The value of multi disciplinary research and the exchange of ideas and methods across traditional discipline boundaries are well recognised Indeed it could be justifiably argued that many of the advances in science and engineering take place because the ideas methods and the tools of thought from one discipline become re applied in others Sadly it is also the case that many subject areas develop specialised vocabularies and concepts and can consequently approach more general problems in fairly narrow subject specific ways Consequently barriers develop between disciplines that prevent the free flow of ideas and the collaborations that on Visual Representations could often bring success VRI 98 a workshop focused Interpretations was intended to break down such barriers The workshop was held in the Foresight Conference Centre which occupies part of the former Liverpool Royal Infirmary a Grade 2 listed building which has been recently restored The building combines a majestic architecture with the latest in new conference facilities and technologies and thus provided a very suitable setting for a workshop aimed at bringing the Arts and the Sciences together of the workshop was to promote inter disciplinary awareness across The main aim a range of disciplines where visual representations and interpretations are exploited Contributions to the workshop were therefore invited from researchers who are actively investigating visual representations and interpretations artists architects biologists chemists clinicians cognitive scientists computer scientists educationalists engineers graphic designers linguists mathematicians philosophers physicists psychologists and social scientists Data Structure and Software Engineering James L. This collection of advanced research incorporates global challenges and opportunities of technology integration while outlining strategies for distance learning within developing countries.

Multimedia Databases and Image Communication Maurizio Tucci, 2003-06-30 Multimedia technologies are rapidly attracting more and more interest every day. The Internet as seen from the end user is one of the reasons for this phenomenon but not the only one. Video on Demand is one of the buzzwords today but its real availability to the general public is yet to come. Content providers such as publishers, broadcasting companies and audio video production firms must be able to archive and index their productions for later retrieval. This is a formidable task even more so when the material to be sorted encompasses many different types of several media and covers a time span of several years. In order for such a vast amount of data to be easily available existing database design models and indexing methodologies have to be improved and refined. In addition new techniques especially tailored to the various types of multimedia must be devised and evaluated. For archiving and transmission data compression is another issue that needs to be addressed. In many cases it has been found that compression and indexing can be successfully integrated since compressing the data by filtering out irrelevancy implies some degree of understanding of the content structure.
