Understanding Penal Practice Ioan Durnescu, Fergus McNeill, 2013-10-30 Criminological and penological scholarship has in recent years explored how and why institutions and systems of punishment change and how and why these changes differ in different contexts Important though these analyses are this book focuses not so much on the changing nature of institutions and systems but rather the changing nature of penal practice and practitioners Bringing together leading researchers from around the world this collection unites studies that aim to describe and critically analyse penal practice with studies that investigate its effectiveness and prescribe its future development Reversing penology's usual preoccupation with the prison the book focuses mainly on penal practice in the community i.e. on probation parole offender supervision and community corrections The first part of the book focuses on understanding practice and practitioners exploring how changing social cultural political and organisational contexts influence practice and how training development professional socialisation and other factors influence practitioners The second part is concerned with how practitioners can be best supported to develop the skills and approaches that seem most likely to generate positive impacts It contains accounts of new practice models and approaches as well as reports of research projects seeking both to discover and to encourage effective practices This book explores internationally significant and cutting edge theoretical and empirical work on the cultures practices roles and impacts of frontline practitioners in delivering penal sanctions As such it will be of interest to researchers in criminology social work and social policy as well as correctional policy makers and those involved in community supervision

Reconciliation and Indigenous Justice David Milward, 2022-04-01T00:00:00Z The horrors of the Indian residential schools are by now well known historical facts and they have certainly found purchase in the Canadian consciousness in recent years The history of violence and the struggles of survivors for redress resulted in the Truth and Reconciliation Commission which chronicled the harms inflicted by the residential schools and explored ways to address the resulting social fallouts One of those fallouts is the crisis of Indigenous over incarceration While the residential school system may not be the only harmful process of colonization that fuels Indigenous over incarceration it is arguably the most critical factor It is likely that the residential school system forms an important part of the background of almost every Indigenous person who ends up incarcerated even those who did not attend the schools The legacy of harm caused by the schools is a vivid and crucial link between Canadian colonialism and Indigenous over incarceration Reconciliation and Indigenous Justice provides an account of the ongoing ties between the enduring trauma caused by the residential schools and Indigenous over incarceration
