Jill Schaefer,2004-09 The International Self Mira M. Sucharov,2012-02-01 The International Self explores an age old question in international affairs one that has been particularly pressing in the context of the contemporary Middle East what leads long standing adversaries to seek peace Mira M Sucharov employs a socio psychoanalytic model to argue that collective identity ultimately shapes foreign policy and policy change Specifically she shows that all states possess a distinctive role identity that tends to shape behavior in the international realm When policy deviates too greatly from the established role identity the population experiences cognitive dissonance and expresses this through counternarratives an unconscious representation of what the polity collectively fears in itself propelling political elites to realign the state s policy with its identity Focusing on Israel s decision to embark on negotiations leading to the 1993 agreement with the Palestine Liberation Organization PLO Sucharov sees this policy reversal as a reaction to the unease generated by two events in the 1980s the war in Lebanon and the first Palestinian Intifada that contradicted Israelis perceptions of their state as a defensive warrior Her argument bridges the fields of conflict resolution Middle East studies and international relations New Serial

Titles ,1996 A union list of serials commencing publication after Dec 31 1949 The Dynamic Perspective in Personality and Social Psychology Robin R. Vallacher,Stephen John Read,Andrzej Nowak,2002-11-01 Recent years have witnessed the ascendance of a new way to conceptualize and investigate the nature of dynamism at different levels of psychological reality Areas of inquiry as diverse as cognitive neuroscience developmental psychology organizational behavior and political sociology are being reframed in terms that allow rigorous and precise insight into basic dynamic processes There are signs that this new approach to dynamics is emerging as a potentially integrative paradigm for personality and social psychology as well This special issue highlights this new paradigm and illustrates its relevance to a broad spectrum of topics in personality and social psychology Translation and Adaptation in Theatre and Film Katja Krebs, 2013-08-15

This book provides a pioneering and provocative exploration of the rich synergies between adaptation studies and translation studies and is the first genuine attempt to discuss the rather loose usage of the concepts of translation and adaptation in terms of theatre and film At the heart of this collection is the proposition that translation studies and adaptation studies have much to offer each other in practical and theoretical terms and can no longer exist independently from one another As a result it generates productive ideas within the contact zone between these two fields of study both through new theoretical paradigms and detailed case studies Such closely intertwined areas as translation and adaptation need to encounter each other's methodologies and perspectives in order to develop ever more rigorous approaches to the study of adaptation and translation phenomena challenging current assumptions and prejudices in terms of both The book includes contributions as diverse yet interrelated as Bakhtin's notion of translation and adaptation Bollywood adaptations of Shakespeare's Othello and an analysis of performance practice itself arguably an adaptive practice which uses a variety of languages from English and Greek to British and International Sign Language As translation and adaptation practices are an integral part of global cultural and political activities and agendas it is ever more important to study such occurrences of rewriting and reshaping By exploring and investigating interdisciplinary and cross cultural perspectives and approaches this volume investigates the impact such occurrences of rewriting have on the constructions and experiences of cultures while at the same time developing a rigorous methodological framework which will form the basis of future scholarship on performance and film translation and adaptation
