The Travel Experience Errol Shaw,2014-07-17 When I first started traveling I was unprepared for the experiences that were about to unfold My only hope was to get a better understanding of the many cultures that makes the world such a unique place I also have a great love for people and wanted to meet as many people as I possibly could That experience did come to light as I move from one part of the globe to another I can honestly say that of all the countries I have traveled around the world not one place share the same similarity From the poor and hungry in the far east to the middle east and from the squatters camp in Soweto to the Aborigines down in Australia all embraced their own sets of values which has no comparison yet there are some values that enables the traveler to see that in spite of these unique cultural differences people do share one thing in common the will to embrace others who they may consider to be different in many ways

London's Working-Class Youth and the Making of Post-Victorian Britain, 1958-1971 Felix Fuhg,2021-05-20 This book examines the emergence of modern working class youth culture through the perspective of an urban history of post war Britain with a particular focus on the influence of young people and their culture on Britain s self image as a country emerging from the constraints of its post Victorian imperial past Each section of the book Society City Pop and Space considers in detail the ways in which working class youth culture corresponded with a fast changing metropolitan and urban society in the years following the decline of the British Empire

Was teenage culture rooted in the urban experience and the transformation of working class neighbourhoods Did youth subcultures emerge simply as a reaction to Britain's changing racial demographic To what extent did leisure venues and institutions function as laboratories for a developing British pop culture which ultimately helped Britain re-establish its prominence on the world stage These questions and more are answered in this book Around the World with a Camera, 1918

Missed Information David Sarokin, Jay Schulkin, 2017-09-01 How better information and better access to it improves the quality of our decisions and makes for a more vibrant participatory society Information is power It drives commerce protects nations and forms the backbone of systems that range from health care to high finance Yet despite the avalanche of data available in today's information age neither institutions nor individuals get the information they truly need to make well informed decisions Faulty information and sub-optimal decision making create an imbalance of power that is exaggerated as governments and corporations amass enormous databases on each of us Who has more power the government in possession of uncounted terabytes of data some of it obtained by cybersnooping or the ordinary citizen trying to get in touch with a government agency In Missed Information David Sarokin and Jay Schulkin explore information not information technology but information itself as a central part of our lives and institutions They show that providing better information and better access to it improves the quality of our decisions and makes for a more vibrant participatory society Sarokin and Schulkin argue that freely flowing information helps systems run more efficiently and that incomplete information does just the opposite It's easier to comparison shop for microwave ovens than for doctors or hospitals because of information gaps that hinder the entire health care system Better information about such social ills as child labor and pollution can help consumers support more sustainable products The authors examine the opacity of corporate annual reports the impenetrability of government secrets and emerging techniques of information foraging The information imbalance of power can be reconfigured they argue with greater and more meaningful transparency from government and corporations
