Charles A. Sarnoff

1789 The Emblems Of Reason:

1789, the Emblems of Reason Jean Starobinski, 1982      Optical Media Friedrich Kittler, 2010 Friedrich Kittler's lecture series provides a concise history of optical media from Renaissance linear perspective to late twentieth century computer graphics. He begins by looking at European painting since the Renaissance in order to discern the principles according to which modern optical perception was organised. Kittler also discusses the development of various mechanical devices like the camera obscura and the laterna magica which were closely connected to the printing press and which played a pivotal role in the media war between the Reformation and the Counterreformation. After examining this history, Kittler then addresses the ways in which images were first stored and made to move through the development of photography and film. Kittler discusses the competitive relationship between photography and painting as well as between film and theater as innovations like the Baroque proscenium or picture frame stage evolved from elements that would later constitute cinema. The central question however is the impact of film on the ancient monopoly of writing as it not only provoked new forms of competition for novelists but also fundamentally altered the status of books. In the final section, Kittler examines the development of electrical telecommunications and electronic image processing from television to computer simulations. In short, these lectures provide a comprehensive introduction to the history of image production which is indispensable for anyone wishing to understand the prevailing audiovisual conditions of contemporary culture.

Downcast Eyes Martin Jay, 1993-10 Long considered the noblest of the senses, vision has increasingly come under critical scrutiny by a wide range of thinkers who question its dominance in Western culture. These critics of vision, especially prominent in twentieth century France, have challenged its allegedly superior capacity to provide access to the world. They have also criticized its supposed complicity with political and social oppression through the promulgation of spectacle and surveillance. Martin Jay turns to this discourse surrounding vision and explores its often contradictory implications in the work of such influential figures as Jean Paul Sartre, Maurice Merleau-Ponty, Michel Foucault, Jacques Lacan, Louis Althusser, Guy Debord, Luce Irigaray, Emmanuel Levinas, and Jacques Derrida. Jay begins with a discussion of the theory of vision from Plato to Descartes, then considers its role in the French Enlightenment before turning to its status in the culture of modernity. From consideration of French Impressionism to analysis of Georges Bataille and the Surrealists, Roland Barthes's writings on photography and the film theory of Christian Metz, Jay provides lucid and fair-minded accounts of thinkers and ideas widely known for their difficulty. His book examines the myriad links between the interrogation of vision and the pervasive antihumanist, antimodernist, and counter-enlightenment tenor of much recent French thought. Refusing however to defend the dominant visual order, he calls instead for a plurality of scopic regimes. Certain to generate controversy and discussion throughout the humanities and social sciences, Downcast Eyes will consolidate Jay's reputation as one of today's premier cultural and intellectual historians.

The Sentimental Education of the Novel Margaret Cohen, 2002-01-27 Cohen draws on archival research resurrecting scores of forgotten nineteenth century novels to demonstrate that the codes most closely identified with realism were actually the invention of sentimentality a powerful aesthetic of emerging liberal democratic society although Balzac and Stendhal trivialized sentimental works by associating them with frivolous women writers and readers

BOOK JACKET      Law and the Visual Desmond Manderson, 2018-01-01 In Law and the Visual leading legal theorists art historians and critics come together to present new work examining the intersection between legal and visual discourses Proceeding chronologically the volume offers leading analyses of the juncture between legal and visual culture as witnessed from the fifteenth to the twenty first centuries Editor Desmond Manderson provides a contextual introduction that draws out and articulates three central themes visual representations of the law visual technologies in the law and aesthetic critiques of law A ground breaking contribution to an increasingly vibrant field of inquiry Law and the Visual will inform the debate on the relationship between legal and visual culture for years to come

The Sentimental Theater of the French Revolution Cecilia Feilla, 2016-03-03 Smoothly blending performance theory literary analysis and historical insights Cecilia Feilla explores the mutually dependent discourses of feeling and politics and their impact on the theatre and theatre audiences during the French Revolution Remarkably the most frequently performed and popular plays from 1789 to 1799 were not the political action pieces that have been the subject of much literary and historical criticism but rather sentimental dramas and comedies many of which originated on the stages of the Old Regime Feilla suggests that theatre provided an important bridge from affective communities of sentimentality to active political communities of the nation arguing that the performance of virtue on stage served to foster the passage from private emotion to public virtue and allowed groups such as women children and the poor who were excluded from direct political participation to imagine a new and inclusive social and political structure Providing close readings of texts by among others Denis Diderot Collot d Herbois and Voltaire Feilla maps the ways in which continuities and innovations in the theatre from 1760 to 1800 set the stage for the nineteenth century Her book revitalizes and enriches our understanding of the significance of sentimental drama showing that it was central to the way that drama both shaped and was shaped by political culture

The Lure of Perfection Judith Chazin-Bennahum, 2005 First Published in 2005 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company

The Calendar in Revolutionary France Sanja Perovic, 2012-08-27 One of the most unusual decisions of the leaders of the French Revolution and one that had immense practical as well as symbolic impact was to abandon customarily accepted ways of calculating date and time to create a Revolutionary calendar The experiment lasted from 1793 to 1805 and prompted all sorts of questions about the nature of time ways of measuring it and its relationship to individual community communication and creative life This study traces the course of the Revolutionary Calendar from its cultural origins to its decline and fall Tracing the parallel stories of the calendar and the literary genius of its creator Sylvain Mar chal from the Enlightenment to the Napoleonic era Sanja Perovic reconsiders the status of the French Revolution as the purported origin of modernity the modern experience of time and the relationship between the imagination and political action      Bach's Cycle, Mozart's Arrow Karol Berger, 2007-10-02

 Uses the works of Monteverdi Bach Mozart and Beethoven to support the claims that it was only in the later eighteenth century that music began to take the flow of time from the past to the future seriously      The Past is a Foreign Country
 David Lowenthal, 1985-11-14 Lowenthal looks at the benefits and burdens of the past how we study the past and how we change it      Romanticism and Visuality Sophie Thomas, 2007-12-12 This book investigates the productive crosscurrents between visual culture and literary texts in the Romantic period focusing on the construction and manipulation of the visual the impact of new visual media on the literary and historical imagination and on fragments and ruins as occupying the shifting border between the visible and the invisible It examines a broad selection of instances that reflect debates over how seeing should itself be viewed instances from Daguerre's Diorama to the staging of Coleridge's play Remorse to the figure of the Medusa in Shelley's poetry and at the Phantasmagoria in which the very act of seeing is represented or dramatized In reconsidering literary engagements with the expanding visual field this study argues that the popular culture of Regency Britain reflected not just emergent and highly capitalized forms of mass entertainment but also a lively interest in the aesthetic and conceptual dimensions of looking What is commonly thought to be the Romantic resistance to the visible gives way to a generative fascination with the visual and its imaginative even spectacular possibilities      Women and the Public Sphere in the Age of the French Revolution Joan B. Landes, 1988 Should become part of the increasingly varied repertoire available to everyone interested in the formation of the discourse of modern politics as well as specifically feminist issues Eighteenth Century Studies In this provocative interdisciplinary essay Joan B Landes examines the impact on women of the emergence of a new bourgeois organization of public life in the eighteenth century She focuses on France contrasting the role and representation of women under the Old Regime with their status during and after the Revolution Basing her work on a wide reading of current historical scholarship Landes draws on the work of Habermas and his followers as well as on recent theories of representation to re create public sphere theory from a feminist point of view Within the extremely personal and patriarchal political culture of Old Regime France elite women wielded surprising influence and power both in the court and in salons Urban women of the artisanal class often worked side by side with men and participated in many public functions But the Revolution Landes asserts relegated women to the home and created a rigidly gendered essentially male bourgeois public sphere The formal adoption of universal rights actually silenced public women by emphasizing bourgeois conceptions of domestic virtue In the first part of this book Landes links the change in women's roles to a shift in systems of cultural representation Under the absolute monarchy of the Old Regime political culture was represented by the personalized iconic imagery of the father king This imagery gave way in bourgeois thought to a more symbolic system of representation based on speech writing and the law Landes traces this change through the art and writing of the period Using the works of Rousseau and Montesquieu as examples of the passage to the bourgeois theory of the public sphere she shows how such concepts as universal reason law and nature were rooted in an ideologically sanctioned order of gender difference and separate public and private spheres In the second part of the book Landes discusses the discourses on women's rights and on women in society authored by Condorcet Wollstonecraft Gouges Tristan and Comte within the context of these new definitions of the public sphere Focusing on the period after the execution of the king she asks who got to be included as the People when men and women demanded that liberal and republican principles be carried to their logical conclusion She examines women's roles in the revolutionary process and relates the birth of modern feminism to the silencing of the politically influential women of the Old Regime court and salon and to women's expulsion from public participation during and after the Revolution

Singing the French Revolution Laura Mason, 2018-09-05 Laura Mason examines the shifting fortunes of singing as a political gesture to highlight the importance of popular culture to revolutionary politics Arguing that scholars have overstated the uniformity of revolutionary political culture Mason uses songwriting and singing practices to reveal its diverse nature Song performances in the streets theaters and clubs of Paris showed how popular culture was invested with new political meaning after 1789 becoming one of the most important means for engaging in revolutionary debate Throughout the 1790s French citizens came to recognize the importance of anthems for promoting their interpretations of revolutionary events and for championing their aspirations for the Revolution By opening new arenas of cultural activity and demolishing Old Regime aesthetic hierarchies revolutionaries permitted a larger and infinitely more diverse population to participate in cultural production and exchange Mason contends The resulting activism helps explain the urgency with which successive governments sought to impose an official political culture on a heterogeneous and mobilized population After 1793 song culture was gradually depoliticized as popular classes retreated from public arenas middle brow culture turned to the strictly entertaining and official culture became increasingly rigid At the same time however singing practices were invented which formed the foundation for new activist singing practices in the next century The legacy of the Revolution according to Mason was to bestow new respectability on popular singing reshaping it from an essentially conservative means of complaint to an instrument of social and political resistance

Fatherland Kenneth Scott Calhoun, 1992 Fatherland analyzes the origins of German Romanticism and the works of Novalis Friedrich von Hardenberg 1772 1801 In his introduction Kenneth Calhoun writes This study examines Romanticism and psychoanalysis in terms of a shared economy of longing and disappointment of which mourning is a profound index Whereas most recent studies of Novalis have concentrated on his poetic and philosophical theories Calhoon explores the psychological implications of his writings He places Freud and Novalis in the debate currently raging in Germany about the legacy of the Enlightenment Instead of grounding his research on Freudian theory itself Calhoon focuses on a radicalization of the Enlightenment's quest by diverting attention to those regions of the mind where it still seemed possible to choose one's own parents Family Romance Freud's image for describing how children who have grown to doubt the identity of a father and idealize their origins through fantasies of heroic illegitimacy suggests the emplotment of such identity crises as Romantic Journey As such it provides a map for reading Novalis's novel Heinrich von Ofterdingen in which the father as fatherland is rediscovered only after an elaborate circumnavigation of the maternal body This book addresses in addition to the writings of Novalis and Freud works by Coleridge Kubla Khan Goethe Erlkönig Wilhelm Meisters Lehrjahre Joyce A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man Lessing Nathan der Weise Die Erziehung des Menschengeschlechts and P O Runge Fall des Vaterlands
