Genocide: A Thematic Approach Thomas Earl Porter, John Cox, 2025-04-08 The purpose of this volume is not simply to compile yet another wearying chronicle of the horrors that have been committed by our fellow human beings Most students who register for a course on Genocide assume that it will focus perhaps exclusively on the Holocaust the case with which they are most familiar Many of them have read Elie Wiesel s eloquent masterpiece Night in secondary school and some may have read The Diary of Anne Frank A few students might even know that a genocide occurred in Rwanda or Darfur Like most people however they equate genocide simply with mass killing and assume that genocide must by definition entail millions of deaths Raphael Lemkin who coined the word genocide meaning literally to kill a people originally defined it a colonial crime of destroying the national patterns of the oppressed and imposing the national patterns of the oppressors This was a process Lemkin said deliberately intending to destroy a people s culture that could sometimes but not necessarily always result in mass murder Students need to know that after World War II the great powers undermined and co opted the process of writing the 1948 Genocide Convention at the UN because these nations did not want their own colonial crimes oppression of minorities and destructions of cultures to be included in the definition Instead they simply used the Holocaust as a template and succeeded in distorting what Lemkin originally meant by genocide the murder of a people by destroying their social and cultural connections

The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him.
