefore no longer the traditional one of whether the planet can support so many people but how to provide a sustainable future for ten billion individuals. Quantitative problems have become ethical ones. Coping with Population Challenges addresses these issues in the context of international debate and agreements since the first World Population Plan of Action in 1974 to the 20 year Programme of Action adopted at the International Conference on Population and Development in Cairo in 1994. The author describes how the Programme of Action focalizes on women's issues reproductive choice and the notion of the individual. However she identifies a number of important but neglected areas of the debate that the Programme failed to address and brings to light some of the inconsistencies that need to be resolved if the Programme is to be implemented. The author also looks at the underlying ethical dimension of all choices relating to the population issue and suggests measures and machinery for giving effect to states' commitments including reformulating problems and defining the appropriate economic framework for solutions. The book is an excellent introduction for the non-specialist to a very topical debate and a useful reference for researchers. LOUISE LASSONDE is director of the Fondation du Devenir Geneva. In her capacity as anthropologist and demographer Dr Lassonde has worked closely with the United Nations and non-governmental organizations in many countries. Originally published in 1997. Analytical Therapy (Jungian): Strategies, Emotional Challenges and Different Contexts Edenilson Brandl, Psychology is a constantly evolving discipline that in recent years has increasingly focused on developing effective therapeutic approaches to meet the needs of different populations and contexts. In this context Analytical Therapy Jungian emerges as an approach that offers a deep understanding of the human psyche and promotes personal development integration of different aspects of personality and conflict resolution. This book features a collection of chapters that explore the application of Analytic Jungian Therapy in different contexts and populations. Each chapter addresses a specific topic such as coping skills in patients with mental disorders social skill development effective communication and emotion regulation. The chapters in this book are written by experts in Analytic Jungian Therapy who share their clinical experiences case studies and strategies for clinical application. Each chapter is designed to be practical and applied providing examples of how Analytic Jungian Therapy can be adapted to meet the specific needs of each population and context. This book is essential reading for psychologists therapists health professionals and patients who want to explore the application of Analytical Jungian Therapy in their clinical practice or in their everyday lives. It offers a comprehensive and accessible understanding of Analytic Jungian Therapy and how it can be used to promote personal development emotional regulation and conflict resolution in different contexts and populations. Eldercare Labor

Demand in China and Coping Strategies Yali Zhu, 2024-10-02 This book employs Markov models and propensity score matching methods to analyze the demand for elderly care labor utilizing data from the China Longitudinal Healthy Longevity Survey CLHLS and World Population Prospects 2022 United Nations 2022 The model predicts the health transferring scenario among the aging population firstly and then the demand for elderly care labor from 2022 to 2058 under a fixed care time demand scenario according to 8 hour working system as well as national and provincial regulations on caregiver carereceiver ratios The accelerated aging process and rapid increase in the younger elderly population will result in a rapid increase in the demand for elderly care labor for the healthy elderly until about 2042 with a 1.5 fold increase This is followed by accelerated growth in the demand for elderly care labor for the impaired and dysfunctional aging population Over time the supply of older adults without care will gradually increase nearly doubling by 2058 compared to 2022 It is recommended that on the one hand eldercare labor demand in China can be reduced from the origin by improving the health of the population and on the other hand the effective supply of elderly care be expanded by building a modern care service system improving relevant policies integrating care resources and innovating the supply model OUR FRAGILE WORLD: Challenges and Opportunities for Sustainable Development - Volume I M. Coping with Water Scarcity Luis Santos Pereira,Ian Cordery,Iacovos Iacovides,2009-03-22 One of the main problems confronting the world of the 21st Century is a shortage of water There is already severe scarcity in many regions of the world causing tremendous problems for local populations and indeed entire societies There is insufficient water available for the production of food to alleviate poverty and starvation the lack of water hampers industrial urban and tourism development forcing restrictions on other sectors especially agriculture health problems arise as the deterioration of ground and surface waters favours water borne diseases which flourish in the absence of decent water distribution and sewerage systems Water conflicts still arise in areas under stress while water for nature has become a vanishing priority in such zones This book is a guide to the establishment of regional and or local guidelines for developing and implementing new ideas for coping with water scarcity The basic premise underlying the book is that water scarcity will persist so personal human and society wide skills will be needed to cope with it while living in harmony with the necessary environmental constraints The book provides basic information to assist decision makers water managers engineers agronomists social scientists and other professions and their students in formulating coherent hopefully harmonious and consolidated views on the issue Guidelines are also given for introducing the general public to the concept of water scarcity and how to deal with it Understanding Offending Populations and the Power of Correctional Psychotherapy Karla Sapp,2023-10-16 This book investigates the general correctional offender population and the psychotherapy services they receive The offender population has long been considered the most difficult to engage in psychotherapy often described as resistant non compliant unworkable and without feeling This unique and culturally diverse population tend to find themselves as a result going through a cycle of arrest conviction incarceration and release Although other offender populations such as female offenders severe mentally ill and sex offenders have received considerable attention in scholarship there has been little research focused on the treatment of the general offender population and how to reduce recidivism through the appropriate delivery of effective assessment and treatment services This book will bridge that gap in literature addressing Who the offender population is Social and systematic factors they face Psychological understandings of criminal behavior Rehabilitation and psychotherapy theories and approaches to treatment as well as best practices Future efforts in justice initiatives advocacy and public policy This book is best suited for upper level undergraduates graduate students and researchers and practitioners in criminal justice fields and mental health professions working with offender populations Advances in Usability Evaluation Marcelo M. Soares, Francesco Rebelo, 2012-07-09 Successful interaction with products tools and technologies depends on usable designs accommodating the needs of potential users and does not require costly training In this context Advances in Usability Evaluation Part I discusses emerging concepts theories and applications of human factors knowledge focusing on the discovery and understanding of human interaction with products and systems for their improvement The book covers devices and their interfaces focusing on optimization of user devices and emphasizing visual and haptic feedback It then discusses user studies exploring the limits and capabilities of special populations particularly the elderly which can influence the design It also examines the effect of changes in force and kinematics physiology cognitive performance in the design of consumer products tools and workplaces Examining a variety of user centered evaluation approaches the concluding chapters details methods for developing products that can improve safety and human performance and at same time the efficiency of the system It reports on usability evaluations for different kinds of products and technologies particularly for cellular phones earphones earphone controls mattresses and pillows package and professional tools and service systems The book provides new methods that enhance performance expand capabilities and optimize the fit between people and technology Congressional Record United States. Congress, 1965 Environmental Change and Security Alexander Carius, Kurt M. Lietzmann, 2013-11-21 Does a connection exist between environmental degradation resource scarcity and violent conflicts Global environmental changes such as climate change and sea level rise shortage of fresh water and rapid soil degradation increasingly highlight the dimensions of environmental change in foreign and security policy To reverse these negative environmental consequences over the long term comprehensive and preventive policy approaches are urgently required This state of the art book contains numerous articles by renown German speaking experts from different scientific disciplines as well as international and European political advisors and diplomats Together they discuss the complex causes of environmentally induced conflicts and the political and societal mechanisms for conflict prevention Exploring Mental Health in Vulnerable Populations in Developing Countries John Elvis Hagan Jnr., Frank Quansah, Jacob Owusu Sarfo ,Zahir Vally, Azaz Sharif, 2025-09-16 The physical social and economic implications of poor mental health are extensive The prevalence and pattern of mental health related challenges resources and interventions have been well reported in developed countries Despite the growing evidence of this health problem in developing countries a research gap still exists on the holistic measurement and description of the problem including interventions policies actions and programs to mitigate mental health challenges Considerable empirical evidence suggests that multifaceted social economic and environmental factors are drivers of mental health and its associated disorders Considering these points promoting mental health across vulnerable populations in low and middle income countries is critical to global health As the world seeks to achieve Sustainable Development Goal 3 SDG3 it is clear that mental health can significantly impact overall human health regardless of gender age or career stage the importance of improving the mental health of vulnerable populations throughout an individual s lifespan and within different professional environments cannot be underestimated By comprehending the obstacles and prospects related to mental health and its related illnesses among vulnerable populations valuable insights could be obtained to create effective interventions and strategies that promote mental well being globally Specifically taking steps to enhance the daily living conditions of this population offers opportunities to improve any population s mental health and decrease the risk of mental illnesses or disorders

Serving Vulnerable and Marginalized Populations in Social and Educational Contexts Anies Al-Hroub,Sally Reis,Joseph Madaus,Itab Shuayb,2024-04-26 There is evidence that the global COVID 19 crisis is exacerbating existing inequalities and marginalization of vulnerable groups including exceptional learners stateless street migrant and refugee children and youths and the limited use of frameworks of emergency planning with and for marginalized and at risk individuals These challenges are multi sectoral and intersecting and they require multi and interdisciplinary interventions to inform inclusive responses These issues include being at a greater risk of excluding vulnerable learners from gaining access to equitable education online remote and blended education Intersecting forms of discrimination such as gender socioeconomic and legal status further exacerbate the problem This has alerted us to examine the living conditions of marginalized and vulnerable populations around the globe and to reveal their experiences problems and needs from an educational perspective thus bringing insights into their vulnerabilities during the pandemic
