Army Aviation In Ulster:

Army Aviation in Ulster Guy Warner, Alexander Boyd, 2004 Army aviation in Ulster dates back to 1913 but this book also includes a brief history from 1878 It then looks in more detail at the period 1957 to 200 covering the connection between Northern Ireland and the post World War II Army Air Corps Air War Northern Ireland Steven Taylor, 2018-06-30 The story of the little known battles between British helicopters and Provisional IRA units equipped with heavy machine guns RPGs and SAMs includes photos Famously dubbed Bandit Country by a UK government minister in 1975 South Armagh was considered the most dangerous part of Northern Ireland for the British Army and Royal Ulster Constabulary during the years of violence known as the Troubles that engulfed the province in the last three decades of the twentieth century This was also true for the helicopter crews of the RAF Royal Navy and Army Air Corps who served there Throughout the Troubles the Provisional IRA s feared South Armagh brigade waged a relentless campaign against military aircraft operating in the region where the threat posed by roadside bombs made the security forces highly dependent on helicopters to conduct day to day operations From pot shot attacks with Second World War era rifles in the early days of the conflict to large scale highly coordinated ambushes by PIRA active service units equipped with heavy machine guns rocket propelled grenade launchers and even shoulder launched surface to air missiles SAMs the threat to British air operations by the late 1980s led to the arming of helicopters operating in the border regions of Northern Ireland Drawing on a wide range of sources including official records and the accounts of aircrew this book tells the little known story of the battle for control of the skies over Northern Ireland s Bandit Country Aviation News ,2006 High Stakes Vic Flintham, 2008-10-15 After the dust of World War II had settled the military position of the UK was far from straightforward It was of course allied to the USA and part of NATO but it was at odds with the former in maintaining an Empire and the two nations also had competing oil interests in the Middle East The UK s engagement in war after 1945 was thus a strange mixture ranging from homeland security through insular actions within the colonies or protectorates to preserve empire to playing a major role in confronting the USSR The types of active involvement of the RAF Fleet Air Arm and Army Air Corps between 1945 and 1995 include the following with examples Maintaining Local Stability Greece Netherlands East Indies Maintaining Empire Malaya Kenya Defending Empire Borneo Defending Interests Suez Kuwait Homeland Security Northern Ireland air defence Confrontation Berlin Airlift Korea Covert Action Albania strategic reconnaissance Humanitarian and Peacekeeping Jordan Cyprus Development of Deterrent Bombs bombers and missiles The Changing Face of Aerial Warfare Anthony Tucker-Jones, 2018-10-29 Can air power alone win a war That has been the question since the Second World War Air attacks failed miserably in Vietnam Operation Linebacker had little effect while bombing Hanoi just increased hatred for America yet air strikes in both Iraq and Libya helped bring about regime changes No fly zones may have worked in the Balkans but they might as well not have been there for Saddam Hussein s Iraq From the Luftwaffe s massed attack on Britain to NATO s interventions in Libya aerial warfare has changed almost beyond recognition The piston engine has been replaced by the jet and in some cases the pilot has been completely replaced by the microchip Carpet bombing is now a global positioning system and laser pinpointed strikes using precision guided munitions Whereas a bomber's greatest enemies were once fighters and flak the threats have now morphed into smart missiles from half a world away In this compelling study celebrated defence expert Anthony Tucker Jones charts the remarkable evolution of aerial warfare from 1940 to the present day

Lighter Than Air Guy Warner, 2016-06-30 Neville Florian Usborne entered the Royal Navy as a cadet in 1897 In the years between him joining up and the outbreak of the First World War he engaged in a huge number of enterprises and endeavours Praise and respect garnered in accordance with his achievements all helped to establish his reputation in later years as an irreplaceable pioneer and a leading light of early British airship design His fertile imagination and enterprising spirit fused to form a dynamic personality able in wartime to draw up countless schemes in an effort to outwit the enemy His chief task during the Great War was to dream up new tactics and designs to combat the Zeppelin menace perceived as one of the most damaging threats of the entire conflict He was also deeply involved in the design of the very successful SS and Coastal Class airships indeed during 1915 he was actually appointed Inspector Commander of Airships at the Admiralty Unfortunately his illustrious career was destined to be cut short in 1916 when he was killed testing a prototype of one of his own designs This new biography seeks to shine a light on an overlooked pioneer of early aviation and it does so in entertaining and reverential style The importance of Usborne the pioneer is made plain as one of his contemporaries commented upon his death No one can talk of the early days of British airship design without mention of his name and work A personality was lost on that February day which was irreplaceable

Wreck Recovery In Britain Peter J Moran,2018-10-30 Whereas on the Continent the Missing Research and Enquiry Unit left no stone unturned to try to trace the thousands of airmen who still remained missing strangely enough no similar operation was carried out by the RAF on crash sites in the United Kingdom Many of these still contained the mortal remains of pilots whose names had been added to the Memorial to the Missing unveiled at Runnymede in 1953 It is difficult to understand today how it took so long for the realization to sink in that aircraft wreckage still remained buried When it did there followed what can only be described as an unholy scramble to find crash sites and dig them up heavy plant being employed to make it easier and quicker At the height of this unfettered exploration period during the 1970s there were over 30 aviation archaeology groups at work particularly in the counties of Essex Kent and Sussex Unrecovered human remains were now being found which understandably raised criticism from some quarters Inevitably order had to be restored and the Ministry of Defence stepped in with a code of conduct for digging up crashed aircraft a measure that was reinforced by an Act of Parliament in 1986 Thereafter a process was introduced whereby the Ministry issued licenses before a wreck site could be excavated and every license application whether granted or refused is listed for the first time in this book
